Installation of Electrical

TO DESTROY ODORS

South Side to be Given Relief From Annoying Condition

An improvement to cost the Solar Refining company $125,000, which will eliminate from the south part of the city offensive odors of sulphuric acid and effect a saving of $25,000 a year to the company, was announced Saturday by F. T. Cuthbert, president and general manager.

Preliminary survey of the grounds for the installation of an electrical precipitator to remove the fumes from sulphuric acid used to improve the odor and color of gasoline, kerosene and lubricating oils is being made by Samuel F. Spangler, resident engineer, here to build the plant and place it in operation.

Use of the pan system in the handling of acids has proven unsatisfactory and costly, Manager Cuthbert stated, particularly when the pans break down and permit the escape of large quantities of acid, to permeate the atmosphere in a disagreeable manner and work damage to paint with lead base on structures in all parts of the city, particularly on the south side, in vicinity of the plant.

OLD SYSTEM OBSOLETE

"We faced the necessity of renewing the old system or installing a more modern and approved plant," Cuthbert said Saturday, "and decided upon the system made by the Chemical Construction company, of Charlotte, N. C. The plant will have a capacity of 25 tons per day and will be ample for our needs. By the use of electricity, applied under the plans of the system that has been perfected in recent years, we will be able to not only effect a saving for the company, but will also eliminate complaint concerning fumes of acid hanging over the city and turning white paint on houses black, or making sooty, he added.

Cuthbert explained that it isn't always the river that is guilty when an offensive odor is detected in the south part of the city. Often it is due to acid fumes from the refinery, he stated. It is to remedy this condition that the Solar will expend $125,000. Cuthbert states that the saving in acid being wasted by the use of the present system will pay for the installation of the new plant in five years.

Spangler explains that the system will require the erection of a building 15x35 1/2 feet on ground now occupied by an office building, which is to be razed. The actual work will start in two weeks. The structure will be of steel frame, hollow tile walls and acid proof brick lining, for the housing of the equipment. A total of 90,000 acid proof brick will be required in the construction. Forty-five tons of lead work is necessary in the installation.

All fumes will be discharged into a tower, where electrical currents will intercept them, condense the acid that is going to waste and eliminate all smell.

A 45-foot tower will discharge the odorless fumes. The chemical-acid recovery system is being used by large oil refineries at various points. Spangler states his company recently completed the installation of a plant for the Standard Oil company at Hialeah, Fla. Nova Scotia, on the same principle as the improvement planned for the Lima refinery. It is near a large hospital, where complaint had been made continuously about the offensive fumes, but which have been eliminated entirely by the modern system.

Manager Cuthbert explained that the system now in use causes considerable trouble, time and expense, in acid being left in gasoline, which requires treating the product by running it thru steam stills. The test is made by the use of copper plates. If they are discolored, the gasoline must be given the steam still treatment, otherwise the acid would eat out pipes where later used.

Mothers Race
Baby Carriage

LONDON. — (United Press). — Mrs. Lily Groom of East Bournemouth, England, Master Groom Up—won the London to Brighton perambulator derby Saturday. The time was 12 hours and 20 minutes for the stiff 52 mile course. Mother and son are doing well.

Mrs. Groom pushing a rubber-tired perambulator at a snappy 4 1/2 miles an hour pace, took the lead at the 18th mile when Mrs. Ada Edwards, the favorite, stopped to feed her five-months-old charge, and was never thereafter headed.

Five mothers, each with a waiting offspring tucked into perambulator containing food first aid for infants, and accessories, started their course over the starting line at Westminster shortly after 7 o'clock Saturday morning.

Three of the starters finished strong, Master Groom gurgling joyously and waving chubby hands and feet in response to applause at the finish line.

President Ends
Vacation Trip

AUGUSTA, Ga. — (United Press). — Greatly benefited by nearly five weeks' rest and recreation in the south, President Harding Saturday night started back to Washington to plunge into accumulated work and for discussion with party leaders in preparation for his speech-making tour of the west.

Several thousand school children lined the streets while the president and Mrs. Harding reviewed them from an automobile.

The presidential party expects to be in Washington for lunch Sunday. Both Republicans and Democrats express the opinion that former Supreme Court Justice Clark will fail in his efforts to make the league of nations an issue in the next presidential campaign.

Girl Is Held In Jewel Robbery

NEW YORK. — (United Press). — Christina Magruder of Washington, D. C., was held in $5,000 bail Saturday on a charge of grand larceny behind the bare police record lies an amazing story of loss of $153,000 worth of jewels, for which Max Bernstein, gem merchant, who caused the girl's arrest, holds her responsible. Bernstein's attorney has issued a statement in which he says that Miss Magruder, thru an innovation of the "badger game," secured $120,000 worth of jewels from his client. Moreover, he says, the girl may have been responsible for a holdup which occurred in Baltimore a couple of years ago, in which the jeweler was relieved of $140,000 worth of stones.

9 Drown When Steamer Sinks

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass. — (United Press). — Bodies of nine sailors, believed to be practically the entire crew of the little steamer John Dwight, of New York, which foundered in Vineyard sound early Friday, had been recovered Saturday night.

The bodies with life belts around them, were found floating near the spot where the vessel was last seen in the western end of the sound. Seven of the dead, none of whom have been identified, were brought in by fishing vessels to Menemsha, a little fishing village on Marpau's Vineyard Island, and two more were landed at the Gathead coast guard station.

Probe Of Death
In Prison Begun

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — (United Press). — A special legislative investigating committee will convene here Monday to probe into the death of Martin Tabert, 20-year-old Munich, N. D. youth, who died in a state prison camp over a year ago.

The committee was appointed by the state legislature to investigate reports that Tabert had died as a result of brutal treatment at the hands of guards of the convict camp. Out of the death of Tabert, a state-wide demand has arisen for the abolition of the system of leasing convicts, now in operation in Florida prison camps.

HERRIN MURDER CASES DROPPED

Justice Cannot Be Obtained Attorney General Says.

MARION, Ill. — (United Press). — Prosecution of the bloody Herrin massacre cases was dropped Saturday after C. W. Middlekauff, assistant attorney general declared "justice cannot be obtained in Williamson-co.," the scene of the mine riots.

All murder and conspiracy indictments, returned against 26 citizens, of the county by a grand jury last August, were nolle prossed on petition of state's attorney Delos Duty, after the second attempt to secure convictions in circuit court failed by a jury's verdict of not guilty.

"It is a hopeless proposition," Duty declared in asking that the remainder of the indictments be nolle prossed.

"I have done my duty to the best of my ability. I have my personal opinion as to who committed these crimes and I did all that I could to convince two juries. It is useless to try again."

Duty was supported on his stance by Assistant Attorney General C. W. Middlekauff, director of the prosecution in the riot cases as a special representative of the Illinois attorney general.

"The prosecution is obliged to admit that justice cannot be obtained in Williamson-co.," Middlekauff declared.

Announcing the attorney general's office did not join in Williamson-co.'s request to nolle pross the indictments, Middlekauff said he believed Duty's request was justified.

"The law compels the state to prosecute in the county where the crime was committed. No jury can be obtained in this county that is impartial," Middlekauff said.

BANDITS CHASED

Posse Still Pursuing Slayers of Ohio Gas Man.

WOOSTER, Ohio. — (United Press). — Sheriff A. W. Bucher, leading a posse over northwestern Wayne-co in search of the remaining three members of a bandit quartet which Saturday killed Charles Bitzer, 35, foreman at a gas booster station near West Salem, reported early Saturday night that altho his deputies were not without clue, they had thus far been unsuccessful in rounding up the object of their search.

Bucher is thought to have been robbed of $50.

Daniel Nell, 19, taken from an Erie train near West Salem, admitted he, with three Ashland youths, had participated in the booster station robbery, authorities said.

Nell bore buckshot wounds received when Samuel Bush, a fellow employee of Bitzer, pursued the bandits with a shotgun.

MOTOR COACH
TURNED OUT

50 Men Will be Employed
In New Organization for

BUILDING LEASED

ufacturing Interests Is Announced

Announcement was made yesterday of the formation of the Superior Motor Coach Body Co., an organization of Lima men who have capitalized a company at $100,000, all of which has been paid in, to manufacture motor coach bodies here.

The company will take over the large building erected northwest of the Garford plant by the Whistley Co. to be used as a foundry plant. The building has been leased for three years with a purchase clause.

The plant will specialize in the manufacture of bodies for large motor busses for which the demand is rapidly increasing. It will supply the Garford with bodies for its line of coaches to which about half of the production of this concern now is devoted.

The building will be put in condition immediately and the new concern hopes to begin operations in 30 to 45 days. All arrangements have been completed, the lease for the building having been closed yesterday.

WILL EMPLOY 50 MEN

About 50 men will be employed at the beginning. Some men with an extensive knowledge of this business will be brought here, among them the manager of the plant, who is coming from one of the biggest body companies in the country.

Officers of the new company will be: Emmett R. Curtin, Sr., president; L. A. Larsen, vice president; and Howard P. Dean, secretary and treasurer. Other principal stockholders in the organization are: John E. Galvin, W. L. Parmenter, J. G. Noubaurer and H. L. Brockmeyer.

Arrangements have been made for necessary machinery to equip the factory to compete with any in the country. The building under lease affords floor space of approximately 25,000 square feet. This may prove inadequate in the future, it was said, and in this event a large factory building fully ample to meet the needs of the concern will be erected.

All stock will be held by the organizers, none being offered for sale to the public.

Announcement of the formation of this company adds materially to the city's manufacturing interests, particularly in the truck line. Coming on the heels of the reorganization of the Garford and the establishment of this big truck factory on a sound financial basis again, it is particularly significant.

BRIGHT FUTURE SEEN

The general tendency today is toward the development of the motor coach as a means of transportation between cities and to farm extensions to street railway systems. A great future is believed to be opening up in this direction.

Specialization of the Garford in this line and the formation of a body plant at this time gives Lima a big start in this infant industry for which much is predicted.

Since there are few body manufacturers in the country, the new Lima organization is particularly optimistic and believes a large portion of the body business will be brought to this city. With a running start thru the Garford patronage, a steady increase is seen which will mean plant expansion and increased employment.

KING'S DAUGHTER WEDS
COMMONER TOMORROW

PRINCESS YOLANDA OF ITALY AND THE MAN SHE MARRIES, COUNT CALVI DI BERGOLO.

Italy Move Closely-United Thru Approaching Marriage Of Princess

ROME — (United Press). — No event since the bloodless Fascist revolution that swept Premier Mussolini and his black shirted followers into power has so served to unite Italy and revivify an intense flame of nationalism as the forthcoming wedding of the Princess Yolanda, oldest daughter of the reigning house of Savoy to Count Calvi di Bergolo.

While all the amenities incident to a royal wedding are being observed—imposing state functions, lavish gifts, brilliant parties at the palace, and obseques of the diplomatic corps, Italians regard the marriage, which takes place Monday noon, as strictly an Italian affair. Yolanda, like Mary of England, is marrying a commoner, the man of her choice, a man of the people, since counts are not rare in Italy. Moreover, she is marrying an Italian when royal precedent would have given her hand to one of royal birth from another nation. Fascism in consequence, regarded this as a measure of triumph for its cause.

ACT OF KINDNESS

The princess signals her approaching nuptials with an act of kindness that results in 2,000 work-giving girls being returned to jobs from which they had been discharged. Her father, the king, gives 100,000 lire to the poor of Rome. Mussolini, son of a laborer, will act as civil clerk, at the first ceremony on Monday. In many ways Mr. and Mrs. Italian citizen, it not too radical, are being made to feel they are to have a part in the event.

No splendor, however, that might have embellished the wedding of an Italian princess to a foreigner, has been overlooked. The princess Saturday presided at an intimate luncheon and Saturday night with her dashing fiancé, she received members of the diplomatic corps.

KING IS SILENCED

The princess told her royal dad not so long ago.

"It's Calvi or nobody!" And when her father started to say something to her about the possible need for a marriage for state reasons, she kissed him, hugged him and said:

"You ought to be the last one in the world to advance such a reason you and mother who have been lovers all your lives."

The king was silenced.

In 1896, the king, then Italian crown prince, was about to be betrothed to a German princess—for dynastic reasons. But young Victor Emmanuel accidentally met the lovely Princess Elena, daughter of the king of the kingdom of Montenegro, fell in love, braved his father and said it would be the mountain beauty or nobody. He had his way.

The first child of the royal couple was the Princess Yolanda.

Italy gave valuable expression to grief and disappointment because the child was not a boy. Then

BLACKHAND
TO ARREST

Police Shoot Youth as He

NOW IN HOSPITAL

Miss Rogers Assists Police Officers In Apprehending
Elida Lad

Virgil Wisner, 16, Elida, confessed to police early Sunday morning that he was responsible for the black hand threat sent to Mrs. Edna Neely Rogers, 437 S. Woodlawn-av., two weeks ago, and was the person who tried to get into her house Saturday night, Chief of Police Lanker said.

He was shot by Walter Keller, police officer, as he tried to escape from the vicinity of the Rogers' home, but escaped for a short time and was later picked up on W. Market-st., while in a Ford car. He was taken to the city hospital.

In the dragnet which police threw over the city following the attempt to get into the Neely home, two other young men were taken to headquarters and held on suspicion.

C. W. Twining, R. F. D. 6, E. Fourth-st., admitted having been implicated in a number of store robberies in Lima during the past few months. J. E. Brooks, Lafayette-st., was not questioned.

Two weeks ago Mrs. Rogers received a letter signed "Black Hand" which threatened her life if she failed to carry out the instructions.

The letter directed her, on the night of April 17, between 9:30 and 10 o'clock, when she heard three raps at the back door, to place $1,000 on the back porch. The letter said that she should then go back in the main part of the house and the "black hand" would get the money.

Instead of carrying out instructions, she notified the police department. Walter Keller, his shot-gun, Cook were on guard when the youth arrived. Keller was in the garage 30 feet away from the entrance to the back porch and Cook was under the porch.

As the boy stepped to the door of the back porch Keller stopped out and began "raunching" his shot-gun. Cook pulled out the light switch darkening the house, and Mrs. Rogers ran to the telephone and notified the police, Keller said.

The youth started to run from the house, and Keller gave chase. Police Chief Lanker, Dick Watkins, Captain Strick and Detective Chief Kipker, rushed to the scene in the police car.

The fields, garages, yards and newly built houses in the neighborhood were thoroughly searched by police but no trace of the youth could be found.

Altho Wisner was slightly wounded in the leg, this did not hinder his speed in escaping from officers. After being taken to City hospital it was found several of the shot from Keller's shotgun had lodged in his leg. Attaches of the hospital said the wounds were not serious.

Twining was arrested by police a few blocks east of the Rogers' home and taken to headquarters, where he admitted being mixed up in some store robberies.

On a tip, police searched a vacant lot a block south of Circular-st and Central-av. Here they found four sticks of dynamite, a quantity of nitro-glycerine with a fuse which they said was to be used for the blowing of a safe. Police also recovered some of the loot taken from stores in the past few days.

THE LETTER

The letter Miss Rogers received said:

"We hate to break into your peaceful, quiet existence, but it is necessary.

"There are thirteen of us in this gang and you must do as we say or you will be killed.

"April 7 between 9:30 and 10 o'clock you will hear three raps at your back door. Then you put $1,000 on the back porch and I'll be waiting in the garage.

"You go back in the house and I'll get the money.

"Keep the lights in the house burning and don't tell the police.

"We mean business. Put the money out or you'll die.

BLACK HAND."

Miss Rogers showed great calmness during the excitement of the evening. She obeyed the instructions of police to a letter.

Police feel certain that the "black hand" the dynamite, nitro-glycerine plant and the store robberies are all the work of one bunch of youths.

Following an examination of Wisner, Police Chief Lanker said he was of the belief that the lad was not connected with the blackhand plot which resulted in the death of Bayon Stoeffel in the grocery of Alex George, his son-in-law, a few months ago.

HEADS OF FARM BUREAU QUIT

President W. R. Price, Secretary C. L. Miller Resign.

VICE PRESIDENT ADVANCED

Carson Mertz Picked to Assume Secretary Office.

Resignations of W. R. Price, president and C. L. Miller, secretary of the Allen-co Farm bureau were accepted at the regular meeting of the board of directors Saturday. Edward Stalter of Spencerville, was elected to fill the unexpired term of Price, and Carson E. Mertz was chosen for the position vacated by Miller. Herbert Marshall, of Beavercreek, was elected vice president, opened by the election of Stalter to the presidency.

No reason was given at the local farm bureau office for the resignation of Price.

The board discussed club work and devoted a part of the meeting to working out a plan for financing club activities through the county. It was decided to hold an exhibit of work accomplished by the various clubs some time this fall, regardless of whether there is a fair or not, but in conjunction with the fair if one is held.

Committees were appointed to work out complete plans for the financing of club work. A chairman was appointed for each township, whose duty it will be to select two men to assist him with the work.

A committee was appointed to confer with Lima banks and building and loan companies in regard to soliciting their assistance in the club projects. Those comprising the committee are W. T. Acener, Judge William Klingner and O. N. Dickinson. Each local officer was furnished with suggestions for the conduct of township meetings. These suggestions were worked out with much detail in a recent conference and form a valuable guide to community leaders.

Plans are under way to organize a local farm bureau unit at Landolt, April 24. H. J. Ridge, county agent, is in communication with J. P. Gengler regarding organization.

Boys' and girls' club work will be the subject of discussion at the Lafayette farm bureau meeting Thursday evening. H. J. Ridge will speak on the subject of crop rotation and Carson E. Mertz, of the Allen-co Livestock association will talk on grades of live stock.

H. J. Ridge will speak to the Parent-Teachers' association at Elida Friday evening at the high school.

E. Anderson, representative of the Lima marketing department of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, will meet directors and managers of cooperative elevators throughout the county at Beavercreek Tuesday evening.

Anderson will confer with the executives in regard to the more orderly marketing of farm products. State and national organizations are working out plans to assist the local elevators in their buying and selling plans and he will bring these suggestions to the meeting.

Edward Stalter will preside at the regular meeting of the Spencerville unit Tuesday evening. Work of boys' and girls' clubs will be discussed.

Plans for the formation of a community club will be discussed at a meeting at Westminister Wednesday evening.

GRANGERS PLAN ORGANIZATION

Meet Here Saturday for Improvement Discussion.

Discussion of ways in which local Grange units are furthering the advance of the organization was one of the features of the meeting of the Allen-co Grange at Memorial hall Saturday. Six township bodies were represented.

The morning session was devoted to routine business. J. W. Weaver, lecturer, read a paper from the state master which suggested methods of improvement for local units. Reports from subordinate Granges showed them to be in good condition financially.

Speakers at the afternoon session were T. W. Ditto, Mrs. John Binkley and J. A. Book. They emphasized the social value of the Grange and urged the encouragement of juvenile units.

Clair Patterson, Hugh Wolford, John Binkley and C. R. Morgan spoke on the subject of what the local Grange is doing to promote the general welfare of the organization. Erection of Grange halls, institution of contests for membership and attendance were some of the plans for improvement offered.

Jackson-Tp was chosen host for the next meeting which will be held the first Saturday in June. Townships having representatives at the meeting Saturday were Jennings, Riverside, Jackson, Marion, Shawnee and Perry Center.

COULD YOU SPEND MILLION DOLLARS A MONTH?

(BY EDWARD THIERRY)

NEW YORK — (Special) — Could you spend $7,000,000 a month? Or even $1,000,000 a month?

Dizzy incomes, these. One is Henry Ford's. The other is what John D. Rockefeller, Jr., gets in Standard Oil dividends alone.

The Senate investigation of the oil industry disclosed that young John D. owns one-sixth of the stock in the various Standard Oil companies and that his income, excluding dividends from railroads and other enterprises is about $12,000,000 a year.

Ford himself doesn't know what his income is. He says he can't tell within $15,000,000 what he has in the bank. Last year he admitted he paid $76,000,000 income tax, but this included the manufacturers' tax. It has been estimated that his personal income is about $85,000,000.

BOTH HAVE SIMPLE TASTES
Unlike the fictionalized Browster these two men don't even try to keep up to it. Both have simple tastes.

Rockefeller has a seven-story house in New York, a week-end house near his father's Pocantico Hills estate called Aboyton Lodge, and a summer home at Seal Harbor, Me.

Ford's house at Dearborn, Mich., is a rambling stone structure on a 7800-acre estate and has about 20 rooms. Nearby is his farm. His only other home is a cottage next to Thomas A. Edison's winter place at Fort Meyers, Fla.

Servants in the Rockefeller town house number 25. Ford has built that number at Dearborn; two of them are Japs.

Each has several automobiles. For years Rockefeller drove himself in an electric runabout. Ford often drives a Ford coupe, but he also has a Simplex and several other big cars.

Rockefeller, like his father, has never owned a yacht. Ford has a small yacht on the Great Lakes, and an electric boat on the River Rouge.

Neither has ever gone in for racing horses, show horses, polo, or any of the other millionaire sports. Both like to chop wood; Rockefeller and his three sons cut and carry wood when they are in the country; Ford helps out the firewood on his regular yearly camping trip.

NEITHER PLAYS MUCH GOLF

Neither cares much about golf; last winter Rockefeller took his first lesson while visiting his father at Grand Beach. He prefers to play the violin. Ford's best-loved sports are ice skating in the winter and camping in the summer.

Ford travels more than Rockefeller does. Both use private railroad cars. Ford's is called the "Fair Lane." He likes speed when he rides in an automobile, averaging 40 to 45 miles an hour.

Rockefeller dresses better than Ford does. He clings to the silk hat for formal wear, while Ford rarely wears a hat at all. Ford's friends say his suits are "hand-me-downs."

Neither cares for social activities. Nor do their wives. Neither Mrs. Rockefeller nor Mrs. Ford care for diamonds. They are both the old-fashioned mother type. The Rockefellers have four children; Abby, who made her debut last fall, John D. 3rd, Nelson and William. The Ford's only child is Edsel, who has two children. Edsel has a separate home at Gross Pointe, Mich.

Rockefeller is studious, scholarly, and religious. Ford's library is largely made up of technical works and he still spends much time in his private laboratory at home. He says he "believes in religion, but doesn't work at it much."

INJUNCTION HALTS DITCH PROJECT

Fixing of Costs and Damages Result in Suit.

Construction of the Watt drainage ditch, in Perry-Tp, near St. Johns, was halted Saturday noon by an injunction obtained in common pleas court by four landholders, restraining the county from proceeding with work on the project.

County commissioners are enjoined by the order from spreading the benefits and damages upon adjacent farming land, and County Auditor C. R. Phillips and Treasurer Harry E. Botkins, are restrained from assessing or collecting taxes for the ditch.

The disputed waterway has its source along St. Johns-rd. and Fourteenth-st. south of the city limits. The four protestants, Charles E. Wheeler, J. O. Linneman, W. H. Mackenzie and Ralph Mackenzie, were losers in a hearing held before the county board recently when they sought to halt the fixing of benefits and damages.

The injunction granted by the court will hold up the construction of the ditch until such time as the court makes its order permanent, or dismisses the suit.

Application for the Watt ditch was made before the commissioners by Sam C. Watt, wealthy Perry-Tp landholder. His proposal is to change what is now a tile ditch to open a waterway.

Plaintiffs in the action declare that the ditch is an unnecessary improvement, and is designed to relieve the pressure on the Ridenour ditch, in flood periods. They aver any improvements made should be put on the Ridenour ditch.

CHIEF'S INQUIRY CLEARS STRICK

Lanker Satisfied That Officer Is Innocent.

HAMILTON QUIZ NOT THRU

To Question Witness in Carter Case Monday.

Investigation made by Chief of Police T. A. Lanker into alleged third degree methods said to have been used in an effort to extort a confession from Earl Carter, alias John Miller, is concluded, he declared Saturday night.

Lanker said that he has completely satisfied himself that Police Captain George Strick did not touch the boy.

As for the other officers who were alleged to have been subjected the youth to a severe beating with a black jack, the description given in too meager for purposes of identification. Prisoners in the jail and officers on duty at the time were all questioned. No one seemed to know of the matter.

Lanker wound up his probe of the department's affairs by filing affidavits before Judge J. H. Hamilton. Inquiry started when young Carter told his story to Judge Hamilton.

Hamilton is not thru, he said Saturday. George Kelly, captured in Kentucky with Carter, is said to have seen part of what went on at the police station. He is to be questioned Monday.

NOT INTERESTED
Prosecuting Attorney Eugene T. Lippincott declared Saturday that the time was not ripe for his office to be interested in the case.

Strong arm methods are employed by all police departments, Lippincott declared. Without resorting to that manner of examination the average police officer would be unable to procure information, it was said.

Repeated rumors concerning the treatment of prisoners at the city jail have been leaking thru for some time past. A member of the Allen-co bar association declared Saturday that several of his clients had told of rough treatment when quizzed by the police.

A report that an old man serving time on a drunk charge had been beaten by an officer was investigated by Chief Lanker some weeks ago, without results. In the meantime the man is said to have been released from prison and warned not to talk.

KING'S DAUGHTER WEDS TOMORROW

came another sister, Mafalda, and finally the third child, a son, Umberto, the heir to the throne. Since then two more girls have been born to the royal family.

The three oldest children were under the strictest supervision of an English governess whose word was law. They were kept entirely out of the public eye for years. So much was this the case that it used to be gossiped in Rome that they were deficient. This was untrue.

It was only when Yolanda was eight that the public were allowed a glimpse into her existence.

Her father gave her the choice of three birthday gifts, a picnic in the country, or a holiday from all lessons, or a reception of poor children in the royal gardens.

She chose the latter and 500 orphans from the Messina and Calabria earthquake regions were invited to be her guests. Yolanda played games, picked flowers for the youngsters and gave away all her toys. That night she told her parents she had a perfect day.

HER FATHER'S PAL

As she grew up she became a great pal of her father. She shared with him his interest in coins; he has one of the greatest numismatic collections in the world.

As she loves outdoors sports, she often went out hunting and riding with him. When the war broke out she insisted upon her right to accompany him on his visits to the front and once nearly lost her life when an airplane bomb burst near her automobile.

When the king turned most of his palaces into war hospitals Yolanda promptly took nursing lessons and then worked hard in caring for the wounded.

Yolanda is fluent in English and French, a good musician and a painter. She swings a skilled tennis racket, pulls a strong arm, drives a motor cleverly and is noted for her skill as a horsewoman.

TAX LISTS WILL BE SCRUTINIZED

Dodging Will Be Difficult, Auditor Phillips Warns.

Automobiles must be listed at their true value on the tax return of personal property, according to a ruling handed down by C. R. Phillips, county auditor, Saturday.

Phillips force of assessors will commence the distribution of blanks Monday for filling out returns. Assessors are carrying instructions this year to assess every bit of personal property that can be found in the county.

"Too much property is escaping assessment," declared Auditor Phillips. "Many persons believe there is a sliding scale for appraising automobiles. They are mistaken. Each car should be listed at its true value. If the car will sell for $1,000, it should be listed for that amount."

OWNERS CANNOT ESCAPE

Motor car owners cannot escape paying taxes on their vehicles, according to Phillips. The county has a record of every machine in the county, obtained from the secretary of state's office, where license numbers are recorded.

Owners of diamonds are also warned to list their gems. Thousands of dollars worth of "rocks" are owned and sold in Allen-co annually, but very few of them show on the tax returns, the Auditor declared.

Another prolific source of untaxed wealth is money in banks, or hidden away. Phillips says many neglect to report all of it.

Other valuables which should be shown on the personal tax returns are furniture, livestock, pictures and paintings, watches, machinery, tractors, grain in storage, boats, musical instruments, and all other property except real estate and immovable machinery.

Bona fide legal debts may be deducted from the total amount of property available for taxation.

Each taxpayer making a return, must swear or affirm that the statements contained therein are true. Every citizen of the county above the age of 21 years must make out a return, Phillips declared, whether possessed of property or not.

MAY 1 CLOSING DATE

All returns must be filed with auditor Phillips on or before May 1, in order to obtain the $100 exemption.

The exemption is to be deducted from the total amount to be taxed, and not from any one item.

The property of a wife is separate and apart from that of her husband and should be so listed.

Horses and other animals should be listed as pure bloods, if so, or grades.

2 CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

Accused in Murder of Two Girls on Staten Island.

NEW YORK — (United Press) — With two men held under heavy bond in connection with the slaying of two girls whose bodies were found on Staten Island Friday morning, one of the victims was positively identified by four detectives Saturday as Miss Ethel Phillips, 17.

She had been living with her parents at Bayonne, N. J., until two weeks ago, when she disappeared.

Mrs. Irene Blandino, 21, of Jersey City, is the other victim. Her husband, James Blandino and Rosario Di Lorenzo, helper in the Blandino barber shop, are charged with manslaughter and held under $25,000 bond each.

Jersey City gangsters are being hunted with a revenge theory. More than a year ago, Mrs. Blandino's first husband was fatally wounded by gangsters who threatened to take further violence on the women.

$1,000,000 RUM STOCK SEIZED

Thousand of Cases of Liquor Taken in Broadway Raid.

NEW YORK — (United Press) — Seizure of more than a million dollars' worth of liquor in New York city, attack by a mob upon prohibition agents in Jersey City and capture of a fast run runner, with the subsequent sensational escape of two prisoners featured the past 24 hours' enforcement activities in this vicinity.

Dry agents raiding Angelo Leri's feed store in Jersey City were set upon by an angry mob after a boy had hurled a stone which precipitated the riot and forty police reserves, with drawn revolvers, rescued the federal men with difficulty. More than $50,000 worth of liquor was seized.

Thousands of cases of wines and liquors, estimated to be worth between $1,000,000 and $500,000, were taken by dry agents in a raid. The dominion warehouse on West Broadway was found to contain this wet hoard.

A wealthy New York man may be implicated in this seizure, federal officials said.

Seven men found on the premises were taken into custody.

SMUGGLED FROM CUBA

Much of the stock was smuggled into the country recently from Cuba, Saul Grill, who led the raiders, stated. Cases of liquor were found piled high on all five floors of the building. Between 6,000 and 10,000 cases were discovered, Grill estimated.

Dry clerks had been watching the building for some weeks and prepared a trap which they snapped Saturday. Grill and another agent posed as members of a huge bootleg ring and offered to pay alleged agents for the warehouse $1,500,000 for the building and its contents. The deal was to have been consummated Saturday.

Securing a search warrant and a squad of agents, Grill descended upon the place, broke open the doors and took possession. The men in the warehouse did not offer resistance.

Preliminary examination of the liquor shows it had been collected from all parts of the world, including France and Germany.

COMPANY HEAD TAKEN
William Cavanaugh said to be the president of the company owning the distillery, was among those taken into custody. Grill's negotiations for the purchase of the warehouse were said by officials to have been carried on with a man who represented himself as Cavanaugh's agent. This man was not apprehended in the raid.

While Grill was carrying out his coup, Captain Michael Ryan, commander of the coast guard cutter Munhagan, was hunting for two rum runners who dumped him into the water from the Battery wall early in the day.

Ryan, after a stern chase overhauled and captured two men in a small schooner, 12 miles out. The capture was effected after Ryan fired a few shots at the rum runners. He took the vessel in tow and landed at the Battery. Ryan was taking the two men ashore, when one of his own men fell overboard.

Calling to his feet, Ryan stretched to hold onto his feet, Ryan stretched from the wall with arms extended toward the floundering seaman. Whereupon the rum runners took hold of the captain's feet—but instead of holding on they pushed. The captain flopped into the water beside his struggling companion and the smugglers escaped.

FAMOUS CABARETS VANISH: WHAT DOES T. B. M. DO NOW?

(BY HARRY HUNT)

WASHINGTON. — (Special) — "Who let the cat out of the bag?" is the latest query agitating officials of the National League of Women Voters.

Publication of a recent story forecasting a fine fancy feminine fight at the league's Des Moines convention this month, with possible sweeping changes in the directing personnel and the policies of the organization, so disturbed the ladylike poise of some of the officials that they threatened to "get" the job of the correspondent who was so brash as to hint at such developments.

The suggestion that cut deepest, perhaps, was that a treaty of peace between the league and the National Woman's Party might be considered an effort to heal the present division in suffrage ranks and make the women's votes more effective. That the old-time leaders of the league declare unthinkable. No truce with the National Woman's Party, is their slogan.

However, an influential member of aforesaid party was seen entering the league headquarters one day last week. An expectant wait of half an hour outside failed to show her thrown out on her ear.

Which may be significant, if not interesting?

Apropos of women and publicity, no woman in Washington dodges it so successfully as Mrs. Herbert Hoover.

Not once during the whole of husband Herbert's public career, as a food administrator during the war, as head of the American relief administration and later as secretary of commerce, has Mrs. Hoover given an interview. How she does it is a marvel to some. Why she does it is a puzzle to others.

Mrs. Hoover is a puzzle to others who are trying to break into print and can't.

Right-hand lieutenant to Mrs. Hoover in staying off interviewers and others who would get her into the spotlight is her secretary, Miss Harding, an efficient college-bred young woman of the type you read about in story books.

"Last year," says Miss Harding, "while she was out on an inspection tour of the Girl Scouts, someone printed what purported to be an interview with Mrs. Hoover. It was a very nice piece, but as she hadn't given any interview she didn't like it. Indeed, it made her furious."

So, to date, Miss Harding insists.

SAME OLD STORY, MORE RAIN DUE

Rain—threatened showers—were in the offing Saturday night when this comment was prepared, with indications that arrival on the scene would not be long delayed.

One doesn't mind a little rain at this time of the year; in fact, it's expected. However, with a prediction of much colder tacked onto the current forecast, it's well, actually unnecessary and undesirable.

More rain, cloudy and colder Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. The preceding three days of words constitute the silver lining in the clouds of gloom in prospect. But that doesn't help Sunday conditions.

Devotees of the gentle art of "trailing" mushrooms are taking for action, but they realize it is a "teedle" early for the fun to spring in this latitude. Gentle showers and warm nights are necessary for the growth of "mushies."

The health commissioner has issued a warning to hunters to be sure they have real mushrooms before preparing them as palate ticklers. The season is generally short and uncertain, dependent upon weather conditions. In the use of mushrooms, it is better to be safe than sorry.

Mrs. Hoover's record scores 100 per cent zero.

Jules Jusserand, dean of the diplomatic corps and ambassador from France, is said to stand sponsor for this one: Teacher (to fourth grade pupils): "Who was Joan of Arc?" Eager Miss: "She was the mother of Noah."

With Harry Daugherty having settled the question of who is to be the Republican presidential candidate in 1924, speculation in Washington is running rife as to who will tail the ticket.

General opinion in circles where political gossip in gossip is that Calvin Coolidge will be sidetracked for a candidate that can help swing into line some state less securely Republican than Massachusetts.

Among the names presented to date are Charles C. Dawes of Illinois, Clifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania and Hiram Johnson of California.

Here are odds to any taker, however, that it will be none of those three. The sedate periwinkle of the Senate would drive "Iceman Maria" Dawes distracted inside a week. Pinchot and Harding would not team well. Johnson will run on no ticket that he cannot lead.

MRS. N. D. BAKER SUED BY GIRL

Ex-Secretary of War's Wife and Others Accused of Slander.

CLEVELAND — (United Press) — Alleging false and malicious slander, Miss Dorothy Clayton filed suit Saturday in common pleas court for $100,000 damages against the following:

Mrs. Newton D. Baker, wife of the former secretary of war.

Mrs. Benedict Crowell, wife of the former assistant secretary of war.

Mrs. Morris A. Black, wife of the president of the H. Black Company.

Miss Pearl Anderson, girl scout, director of the Cleveland Girls Council.

In her petition, Miss Clayton claims the four conspired to remove her as leader of a girl scout troop.

She claims that they published "false and malicious statements" concerning her character.

By reasons of these statements, according to the petition, she has suffered harm to her good name and reputation and has become nervous, sleepless, and that her health has become impaired.

The petition claims that the group was achieving notable success under her leadership when the defendants "became jealous" and sought to remove her.

HOOVER-BOND STORE IS THROGGED BY THOUSANDS DURING ITS OPEN HOUSE

Open house at the Hoover-Bond furniture company ended Saturday night after a three days' reception for the public. Managers of the store estimated that 7,000 persons visited the store on Thursday, the opening day, and 5,000 Friday afternoon and evening.

Visitors to the store Saturday were given souvenirs. The show rooms of the company, which were recently remodeled, were tastefully decorated and merchandise was arranged to the best possible display advantage.

Thursday evening the company entertained out of town guests at a dinner at the Argonne hotel.

Music throughout the three days' opening was furnished by Pence's Society orchestra.

PAINT, CLEAN UP WEEK APRIL 16

General Fund Money Available

COOPERATION IS SOUGHT

Reasons for Campaign Listed by
Dr. Sutter

Allen county will clean up and paint up during the week of April 16, the date designated by the Allen county board of health for the opening of the campaign.

Expenses of financing the disposal of debris that may be collected during the week, may be paid from the general fund, health officials state.

Dr. J. J. Sutter, county health commissioner, asks the cooperation of officials of all municipalities and townships in the cleanup work of the week.

Common sense rules of sanitation demand the removal of all filth and rubbish, Dr. Sutter declared. The health of any community is vitally affected by the amount of filth permitted to accumulate, he pointed out.

REASONS FOR ACTION
Dr. Sutter gave additional reasons for the active cooperation of every Allen county citizen in the coming campaign. Among them are the following:

The demands of self respect.

Cleanliness, which means good health, promotes prosperity.

Cleanliness placates the need for the sacrifice.

Clean homes and clean towns indicate a high type of citizenship.

Population growth of any city depends largely upon the impression it makes upon prospective citizens.

Cleanliness in a city indicates progressiveness. It encourages the return of casual visitors.

Clean exteriors affect the social and moral welfare of a population.

DELPHOS SCHOOLS WILL HAVE ARBOR DAY PROGRAMS

TO BUILD 6 BRIDGES

NORWALK, Ohio—Huron county commissioners have plans ready to build six bridges in the county this year.

ABE MARTIN

On Topics o' th' Day

"Here is the case of a reputable husband and citizen being shot down without warning in his own dining room 'cause he wanted a straight up egg. He had lived with his murderers for a year and a half, giving 'em ample time to find out how he liked his eggs. Competent witnesses have told us here that his preference for straight up eggs was common knowledge, that no restaurateur in town would think of serving him a flopped egg," declared Squire Marsh Swallow, today, in summation of the evidence in the Irene Moppe case. This case has caused wide comment on account of the mild provocation for such a crime. It shows how cheaply the lives of husbands are held by modern wives. A few years ago before women got out of housekeeping and into war work and politics and other downtown sports a husband could keep order in his home by the use of a few eggs. A few clumsy, heavy-jawed women would occasionally poison their husbands, and go to prison, but the pretties, nifty-looking women made other arrangements. Husband murderin' has become so common that nobody hardly looks up any more when a newsboy hollers, "Prominent husband bites the dust!" Lot of fellers that had aimed to marry are reconsiderin' it. The day hasn't fer off when insurance companies'll regard being married as a hazardous occupation. Any feller knows that if he gets married there's bound to be a little flare up an' misunderstandin' an' he don't want to feel like he's liable to get picked off ever time he uses the wrong fork, or wants the light bills cut down, or asks his wife to wait a month or two before she does anything about a hat. Women are moody, but we've allus been able to see a skillet or tea cup comin' in time to sidestep, but a pistol's different. Husbands like to live. Take any husband an' git him away from home an' he kin be as lively an' happy as any one. Life holds lots of things for husbands, unless they've been married eight or nine years. An' we don't believe any woman kin be happy for any reasonable stretch of time after killin' a man, specially a husband that wuz good to her a month or two at least. Even after she's married agin, or goes on the stage, there'll be times when she'll upbraid herself. There's so many ways to fix eggs, so many simple but allurin' egg dishes, that it hain't surprisin' that all husbands hain't o' one mind as regards 'em. Fixin' an egg is such a simple thing, so much better'n to git a new tailored suit made an' wadin' thro' a long tedious trial surrounded by a lot o' curious morbid people. O' course there's a nice way an' a brutal way to order an egg, but so many girls jump in an' marry fellers thinkin' they're goin' to board that no matter how a husband orders an egg in his own home he's takin' long chances.

Even one pimple can ruin your looks. S.S.S. stops pimples!

A beautiful complexion is born in your blood. It also dies there, if you let it. Blood that is rich in Blood-Cells is pure. It shows its purity through the skin.

When one pimple comes out on your face, you can be almost certain that there are more to follow. It also means that impurities are accumulating.

You will be startled how quickly and thoroughly you can stop skin eruptions and beautify your complexion with S.S.S. ing in your blood to make your complexion worse instead of better. Face creams will not solve the trouble. There is always one quick and sure way to make your complexion free from all eruptions, pimples, blackheads, and muddiness by building up the skin-purifying "machinery" which is in your blood. That is by building

Miss Ethel Rose, 422 E. Water St., Painted Post, N. Y., writes: "I followed your advice in regard to S.S.S., and am pleased to state that I have been greatly benefited by it. All that has been said in favor of S.S.S. I have found to be true as applied to my case, as it has certainly purified my system and my complexion is now clear. As you know, my trouble was pimples on the face, neck and chest."

up your red-blood cells. S.S.S. is admitted to be the leader among skin-beautifiers. Rich blood, rosy face. Poor blood, "muddy" face. There are thousands of women who wonder why their complexions do not improve in spite of all the face treatments they use. They should not continue to wonder. Increase your blood-cells—that is the only answer. Use S.S.S.—that is the other answer. S.S.S. contains only purely vegetable medicinal ingredients. It is also a remarkable builder of firm flesh, which is also important to beauty. It will all out your hollow cheeks, put the "ruby" of health in your cheeks, and the sparkle in your eyes. It is all done by building blood-cells. S.S.S. does it. Since 1828 S.S.S. has been beautifying complexions, and giving women physical charm—all through one great secret, the blood-cell. S.S.S. is known and accepted as one of the greatest of all body-cleansers and blood-builders. Try it if you have pimples, blackheads, boils, eczema and skin eruptions. S.S.S. is sold at all drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.

HOOPER WILL TO BE CONSTRUED

Heir to Teacher's $25,000 IS Missing; Cousins Next

An application to interpret the will of Miss Lucy Hooper, school teacher, who left $25,000, was filed in common pleas court Saturday by Clarence H. Kilinger, administrator of her estate. Kilinger in his application admits that a year's search thru western states has failed to locate Isaac Mayberry Hooper, heir to the bulk of his sister's fortune. The petition recites that it is the opinion of the administrator that Hooper is dead. The will filed in probate court shows that besides leaving property to her brother, the decedent made provision for a niece, Catherine Mae Stephens, of Selma, Ind., in the sum of $500. Kilinger asks that the following clauses as regards the will be interpreted:

"In case of a brother's death or my niece's, I wish their fortune to be given to my cousins, Mrs. Joe Bancroft and Mrs. Ella Jones, Altoona, Pa., and Mrs. La Van Scoys, of Tyrore, Pa. Another section of the will provides a $500 legacy to be used in buying markers for the graves of Lucy and Mary Hooper. Other clauses nominate the Lima public library and City hospital for bequests under certain conditions. Hooper has been missing 25 years. Within the past six months efforts to identify him with a vegetable peddler in Wichita Falls, Texas, have failed. The peddler, who claims his name is James Hooper, declines the money.

SAND SPRINKLING BRINGS RAIN

Scientific Method is Explained by Francis Warren

MADE POSSIBLE BY AIRPLANE

Dissipation of Clouds and Fogs Also Accomplished

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press) — Rain-making and dissipation of fogs and clouds by a process invented by Dr. L. Francis Warren is a scientific possibility and the further perfection of apparatus no doubt will prove its feasibility, said Dr. R. B. Moore recently to the Associated Press. Dr. Moore is chief chemist of the United States Bureau of Mines. While he has not yet had opportunity to see Dr. Warren's apparatus in operation, Dr. Moore has been interested in the method since its inception and has had faith in the soundness of the scientific principle on which it is based.

"The rain-making method consists in charging a dielectric (a material that retains an electric charge), such as fine sand, with a static charge, and then sprinkling this sand over the top of a cloud by means of an airplane," said Dr. Moore. "As everyone knows, clouds by means of minute particles of water, a large proportion of which are charged. All the particles in the same cloud are charged either negatively or positively and therefore, as they carry the same sign, they repel each other when they come into too close contact. This mitigates against the coalescence of the particles into a size that allows them to fall thru the atmosphere in the form of rain. Anything which will dissipate the charge on the particles will help coalescence and, therefore, will assist in precipitation."

Dr. Moore has no opportunity for personal observation," Dr. Moore continued, "in connection with the tests already made, but I have read the affidavits of the observers. From these it appears that a single airplane has been able to dissipate a cloud a mile or two long and over 1,000 feet deep in a few minutes by using about 100 pounds of charged sand.

"The apparatus which Dr. Warren uses for charging the sand is not by any means perfected, and he is able only to get 12,000 of 14,000 volts on the particle," Dr. Moore continued. "In addition it has not been possible, so far, to charge more than a small proportion of the sand grains. I see no reason why the voltage cannot be increased with improved apparatus, up to 30,000 volts or even more, and also why the percentage of charged grains cannot be greatly increased. Under such conditions a still greater effect should be obtained with a given weight of sand. "The work is still in its initial stages and it is difficult to state definitely its future possibilities. No trials have been made on fog, as the conditions have not been favorable for an airplane to go up in a fog and make the test.

"Fogs are a combination of mist or clouds in contact with the earth, mixed with more or less smoke. Whether it will be more difficult or easier to get rid of such fogs than has been the case with clouds high up in the air, is yet to be determined, but the methods certainly show great promise and justify complete investigation by a satisfactory series of trials with improved apparatus. If fogs can be dissipated, the result would be of tremendous value to cities such as London and San Francisco, besides being of great advantage to the air service in connection with its flying fields."

DETROIT'S O K SUITS ARGENTINES

The city of Detroit's judgment on motor car values has a far reaching influence.

Away down in Argentina, the city of Buenos Aires has just bought a fleet of 32 Dodge Brothers motor cars. Dodge Brothers car was chosen, according to city officials, because Detroit has more than 100 of them in its municipal service, with an impressive record for dependability and economy.

The sale was made by Julio Ferrer Hijo & Co., Dodge Brothers dealer, in the face of keen competition. All the cars are for the use of the police department, which is rated as one of the most efficient in the world. In the fleet are 20 touring cars, five limousines and seven ambulances. There are approximately 100 cities which operate Dodge Brothers cars in fleets of three or more, and several hundred others which have one or two in service. The average size of the Dodge Brothers fleet is 10. Los Angeles owns more than 100; Cleveland has 51; Newark, N. J., 23; Kansas City, 25. The city of Tokyo, Japan, uses 23 Dodge Brothers chassis in its fire department.

BOY DIGS GRAVES TO PAY TUITION

Many Novel Ways Adopted to Win Education

ONE WATCHES CHILDREN

Some Sleep in Coffin House to Save Room Rent

CHICAGO. — (Associated Press.) — The odd occupations followed by students at mid-western universities to pay their way thru school range all the way from serving as state legislators to sleeping in undertaking establishments to save room rent.

The state legislator is Everett A. Addington, of Indiana University, member of the house of representatives. He is blind, and to add to his income from the state he tunes pianos. His home is at Farmland, Ind. The boys who have solved their room rent problem by working in undertaking establishments in return for quarters attend the University of Nebraska.

Ordinary occupations, trades and avocations followed by thousands of students to help pay expenses are too numerous to enumerate; Indiana University alone reports 65 trades and employments. Some of the occupations are unusual.

At Kansas State Agricultural College a young man does housework and watches children while parents are absent. This institution has a detective whose occupation has been tracking cigarette bootleggers for the mayor of his town. Another boy there sells salad dressing, while a pair of boys hung out this sign: "Dancing Lessons and Ford Repairs."

A University of Nebraska boy took a contract to paint a house, and employed student help to finish the job. Honor stands, where sweets are sold without attendants, are not uncommon. A boy at Nebraska, operating such stands, reported his net profits averaged 65 cents daily. At Washington University, St. Louis, a student firm issues free blotter pads, making money out of the advertising thereon. The giving of blood for transfusion is a regular occupation of some University of Minnesota students. Marquette University reports one grave digger, a d an athlete who makes money as a dance hall bouncer. Indiana University, in addition to Mr. Addington, has two other blind students paying their way, a girl who crochets, and a boy who sells sandwiches. At Purdue about 75 per cent of the men are helping to pay their own way, while many young women also work. Among the Purdue workers is a young night engineer whose only hours of sleep are from 4:00 p. m. to 3:30 p. m., yet he has a prospect of winning highest honors for four years of scholarship. Ohio University students earn money for tuition in various ways. Some are official bearers of bodies at funerals, some teach Hebrew on the side, and one leases a house and sublets the rooms.

The Missouri legislature has under consideration a bill to appropriate $35,000 yearly for the employment of student labor.

HUNDREDS GUARD GOLD TRANSFER

Great Bank Consolidation Completed at Chicago.

THREE INSTITUTIONS MERGE

$110 Million Dollars is Moved Into New Quarters.

CHICAGO—(United Press)—Treasury, securities and gold of greater value than the combined wealth of King Tut and all other rulers of Egypt, moved thru the streets of Chicago Saturday night in completion of the west's largest bank merger.

The Illinois Trust and Savings Bank and the Merchants' Loan and Trust Company moved into the new ten million dollar Illinois Merchants' Bank building to begin business Monday as the Illinois Merchants' Trust Company in affiliation with the Corn Exchange National Bank.

The trio of banks will start their consolidated business with undivided profits of $50,000,000, commercial and savings deposits of $300,000,000 and trust funds of a half billion, making the institution second in the west, only to the Continental National Bank.

Several hundred men, armed guard, policemen, professional movers and others—participated in the transfer of securities, currency and gold which was completed Saturday night. Armored trucks, van and drays, their routes and time of movement kept secret, carried the treasure, every precaution being taken not to attract attention. Streets about the Merchants' Loan and Trust were roped off while a part of the street was torn up to move the monster safety deposit vaults holding millions in securities. As the vaults were moved, guards armed with rifles rode inside and men in plain clothes who kept their hands near bulging hip pockets proceeded and followed at intervals of every few feet. Value of the money and papers moved is near a billion dollars.

In the merger, the two banks that moved Saturday will retain a separate identity as the Illinois Merchants' Trust Company. The Corn Exchange National Bank, which will move into the same building as soon as it is finished, will also retain its identity but the trio will be called the Illinois Merchants' Bank.

John J. Mitchell, who started his career in 1875, as a messenger boy for the old Illinois Trust at $12 a week, will head the three banks, it was generally admitted Saturday night. He will be drafted from his present capacity as chairman of the boards of the Illinois Trust and the Merchants' Bank. Mitchell's career and fight power in the financial world is almost spectacular as the growth of the financial structure of the west. Starting penniless, he now holds a long list of directorships of eastern as well as western financial institutions.

The three banks, each with history of 50 years in the west, will start Monday with a combined total of 200,000 saving depositors and 20,000 commercial depositors.

FORUM SPEAKER HERE TODAY

RAYMOND ROBINS

ROBINS TO SPEAK ON REVOLUTION

Russian Situation is Subject at Last Forum Meeting.

Raymond Robins, official emissary of the United States to Russia in 1919, will speak on the Russian Situation Sunday at the last meeting of the Lima Open Forum at Trinity church. Robins is known as America's foremost authority on what is really going on in Russia. He was ordered into Russia while serving with the American army in France to report on the revolution to the state department. Robins investigated and reported that the Bolshevik government was apparently stable and due for a long regime.

This report, which was exactly contrary to the general belief held by western governments, was much discussed for many months. Robins was repudiated by the United States when criticism was at its height, but was later accepted as an authority. Robins is also an orator of high ability.

BONES GUIDE TO HIDDEN TREASURE

Skeletons Found in Mexican Hills But No Gold

MEXICO CITY — (United Press)—Americans and Mexicans are prying into the mysteries of "Treasure Mountain."

High up in the Sierra Madre mountains, near the village of Cruz de Piedra, in the State of Mexico, Indians say is buried a large amount of gold and silver—treasure of brigands.

It is believed the treasure, if it exists, was stolen many years ago when gold and silver was carried overland from the Pacific coast to Mexico City. It may be pirate gold, some say.

Headed by Adolf Sandoval, the little group of Americans and Mexicans have begun efforts to find the missing treasure.

For many years Indians have told stories of the treasure hidden on top of the mountains, but these were believed to be legendary tales, until a few months ago when an old Indian attempted to cash a gold bar at the bank in a nearby city. The banker saw that the gold bar was not the kind now made and called in the police.

The old Indian told of the treasure which he said was enough to pay off the national debt of Mexico. He claimed that the story of the treasure was passed on to him by his father.

The Indian then led a group of officials on a hunt for the treasure. He told them to start digging at a certain point until they reached an underground marking stone. This they did and the stone was found. Then he told them to dig until they found a cross and the bones of two Indians who, he said, were killed by his father when he sealed the cave in which the treasure was placed. This was done and the bones were found.

But—and here the mystery deepens—the next morning the Indian had disappeared and, according to the story, has not been seen since. Attempts were made to find the treasure, but of no avail.

5 DIVORCES ARE GRANTED IN DAY

Three Wives, Two Husbands Freed From Mates.

COURT "EMANCIPATION DAY"

Alimony Suit Filed — Order in Simmons Case.

Emancipation day, relief from marital difficulties, was observed in common pleas court Saturday, with Judge Fred C. Becker stary in the role of the liberator.

Three wives and a pair of husbands were freed from matrimonial restriction, on common grounds of gross neglect, seasoned with a little cruelty.

Testimony offered by Jesse Mowory, laborer, 631 S. Central-av, tending to prove that Mrs. Hazel Mowory had been guilty of indiscretions with hither men, won him a divorce and the custody of his son Don.

Mowory told the court his wife was out at night with men and that she was slack in the performance of her household duties.

WIFE PAID CHECKS A deluge of alleged worthless checks scattered about by Charles H. Van Horn, proved exceedingly embarrassing to his wife Wawa Van Horn, 631 E. Elm-st she told Judge Becker.

"They were always calling up and trying to locate him," she declared. "I paid some of the checks and urged him to stop. He said it was all right; that nothing would be done about it."

After borrowing money and mortgaging her possessions, to meet the various paper scattered about town, the wife came to the limit of her resources and patience, she said.

"We parted," she declared, "and I haven't seen him since."

The wife was uncertain as to whether Van Horn is in jail or not, altho she said he was arrested.

The court granted a decree with the right to resume her former name, Wawa Kane.

Custody of her four children, aged from 13 to 18 years, and $6 a week alimony was awarded Mrs. Catherine Deken, in a decree which terminated a 23 year marital voyage with William C. Deken, a farmer. The plaintiff is employed as a domestic.

She told the court that Deken failed to support her and finally ceased working.

Roger Stough, waiter, 866 W. Elm-st, obtained a divorce from Goldie Stough, on grounds of gross neglect.

DECREE IN CARR CASE

Margaret Carr obtained custody of her son Charles and $14 a month alimony under terms of a decree granted her from Clarence Carr. She alleged gross neglect and failure to support her.

An answer to a petition seeking a divorce filed by Julia McClain, against Benoney McClain, 519 E. Vine-st was placed on record. The defendant refutes assertions made by the wife that he has not supported her property.

Mrs. Nellie M. Simmons was awarded the sum of $8 a week temporary alimony and $40 for counsel fees, at a hearing in common pleas court Saturday. Raymond Simmons, defendant, obtained the privilege from the court of paying the amount allowed for attorney fees at the rate of $10 each week.

An action for alimony was instituted by Mrs. Simmons in common pleas court several weeks ago.

Bill, Faurot Elk, Sprouts Door Knobs

Career of Violence Ends When Antlers are Disconnected

Faurot park will open as soon as weather conditions permit, Fred Loesch, superintendent of the park, announced Saturday. It is probable that Lima's outdoor recreation center will be available to the public by May 1, if April settles to consistent behavior.

There have been no acquisitions to the Faurot family of animals with the exception of a small bear which the youngster now weighs about 10 pounds and will soon be able to sit up to the table with its parents, Loesch opines.

Bill, the big elk, whose career of violence was terminated by the annual loss of his antlers, is a changed animal. Within the past two weeks he has acquired a small pair of door knobs, which Park Superintendent Loesch declares will become antlers if given time. Four months is the time required for the growth of a new set.

Bill usually endeavors to display enough temperament during the other eight months to last thru the period of meditation while his head is tender and his antlers are returning. The big elk has decidedly quit charging the fence and strolls about the lot with the thoughtful expression of an elk that has seen better days and more antlers.

Only the more hardy animals are in the open at present, or those whose winter quarters provide means of getting before the public. Residents in the vicinity of the park report that the pack of Arizona coyotes announce confidently the coming of food or the failure of food to come—it seems to make no difference to them.

The monkeys, alligators and birds are housed in warmer quarters and will be placed in their exhibition pens as soon as spring arrives definitely, Loesch said.

The collection of animals, now numbering about 40, will probably be increased during the summer by donations from citizens.

RESUMPTION SEEN ON SEWER WORK

Bonding Firm to Decide Monday on Completion.

Action to be taken by the Royal Indemnity company, bonders of the Fred H. Jones Construction company, toward completion of the work on city sewer contract B, will be determined at a meeting in Cleveland Monday between representatives of the Jones company and the bonding firm, it was learned Saturday.

The Jones company, sublet the contract to Glen Wiley, violating the terms of its agreement with the city, and Wiley abandoned the work more than a month ago with two-thirds of it undone. Financial and technical difficulties led Wiley to give up the job. It is reported.

Two more claims were filed against the Jones company by Wiley's creditors Saturday. Robert E. Jones, local hardware dealer, filed an affidavit claiming $1,099.15 still due of gasoline Saturday.

The job, and another creditor appeared before Justice William H. Guyton and presented a claim for $104.26.

Representatives of the Jones company who conferred with city officials Saturday were apparently optimistic over resumption of work on the contract and promised that operations would begin within a few days. Loss of 70,000 or more was caused by abandonment of the work, it is estimated by bonding company representatives.

CLEVER DRESSER TELLS HOW

Consider Soul When Buying Clothes, is Advice

(By MARIAN HALE)

NEW YORK — (Special) — Do you think of your body or of your soul when you buy a gown?

The chances are, if you concentrate on your height and width and ponder as to whether checks or stripes are your best bet, you don't stand out as a distinctive dresser.

But if you think of your temperament and your talents and your aspirations and all those soulful things, and buy your clothes to express them, you probably are less likely to be death answering the question. "Where do you buy your clothes?"

All this I learned from Louise Faulconer, who is a regular Bolshevik when it comes to smashing sartorial traditions. She has so many radical ideas about dress she simply had to open a shop of her own in New York so she could show the world, at least the commercial world, that she's right.

"Clothes never look the same on two women, not because their sizes may not be identical, but because their personalities are different," she explained.

"When you think of your friends you don't classify them as to size, do you?" she demanded. "You don't think of Jennie as the tall girl, Mary the short one and Julia the one who is getting too stout. You think of Jennie as that vivacious creature, Mary as the moody one whose feelings must be considered and Julia as the best natured person in the world."

"When I plan clothes for a woman, I don't consider her height or her weight, unless it's abnormal, because it's my business, if I know anything about dressmaking, to be able to keep her lines in proportion; but I do study her temperament. "The lively girl can wear the gay, festive clothes that would be entirely too vivid for the more sedate person. Jazz girls and jazz clothes are made for each other."

"The sedate girl can suggest her moods by the introduction of rich and vivid tints in moderation, but she completely submerges her personality if she makes her clothes too gay."

"The movie stars all clothe their personalities. Mary Pickford doesn't attempt what Nazimova does, and Gloria Swanson would be a poor model for Mabel Normand."

"Never judge what you will look like in a frock by seeing it on someone else. When you look into the mirror, don't cheat. If you don't look right you are unattractive and must alienate the discord."

"A pretty girl is always best in simple clothes that detract nothing from her personal charm. The ugly woman needs the marvelous clothes so they will detract the attention from her face."

ZEITS WILL FILED

F. W. Zeits Among Those Who Receive Requests.

Fred W. Zeits, former civil service commissioner, 823 W. North-st, will inherit an 80-acre Perry-tp, farm under the terms of the will of his father, the late John Zeits, who died on April 2. The document was filed in probate court Saturday.

The will also makes provision for paying Zeits $1,600 out of the personal property. Mrs. Mary C. Creps will also receive 80 acres in Perry-tp, but must pay L. J. Zeits, her brother, $2,000, if the personal property does not amount to that much, after Fred Zeits' bequest has been subtracted. L. J. Zeits is to receive 60 acres of land and $2,000 either in personal property or from Mrs. Creps.

If the personal and other property exceeds the amount of the bequests, it is to be divided among the heirs named share and share alike.

Fred W. Zeits and L. J. Zeits are nominated executors under the will.

FINANCE COMPANY HEAD ARRESTED

Charged With Obtaining Money
Under False Pretense.

ARRAIGNED IN WAPAKONETA

Better Business Bureau Ends Firm's Activities.

Activities of the alleged non-existent Allen Mortgage and Security company of Ft. Wayne were terminated Saturday by the Lima Better Business bureau after an investigation which extended over more than a year.

O. A. Stuhldreher, who, it is alleged, acted variously as president, secretary and salesman, is out on $2,500 bond, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses. He is charged specifically with having sold to Dr. J. H. Heileman and his 10-year-old son, of Waynesfield, stock in the Allen Mortgage and Security company, which records from the secretary of state of Indiana show has never existed.

Stuhldreher, arrested in Wapakoneta, waived preliminary examination before Justice of the Peace Herrmann and was released on bond.

J. E. Morton, of the Better Business bureau, first became interested in the case about a year ago when Dr. Heileman reported he was receiving no more dividends from the stock he held in the company, which was to pay 7 per cent, he said. The assets of the company, according to literature sent out from Ft. Wayne, was invested in first mortgages on real estate.

Investigation of county records at Ft. Wayne failed to disclose registration of the Allen Mortgage and Security company, it is declared, despite the fact that Indiana laws require the registration articles of incorporation in the county in which business is done.

Information was received March 3 by Melvin Light, Better Business bureau attorney, from the secretary of state of Indiana that no such corporation was on record in the files of the department.

SEARCH FOR THREE
A search followed to establish the identity of three men connected with the company. J. C. Reber, the salesman who sold Heileman the stock; L. M. Goetz, whose signature appeared on the stock as secretary, and H. C. O'Brien, president of the company, were sought.

Identification Friday by Dr. Heileman of Stuhldreher as Reber, the salesman, resulted in his arrest. Examination of various signatures used on the certificates indicate, it is alleged, they were written by the same man.

The first sale of stock in the company was effected in April, 1921, when Dr. Heileman invested liberally. Dividends came in promptly and further investments were made. In September, 1922, Dr. Heileman invested the last of his savings and soon thereafter dividends ceased coming, he declared. Inquiry at the Better Business bureau in Lima as to the status of the company resulted in an intensive research which resulted in Stuhldreher's arrest.

Stuhldreher's sale of stock to the Heileman family was not confined to the doctor, but extended to Gail W. Heileman, 10-year-old son, who invested two Liberty bonds in two shares of stock. In a letter to the boy the company congratulated him upon his good judgment.

ACTED FOR ANOTHER FIRM
Stuhldreher's financial activity did not end with the sale of stock in the Allen Mortgage and Security company, Norton declared. Last summer he acted as Ohio manager for Joseph Polak and company of Ft. Wayne, which Ohio license was revoked in July, 1922, due to activities of the Better Business bureau, it is asserted.

He disposed of a number of German industrial bonds to residents of Lima. It is stated. The question of the bonds does not enter into the present charge against him, however.

Stuhldreher, it is declared, was sentenced to the penitentiary from Dayton several years ago for tendering forged warehouse receipts at Dayton for loans.

The Better Business bureau is unable to determine exactly what further plans Stuhldreher had in mind, as a letter written a year ago to a local man proposed the formation of the company for which he had been delivering stock for more than a year.

Stuhldreher refused to make a statement when arrested, except to say that he was not guilty but would find the right man if given time.

KLAN IS RULED BY TRIUMVIRATE

Committee in Charge While Case Is Before Court.

ATLANTA, Ga.—(United Press).—A triumvirate ruled the Ku Klux Klan Saturday night.

Colonel W. J. Simmons, emperor of the order, Dr. H. W. Evans, imperial wizard, and J. M. George, a marshal of Atlanta municipal court, were in temporary authority over the "invisible empire" following a court order issued by Superior Judge Ed Thomas late Saturday.

The activities of the secret order will be directed by the committee of three until a hearing is held on the petition of Colonel Simmons asking that he be placed in absolute command of the organization. The petition is expected to be heard sometime next week.

The triumvirate is the fourth legally constituted governing body under which the Klan has functioned within the past week.

At the beginning of the week the Klan was under the leadership of Dr. Evans and his staff.

Late Monday Simmons, in Fulton-co superior court secured a temporary injunction ousting Evans and placing himself in absolute authority.

Following this, Evans at 2 a. m. Thursday morning obtained a court order vacating Simmons' injunction and placing Sheriff J. I. Lowry in charge of the imperial palace of the Klan.

During the one day rule at the palace, Simmons' followers claimed to have discovered shortages in the funds of the Klan and swore out warrants against N. N. Furney, and T. J. McKinnon, members of Evans' staff, charging larceny after trust of approximately $107,000.

Late Saturday afternoon Municipal Judge Hatchcock, dismissed the charges against the men after he had held that sufficient evidence had not been introduced to warrant a case against them.

A third faction entered the "family quarrel" of the Klan yesterday when H. B. Terrell, and other members of the Atlanta Klan, filed a petition that neither Colonel Simmons nor Dr. Evans is legally entitled to head the order and that the funds of the Klan are in danger without a proper person in charge.

Dissension broke out in the ranks of the Klan when Simmons promulgated the Kamela, a secret order for women on the lines of the Klan and Evans issued an edict denying Klansmen the right to participate in the organization.

RUSSIAN EASTER USHERED IN WITH PEALING BELLS

MOSCOW—The Russian Easter was ushered in with pealing bells on a hundred Moscow churches, while Bolsheviks demonstrated their disbelief in all forms of religion at meetings throughout the city.

Orchestras and brass bands vied with the solemn music of organs as young communists who last year dragged effigies of Christ thru the streets sought by contrast to appeal to the populace, without his year's demonstrations reaching the extreme of other years.

There was even some dispute among Russians as to whether this was Easter or not, the calendar having undergone various unofficial changes at the hands of recent Russian administrations since the czar's time.

WARNING ISSUED ON MUSHROOMS

Health Commissioner Tells How to Know Real Ones.

Every year during early spring and fall a large number of people are poisoned by mushrooms, according to a warning issued by Dr. J. J. Sutter, Allen-co health commissioner. Seventy-five per cent of those poisoned die, he declared, to emphasize the necessity of extreme care in the use of the edible.

Two or three poisonous mushrooms are sufficient to cause death, the symptoms of which usually appear within 6 to 15 hours. Death usually results at the end of 3 to 5 days. First indications of poison begin with sudden pain in the stomach accompanied by thirst, vomiting and diarrhea. After three or four days in children and six to eight days in adults, the victim sinks into profound coma and death.

Only a skilled mycologist can distinguish edible mushrooms from the poisonous. Dr. Sutter warned and offered the following hints to facilitate the recognition of each.

The volva, or ring, is found on the poisonous and is absent from the edible mushroom.

The poisonous mushroom has white gills while the edible has pink gills. Fungi in the button or expanded stage should be avoided, also those in which the flesh has begun to decay.

Many puff balls are poisonous. Mushrooms with white spores are poisonous.

The 'corn-cob like mushroom is edible. If in doubt as to whether a fungus has been collected, it is not edible.

PENFIELD WILL BE ARRAIGNED TUESDAY

CINCINNATI — Arraignment of A. H. Penfield, former cashier of the First National Bank of Springfield, indicted by a federal grand jury on 12 counts, charging embezzlement of $977,233.43, has been set for Tuesday morning before Judge Smith Hicklenlooper.

Specific charges of embezzlement prior to September 6, 1920, were not made in the indictment because of the grand jury's desire to keep within the three year limitation period. Penfield, however, has confessed to embezzlements covering a period of more than 10 years.

CROWDS JAM K. C. ON LAST NIGHT

Saturday Evening Ends Week's Carnival at Club.

Traffic managers were needed to keep in circulation the Saturday crowds which jammed thru the doors of K. C. Recreation building on North-st.

Attendance at the seven-day festivities, which has been increasing nightly according to those in charge, attained its peak Saturday and taxed the capacity of all floors.

Ticket sellers early in the evening estimated that 2,600 persons had gone past the gate at a time when none of the after theater parties had yet arrived.

The pleasure seekers, old and young, men, women and children drifted about the amusement hall in human eddies, frequently being swept past their particular place of amusement by the very impetus of the crowd. But it was a good natured crowd and took its jostling philosophically.

Saturday night ended a week's entertainment by the Knights of Columbus. Three floors of amusements have been running every evening. The nightly parade headed by the Lima band made its last appearance over the torch lit route at 7:15.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS

THE week has been general in character, with fluctuations very narrow in all lines of business. Food costs the country over show a decline in fifteen cities, and normal in ten others, with a slight increase in southern cities and Cleveland, of less than one-half of one percent. The check in rising prices has undoubtedly started, and while the motor and equipment companies still flourish around capacity, oils, rails, chemicals and food shares, except sugar, are steady to weakness.

The position of the farmer has notably become benefited during the present quarter. Too often based alone on wheat, rising prices have come to him in cattle, hogs, corn, cotton and produce. The farmer is buying in greater volume than for the past three years.

Locally, Lima continues to grow, the estimate of population being at 45,000. Circulation of The Lima News indicates an increase in home occupants by four thousand since September 1920. Retail trade is active and strong, with heavy buying in women's wear, a big pickup in men's wear and accessories, and a good volume in furniture, house furnishings, paints and lower priced luxuries.

Savings at the banks and Building & Loans show a steady increase for the present quarter. This is the barometer of prosperity of the masses and proves at present wages the laboring man, always the real strength of the nation, has a good margin over actual necessities. And this in the face of the fact that the standard of living is fully one-third higher than before the war.

The strike of the carpenters influenced building to but a perceptible degree, with the coming of the first of the month. Contractors maintain there is no shortage, and that new labor is being drawn here from the smaller towns. New housing is going rapidly forward, and especially apartment construction. Apartments at present rentals, more than offset increased building costs, architects claim. It is no trouble to rent modern apartments ranging in price from $40 to $85, and garages extra.

Down town real estate is dull, together with outside semi-business property. Taxes are the fear of investors in this class of real estate.

MORE INDUSTRIES

A NNOUNCEMENT was made yesterday of another important addition to Lima's rapidly growing industrial system. An organization of local men, having vision and willing to back their judgment with their money, will give to Lima its first exclusive motor coach body concern. Operation will begin within the next few weeks.

This plant will employ approximately 50 men at the beginning. Indications are that it will expand; that it will become one of the industries of the city that will employ men constantly without layoff, a most desirable feature from the standpoint of the community.

Motor coach business is growing by leaps and bounds. These vehicles are in common use in many sections for transportation between cities and towns and are being employed extensively in cities to solve the ever increasing transportation problems. They are finding a well defined field in the matter of extending street railway systems, it being cheaper and more satisfactory to add busses than to lay street car lines.

The new concern here will have the advantage of a big home industry specializing in these coaches—the Garford. This concern will build hundreds of these conveyances, providing constant orders for the new plant. Other truck concerns will do the same and it is only reasonable to believe that a fair share of their business will come here. While there are a number of concerns manufacturing busses, there are very few plants engaged in the making of bodies for them, hence Lima is getting a plant in an infant line that promises to grow rapidly in the future.

there being practically no limit to its possibilities. The city is fortunate in having stable industries which provide work for hundreds and thousands of men and women. Only thru additions and expansion can Lima grow and the men who are making possible this important addition are to be congratulated for the part they are playing in building up a greater city to the advantage of all.

WHITHER BOUND?

FUTURE of cities in Ohio is anything but roseate in contemplation, as the tendency toward the necessity of more and more expense for public upkeep is noted.

Under laws as they have been existing for years, it has apparently been impossible for a sufficient amount of money to be realized from taxation to meet ever-growing costs and the expense of new departments of endeavor added from time to time.

Tax measures evolved by master minds and enacted into law by legislatures have not been permitted to stand, even when it was demonstrated that they were solving the problems that presented themselves. Other legislatures that followed persisted in tinkering and tampering with them, until the same conditions again prevailed and cities faced the danger of "going broke."

Other remedies having been destroyed, new methods were adopted, with little or no success. Really reappraisement has now been hit upon as the panacea for municipal financial ills. The legislature has enacted a law providing for this procedure. It is up to the Governor to approve or disapprove.

The problem of taxation, to yield funds sufficient for the conduct of public business, is as old. It has never been satisfactorily solved and probably never will be. Inequalities in the levying of tribute on property possessions have ever been the cause of trouble. If a reappraisal of property brings the desired and needed relief to Lima and other cities of the state, it will accomplish more than is expected from it, unless the principle of equity and justice takes precedence over the idea of special favor.

A mental resume of what has occurred in the past and the prospects for the future, impels one to wonder what the final outcome will be, unless some method is soon devised whereby cities are enabled to get as much or more money than expended, or stop spending more than they get.

THE THIRD DEGREE

SERIOUS charges have been made against the Lima police department by a youthful prisoner. He alleges cruelty on the part of certain officers who were administering the "third degree" in an effort to obtain a confession.

These charges have been denied by members of the department involved. They will attempt to show the prisoner's story is a fabrication based on fancy or a desire to create sympathy.

Chief Lanker has announced that he will welcome a probe and that methods the boy declares were employed will not be tolerated. He is to be complimented for this stand. Brutality on the part of police in dealing with prisoners when attempting to get a confession cannot be countenanced. It once was practiced in the larger cities, but now is considered bad procedure.

If the lad who accuses Lima police officers is not truthful in his charges, they should be vindicated. If his allegations are proved correct, Chief Lanker should take summary action to prevent a repetition of the offense.

Lima does not want those so unfortunate as to fall into the hands of the law beaten and cruelly treated as a part of their punishment. There are other ways in which justice may be had.

ARBOR DAY THIS WEEK

By proclamation of the Governor, A. B. Donahy, Friday of this week, April 13, has been officially designated as Arbor Day. President Harding has declared the period of April 22-28 as Forest Protection Week.

These two events deserve to and probably will be observed in all parts of the country. Arbor Day is designed to inculcate in all the people, the young as well as the middle aged and the old, the spirit of the necessity of planting trees and shrubs.

Schools, civic clubs, churches, newspapers and many other organizations unite each year in making a success of the special effort in the various communities. Protection of trees and shrubs is also impressed. In some localities so strong is the sentiment for a strict observance of the day, each and every citizen plants a tree.

Advocates of reforestation and forest protection from the ruthlessness of the lumber interests are becoming stronger and more active in all states of the union. The time has come when it is realized that for every tree felled, another should be planted, to the end that this country shall be in no danger of being depleted of standing timber.

Programs in observance of Arbor Day are to be held in Lima. The plea of the President for participation in Forest Protection Week will also be given response here. The people of Lima and Allen are part and parcel of the great commonwealth of Ohio and of the United States. Anything that is of importance or value to any part of this state or country is of equal import to this community.

We are even now paying the penalty of destruction of forests, with only sporadic moves made toward replacing trees felled.

AIDING ONE'S CITY

IN the day of olden Greece, there was extant an oath to which all good citizens subscribed and which they religiously adhered to. It can be applied to communities in these latter days as well. The obligation taken by the Ancient Greeks was something like this:

"We will never bring disgrace to this, our city, by any act of dishonesty or cowardice, nor ever desert our suffering comrades in the ranks; we will fight for the ideals and sacred things of the city, both alone and with many, we will revere and obey the city's laws and do our best to inspire a like respect and reverence in those about us who are prone to annul or set them at naught; we will strive unceasingly to quicken the public sense of civic duty. Thus, in all these ways, we will transmit this city not less, but greater, better and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."

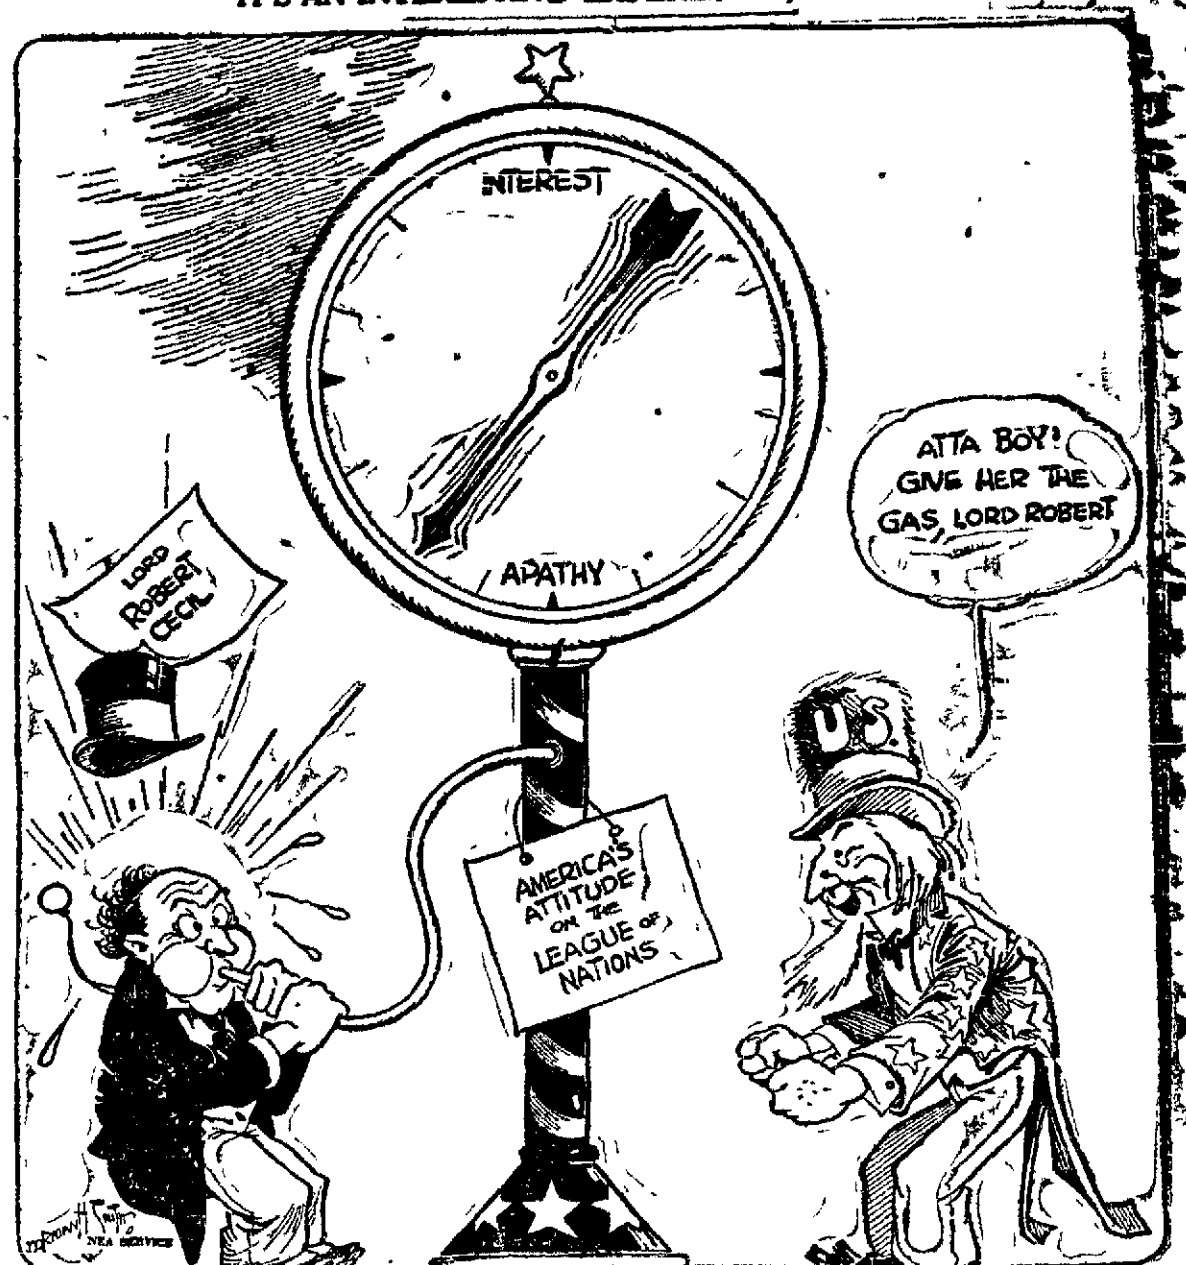

The "Oath of Athens" is being carried on in modern times by those who people the earth. This period of the life of the world is no different from any other, save that it is even more jealous of the spirit of Athens.

In Lima, every move by government, by civic clubs, by religious bodies and the people generally, is in the direction of making the city more attractive. It is a spirit that never dies; it goes on forever. Even the smallest improvement aids in the general plan.

Every dollar spent for street improvement, every move made for park betterment; effort given for better schools, churches, homes, business houses—all contributed their part. Trees, flower gardens, well kept lawns, beautification of river banks, keeping streets and other public places clean is but an echo of the "Oath of Athens."

Tokio lawmowers had a fight and throw ink stands which made a blot on their reputations. Georgia peach crop has been killed twice this spring. Jack Frost will have his little nip.

REFLECTIONS INSPIRED

Have you ever had the itch, now, honestly, I have had it honestly.

At any rate I come by it honestly. I took it from a patient without his knowledge or consent, the he was watching me closely while I was scrutinizing him even more closely.

An itch mite can't hop like a flea but he can travel. It is the propensity for traveling that makes the little devil itch so once he has burrowed into your skin. He travels along his burrow, or rather she does in this instance, laying eggs along the trail every few minutes, and often covering as much as a quarter of an inch of virgin territory in a day.

I was looking for the burrows when I got my note. The patient was very close, neither of us realized what was happening until several hours later, when I realized it (eventually), if one with the itch may do anything exquisitely. Sleep was not for me that night. Fortunately we had several pounds of freshly prepared sulphur ointment in the house, however, for the itch was endemic and some of my competitors couldn't seem to make any headway with the various remedies I had quite a trade on scabies, and had stocked up with well disguised sulphur ointment. I did not purpose that the itch should have a run on me, so I got up and vigorously and extravagantly used about half a pound of the stuff, first having insulated my skin with a vigorous hot soap and water scrubbing to the point of tenderness. I wallowed in sulphur all night, and, oh, boy, it isn't at all bad, after. In the morning I again subjected my skin to the indignation of a hot soap and water scrub, put my nightgown, sheets, underclothing, pillow case, shirt, "never"-thing, in the boiler, and called it a day.

The itch mite is one of the meanest, smallest, most maddening bugs that ever pestered a human being. It has no respect for persons. It is most un-get-at-able and in my estimation the most reprehensible thing about it is the way you can't locate the exact place to scratch most, so that you are denied even the trivial consolation of scratching the most itchy spot. The itch mite is like that, perhaps because so many of the clan are burrowing away, here and there, in so many different places at once—certainly it is a distracting predicament. One can worry along somehow with an ordinary itch, say that of ivy poisoning, for the situation is clearly indicated and one can find the right spot even in the dark. But scabies—well, it is a very unpleasant thing indeed for anybody to have when there is no freshly made sulphur ointment in the house.

PURPOSE

Not for high place or fame alone,
Not for the riches men desire,
Is this brief space of years we own,
If this were all, the race would tire.

Men would grow weary of the strife
If to possession they were chained,
And could not see beyond this life
More than the medals to be gained.

Were there no sweeter joys than greed,
No deeper happiness than fame,
No goal beyond the present need,
Life were no better than a game.

The flag would fall, the race would die,
The home be stripped of sentiment,
And broken every family tie.

If all our years for gain were spent,

'Tis not for gold the race is strong,
'Tis not for fame the race is long,
We live and strive and move along
For something Time can never spoil.

There is a purpose for our life,
Altho' but vague and dim it seems,
A reason for the ills we bear,
And each man sees it in his dreams.

Beyond the gold, above the fame,
And every flag that is unfurled,
Past hills of joy and pits of shame
Men mark the progress of the world.

And so we count it sweet to live
And good to play the role of man,
Glad in the knowledge that we give
Our little to the greater plan.

HEMPEL TO SING
IN 'JENNY LIND'
CONCERT FRIDAYWorld's Greatest Soprano to Appear in Last Number of Women's Music Club Winter Program—Famous Pianist to Accompany

(BY HOPE HOLLISTER)

ALL music lovers of Lima, as well as those in surrounding towns, are looking forward with much interest to the concert to be given Friday evening at Memorial hall. Under the auspices of the Women's Music club, Frieda Hempel, the world's greatest soprano, will appear in her Jenny Lind concert and will be ably assisted by Conrad V. Bos, pianist, who is hailed as the "king of accompanists" and Louis P. Fritz, one of the foremost flutists of the country.

Miss Hempel's popularity was amazing following her first appearance in this country at the time of the Historical Centennial concert given in New York, October 6, 1920. Miss Hempel had been chosen to be the "Jenny Lind of Today" and the rare music she rendered was never to be forgotten. Hempel finally consented to go on a concert tour and ever since, the people of America and England have been clamoring for her appearance. "Jenny Lind of Today" has a wonderful personality and an exquisite voice—it is little wonder she has been called the "Singing Bernhardt."

Part I

The following program will be presented Friday evening at Memorial hall at 8:15 o'clock:

HERE IS ADVICE OF EXPERT ON SPRING HATS

Medieval bonnet in a shape which is important and successful this season. It is of green straw with fan of pleated ribbon at back. This hat fits the head and scoops upward over the eyes.

(By ANNE RITTENHOUSE)

EASTER was not responsible for the extraordinary influx of new hats. March winds and tides must have blown them in, or floated them in.

As early as February it was apparent that no woman would be content to wear what she possessed. She would be compelled by curiosity and eagerness to follow the new fashions, which are perplexing, to say it mildly.

France is more closely watched for hats than frocks, so when it became apparent that French milliners were determined to emphasize Victorian headgear women began to ask themselves if their foreheads could stand the sweeping coquetry of poke-bonnets.

Maybe the milliners beat the dress-makers in the race toward a Victorian revival, for they inaugurated the hat with the scoop brim last summer. Then it was a tentative experiment. Later, they determined to establish it as a dominant fashion.

Dressmakers took their cue from the success of these semi-poke bonnets when they revived the bustle, the upward tilt to the back of the skirt, the multiplicity of ruffles. Coiffure quickly advanced flat sleek hairdresser and placed the knot at the nape of the neck.

Such fashions crept forward in so steady a manner that the public is partly thrilled, partly shocked, at their extraordinary popularity this spring. Most women had not watched signs and symbols; now when they are aware that bustles, crinolines, flat collars, smooth coiffures and poke bonnets are in fashion, they gasp and say, "We can't wear them." But they can, and they will.

Each generation modifies an old fashion. The woman in the present never looks like the woman in the past, even when she copies her clothes. We think most things are ugly which preceded our day, yet when we adopt them for ourselves we consider them most attractive. Such is the changing attitude of mind, a healthy change at that. It has happened this year. Every woman is caught in the mesh of it. Most of us go around saying to each other: "Well, I never thought I'd look like the family album."

As Victorian fashions do not entirely rule the season, there is danger that women will get their costumery fearfully and wonderfully mixed. If they attempt to wear a Victorian poke bonnet with a straight Egyptian frock embroidered with pyramids and elephants, the effect will be far from good. A historical censor may be needed to instruct a woman how to assemble the various parts of a costume.

Of course she is not restricted to poke bonnets in her headgear. That's the good news of the season. Hats are curiously varied. She can find wide brims, small turbans, tiny caps, helmets, English-garden, sun-shades, extravagant, capricious evening hats in lace, crepe and jewels, also Indian turbans richly ornamented in mosaic designs of warm, rich colors.

One who tries to define and limit the fashion in spring hats confronts a Herculean task. She who takes the word of every milliner will be so confused she is liable not to buy any hat. She may continue to go about in her winter one to prevent a mistake.

GEORGETTE CREPE IN SMART HATS

French milliners have led us to use translucent rather than opaque crepe. The weave which is known as georgette has ousted the crepe de chine. It is made into helmets and wide-brimmed sun hats. It is stretched over crinoline frames and is exceedingly difficult to manipulate. Ask any milliner for an opinion. The answer will be a wail of woe and an excuse for the price. The dressmakers talk in the same vein and for the same reason, that this extraordinary fashion for decoration in material involves continuous labor.

One helmet imported from Evelyn Varon needs three days to construct. When it is finished the amateur in hats might say it could be bought anywhere, at any price. The expert would know better; also the woman of fashion.

The original fashion is in cocoa brown georgette crepe. The shape is commonly called an Allenby helmet, because it is taken from the sun helmets worn by British troops in the East. It is smaller, of course, but is a fairly good reproduction of the white and green helmet with the long green veil tied around it. Desert pictures familiarize us with it. The work on the hat consists of an infinite variety of fine piping, slip-stitched to the surface to resemble tucks. Each of these must be shaped, and none are wider than a thread. The coquettish side resembles an octopus, with its mass of small loops, long and short, standing out in several directions from a center medallion.

This hat was a dominant success in Paris, and proved that French women do not intend to relinquish the helmet. They have been wearing it for a year or more or less conventionalized shape. Over here we will wear again the felt helmet. It is a hot hat and does not contribute to keeping the hair in good condition, but if women like a thing, they wear it, whatever its defects. Therefore, the felt helmet will be crushed down over the hair on days that are so hot one should go bare-headed. It hides the hair, it suits sport clothes, it serves for travel by land or sea, say it admirers.

The difference between new and old helmets lies in the back brim, which is short and rolls up on itself. The tea-water effect that Caroline Reboux invented last spring continues in fashion. It is more frequently seen at the back than the front. It's a Venetian fashion used to accentuate the four-cornered brim.

HATS ECLIPSE THE HEAD

Whatever change there is in the shaping and decoration of hats, there is none in their placement. They continue to be put on from back to front, which is a direct reversal of the centuries familiarized us with it. The work on the hat consists of an infinite variety of fine piping, slip-stitched to the surface to resemble tucks. Each of these must be shaped, and none are wider than a thread. The coquettish side resembles an octopus, with its mass of small loops, long and short, standing out in several directions from a center medallion.

Wearing the former shape, women show their foreheads for the first time in years. Shocking! Not all women do it successfully. The brim is rounded upward like a sugar-scoop, and gives a curious glimpse of eyebrows and a wedge-shaped space of forehead. Certain women with the type of face once called "pretty" and now "old-fashioned" should delight in such hats for they give them a chance to look their best while they are in the fashion.

By the way, the present poke bonnet is without strings. These may come, and if they do, they'll give a chance for another bow. The thing that revived Victorian fashions and emphasize more than ruffles is bows, and we get them on various parts of our costumery. They serve, in gigantic form, as bustles; they hold up tulle, ruffles that now spread across the back of skirts; they run from neck to hem as they were buttons; they are placed at the side or front of a long-waisted bodice.

Hot weather sunshade hat in mauve straw with lining of georgette crepe. The decoration at each side is of green and purple grapes. The brim rolls up at back, also slightly in front to reveal the eyes.

Colored organdie bows are placed on silk frocks, half-hidden by ruffles; there is a bow on one shoulder with dripping ends that hang to knees; there is a small bow at back of the neck with ends to hem of skirt; there is a bow between the shoulder blades with ends that spread into a Watteau effect.

FABRICS FOR WARM WEATHER HATS

If you ask certain milliners, what is to be worn when one is to be dressed at the top-notch, they tell you that nothing is more formal than straw. Others will say that thin crepe, tulle, corded silk and ribbon held the first place. So it seems to be given to each to choose according to her wishes.

It is true that straw is in the ascendancy. This is good in a season of printed cotton frocks. It is prettily evolved into graceful shapes, it is found in helmets, it makes immense sunshade hats of the traditional summer type.

Anyone who likes it better than fabric has every excuse for wearing it with whatever costume suits the hour. It will reach its most riotous season when the weather is actually hot. Women are hesitant in buying it for unsuitability.

There's a liking for mid-season hats that never dies out. A woman yearns to change the fabric of her headgear four times a year, even tho she doesn't change the shape and decoration. For such hats georgette crepe and ribbon are offered.

The ribbon hat has more success than its sponsors prophesied. Those who thought its vogue would die down with the incoming of straw were mistaken. French milliners offered it this year to American buyers, who brought it over in new and amazing forms of workmanship. The kindergarten method has supplanted others. Ribbon, wide and narrow, is plaited in and out with the precision a child endeavors to learn at school. If the whole hat is not fashioned in this manner, its brim or crown will be. Crown bands are thus fashioned.

Sport hats of this kindergarten plaiting are called exclusive, and priced as such. One soft helmet is made of bright blue and white ribbon, a half inch wide, carefully plaited to form the whole thing. Ends of ribbon are grouped at one side, some tumbling over the narrow brim. Other sport hats which catch the pennies of women who care for original outdoor clothes are crocheted of fine wool. There's a sweater to match with cross-stitch bands in colors, or a Roman mosaic, which is a new design used, by the way, on frocks of thin white crepe or coarse black net. It is done in colored beads, in flat effect. One gets the impression of old tapestry work.

As for the decoration of hats, it is sufficiently varied to suit various faces. There are grapes in colossal bunches, red roses in large loose bouquets, one single yellow rose on edge of brim, bright green and yellow quills plastered over a straw hat, a fashion reminiscent of a Princeton football game. There are large petals in colored velvet pasted without design on crown and brim of straw hats. No collection of hats is free from a curious cockade. It is made of loops of material or ribbon with no set purpose but to dangle and accentuate the side or back of the hat.

WEAR SUMMER FURS THIS YEAR!

(BY MARIAN HALE)

NEW YORK — (Special) — The gown of this season is not nearly so important as the wrap.

In fact, you can make any simple sort of a frock do if you add a smart enough jacket or cape so that all the attention may be focused on that.

Just what those who have always resented summer furs so bitterly will have to exclaim about the summer fur coats is a matter of conjecture, but we imagine it will be plenty.

At any rate, the short jacketette of crepe, silk or other lightweight furs is going to be worn right thru the spring and summer, and probably will be a decidedly useful garment, despite the croakers.

At Palm Beach and the French resorts the short jacketette of printed linen, silk or cotton is very popular. These have large floral designs in unobtrusively gorgeous colors, or overgrown birds distorted shrubs or Indian or Chinese figures—to say nothing of Egyptian. Smart sport jacketettes are made of loosely woven fleecy white wool material, embroidered in colored silks and beads. They are usually lined with brilliant lead or green satin and have woolly caps to match.

The Jacques of suede or heavier leather is extremely popular, particularly when belted rather closely around the waist. These are usually in brilliant colors, green, royal blue or bright red. Sometimes they are sleeveless and worn with white tailored blouses.

Full-length coats are very elaborate, usually covered with embroidery or braiding or outlined with monkey fur or plaques of ribbon. Capes are much more intricate than they were last season. Most of them are embroidered and some are of georgette crepe unlined and heavily beaded.

Fur is used extensively this season on wraps, not only fur collars, but bandings. Fox fur naturally leads for collars, but for bandings nothing is better liked than plain bunny fur.

SUSIE SMART'S ADVICE

Dear Miss Smart: All a girl 15 years of age. My oldest sister's fiancé died suddenly a few months ago. She does not seem to be able to get over it. She hardly ever goes out any place. She would stay at home all the time if we didn't try to get her to go. She seems to sleep every night and is getting very thin. Mother and I try hard to do most of the housework and she works in a factory. She is very tired when she comes home, but she helps us in the evening, many times.

How can she forget? She says she tries to, but can't. BETTY

DOUBTLESS your efforts are meant most kindly, but perhaps it will be better for you to ignore your sister's despondent attitude and make no attempts to cheer her up. It is likely that she will overcome her grief in time.

Do not be distressed by the fact that she is working hard. That probably is one of the best things she can do. Perhaps you will be more successful if you try to interest her in helping someone more unfortunate than herself.

Dear Miss Smart: I am a girl 15 years of age. There is a boy who wants to go with me, but my parents will not allow it. There is no reason why they should object, as I am not in school and so have no studying to do in the evening. I think that when a girl is earning her own way she is old enough to go out with boys, when she is 16 years old.

SPRING TIME The fact that you are earning money instead of going to school is no reason why you should be permitted to dispense with parental supervision. A girl of your age should be guided by her parents' wishes in matters of this kind.

It is unfortunate that you could not have continued in school for a while longer. Since you did not, it is highly important that you give some of your leisure time to study.

Dear Miss Smart: Just to get an idea on a few things I'm writing for your advice: (1) When can a girl start wearing a large hat of bright colors, such as a deep lavender? (2) Is it too soon to wear a white skirt with purple sweater and hat to match? (3) Would the outfit look well with a choker and sport outdoors? (4) What are the meanings of the following names—Florence, Burke, Calvin, Elsie, Henrietta, Waverly and Audrey? (5) Which would be the better course to take, Commercial or Latin? (6) What would you suggest wearing with a large black hat trimmed with red cherries?

BROWN EYEL (1) The large hats are for spring and summer both, and are naturally being worn right now. (2) I think it a trifle soon for a white skirt and sweater. Personally, I would not like a choker with a sport outfit, although it is merely a matter of taste. (3) Florence means blooming; I never heard of the name Burke; Calvin means bald; Elsie means consecrated to God, Henrietta means the head or chief of a house, that is, the feminine of Henry; Audrey means good, kind. (4) If you intend to work, I advise a comfortable marital course; if you are going to attend college, take a foreign language course. (5) A white dress or blue one would be pretty; any soft color.

I am 15 years old and in the 6th grade of school. I belong to a club, the name of which is the Merry-Go-Rounders. Our colors are salmon pink and emerald. We would like to have a ring for it. What kind should we get? A year or so ago, a girl became angry at me. I would like very much to have her friendship again. How can I do it? What are the meanings of the following names: Rose, Marie, Lenore, Anna, Eleanor, Margaret, Amy, Wanda and Helen? How is my writing?

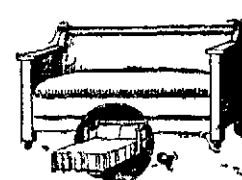

I would suggest going to a local jewelry store and allow them to help you pick a ring. It would be almost impossible to carry out the club colors in any ring you should decide to get; a plain gold or silver ring, with an "M" on it would be attractive. Did you apologize to this girl and do it in such a manner that she should forgive you? Write her a little note, tell her how you value her friendship and ask her if you can be friends again. Rose means a rose; Marie means light; Lenore means light; Alma means lovely; Eleanor means light; Margaret means a pearl; Amy means beloved; I cannot find the meaning of the word Wanda. Helen means light. Good.

'COURTESY WEEK' COMING NEXT

Kiwanis Club Undertakes Wrath-Turning Business.

MEDALS FOR POLITE ONES

Civic Bodies Behind Effort In Gallantry.

"A soft answer turneth away wrath"—so the local Kiwanis club will undertake the business of promoting soft answers the week of April 15 to 21. Frank Fridge, secretary, is chairman of a committee to arrange plans for "Courtesy week." Don Johns and W. G. Branson are other members.

The Board of Commerce, the Lima Automobile club, the Lima City Street Railway company, the ministerial association, local theaters and many business men have promised enthusiastic cooperation.

And that, lady, will be the reason the fat man steps aside while you get on the street car first, and the reason, Miss Central Girl, that your ears will lose their touch for lucious profanity.

And if the driver of an automobile strains his back turning aside to keep from splashing muddy water on you, you and he can thank Kiwanians.

Baslager & Rose, for the promotion of gallantry and good will, have donated medals which will be awarded to the most gentlemanly saleslady and the most gracious salesman discovered, during this week. Coupons will be printed in The Lima News, and readers may nominate thereon the most courteous persons with whom they come in contact.

A medal will also be presented to the high school student who writes the best essay of 100 words on the value of courtesy.

Kiwanians Warren Steeves and Samuel Huecker will deliver sermons on courtesy April 15 and at the regular luncheon of the club April 17 ten speakers will present short messages on various phases of the subject.

TWICE AS MANY CARS THIS YEAR AS LAST. LICENSE SALES SHOW

If sale of automobile license tags is indicative, nearly twice the number of motor cars will be in operation in Allen-co. in 1923 than was the case a year ago.

The Lima Automobile club according to James I. Heffner, manager, has sold more license plates since January 1, than during all last year. Applications from motorists, many of whom are buying their first car, are pouring in daily.

TUT AFFECTS WOMEN, BUT LIMA MEN WON'T CHANGE

ALTHO the women may have to look like some of King Tut's little neighbors to be in style today, the men are worrying along without much change, Lima haberdashers declare. The sartorial equipment of the world's most famous mummy has affected men's styles not at all, they say. Possible exception is made of figures and colors in neckwear, which is more or less whimsical at best.

Lima citizens are wearing about the same line of conservative models they have favored during the last two years, E. S. Milhaupt, of the men's wear department at Ellerman's, stated. Norfolk, in two and three buttons are going well, as are double breasted patterns. Grey tweed mixtures are exceedingly popular, he says, proving that men do not care to go much farther back than King George or King Edward for their clothing tips.

Semi-form-fitting jazz models are in some demand, he declares, but certainly jazz is no inheritance from Tut. Whipcords and gabardines are exceedingly popular and the old standby colors of blue and brown have greater vogue than some fashion reviews indicate, he declares.

Further evidence of Lima's masculine conservatism is offered by R. Hummer, of Blum's. The Lima business man wears sane and comfortable clothing, he states. Standard patterns are much more in demand than the extreme cuts which may not survive the quality of the goods.

Stripes are popular and trousers are omitting the cuff this year in many instances. However, the matter of a cuff or two between trousers is said to be nothing at all.

This season's neck scarfs are colorful, to say the least. In the color and pattern of the average neck tie it is possible to suspect the influence of Tut. Yellow and Nile green, henna and cherry blossom, black, blue and white stripes dominate the tie displays. It has been suggested that they are fully able to speak for themselves. Hieroglyphics, which may or may not be a part of King Tut's private correspondence, make up the figuring on many of them.

OVERCOATS DISCARDED; POLICEMEN ARE GLAD

Lima policemen from now on will be permitted to discard their heavy winter overcoats while on duty.

Spring weather Saturday brought an official order from Chief Lan-ker to the effect that fatigue blouses might be worn and overcoats discarded.

FRIEDA HEMPEL

Frieda Hempel, who is giving a series of "Jonny Lind Concerts" in honor of her famous predecessor, the Swedish nightingale, will appear at Memorial Hall, Friday evening, April 13, under the auspices of the Woman's Music Club. She has been chosen to impersonate Jenny Lind because of all singers, according to history and tradition, her voice, her art and her personality, most strikingly resemble those rare endowments of the Earlier Queen of Song.

MARKING OF PUBLIC-SQ FOR AUTO PARKING PLAN PUT OFF; TOO MUCH DIRT

Marking of automobile parking space in Public-sq, scheduled for Sunday, has been postponed by the Lima Automobile club until the square is cleaned up, Manager James I. Heffner announced Saturday.

Heffner declared that it would be a waste of money to mark the square as long as the pavement is dirty. The paint would not stick, it is feared.

Contract for the painting will be let by the club Wednesday. Several local painting contractors are bidding for the job.

Membership in the club has topped the 1,600 mark, Heffner announced Saturday. Nearly all the growth of the club has been attained within the past year.

The newly perfected dealers organization will hold a luncheon at the Norval hotel Monday noon.

FUNERAL SUNDAY FOR NEAR CENTENARIAN, VETERAN OF TWO WARS

Funeral services for James Harrod, 96, veteran of the Mexican and Civil wars, who died Friday night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. James Musser, residing ten miles east of Wapakoneta, will be held Sunday at 1:30 p. m. at Mt. Taber church, near Guttman. Burial in the nearby cemetery. His death leaves only one other resident of Ohio, Levi Hartman, of Napoleon, surviving with a similar war record.

He was born in Knox-co in 1827 and located in Auglaize-co 89 years ago. He was married to Sara Jane Tannysbill in 1851 and was the father of four children. Mrs. Musser is the only one of the four living. A sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Dodgeon, of Yoder, Missouri, also survives. There are 13 grandchildren, 28 great grandchildren and two great great grandchildren.

He had recently returned from a sojourn in California. Up until the past few days Harrod was able to read without glasses and his hearing was excellent.

Dynamite--And the Raft in Flames!

The Basque homesteaders, frenzied by the cattle barons' efforts to oust them and seize their farms for cattle range, became tools of the wily gunman who suggested a dynamite bomb to blow out the cattlemen's dam.

It was cunningly timed, cunningly constructed, that dynamite bomb on a raft. Mercedes jumped aboard it, but before she could stamp out the fuse, she set fire to the oil-soaked raft. Helpless, with flames playing about her, she was carried with the raft on its dread trip of destruction.

Was she saved? Who won—cattlemen or homesteaders? And what of "Blaze," the young hero? Who owned the locket?

Quilna Cinema Shows New Angle of Usual Triangle; Flapper Rescues Mother

(BY GERTRUDE GILLHAM)

MOVIE seekers will find much to interest them in the various new cinema productions offered at the theaters this week. Unusually brilliant programs have been prepared for presentation, each boasting a galaxy of stars.

A magnificent production with an all-star cast will be seen at the Quilna when "Adam's Rib" opens a five-day engagement today. It is a new version of an eternal triangle in which a flapper daughter prevents her mother from running away with another man. Milton Sills, Elliott Dexter, Anna Q. Nilsson, Pauline Garon, Theodore Kosloff and Julia Faye are some of the notables in the cast. Beginning Friday, this popular theatre will present Alice Brady in her latest Paramount success, "The Leopardess." Montagu Love, Edward Langford and Charles Kent support her.

Radiantly beautiful and brilliantly capable in a role that gives full pay for her exceptional ability to register emotion, Ethel Clayton is the star in "Can a Woman Love Twice?" the magnet at the Sigma theatre until Wednesday. Malcolm McGregor, handsome young lead, is seen in support of Miss Clayton. On Wednesday, Charles Ray is coming to the Sigma in a five-day engagement in a rattling comedy-drama, "The Deuce of Spades." The story revolves around the humorous life of a small western mining town and offers Ray ample opportunity to display his ability as a comedian. Marjorie Maurice, formerly Marie Prevost, appears opposite.

"The Third Alarm," a thrilling melodrama concerning the life of a veteran fire-fighter, is the attraction at the Majestic for two days. Ralph Lewis, Johnnie Walker and Ella Hall are the principals.

"Wee" Barry, that lovable boy actor of the screen, is the star in "Rags to Riches" at the Lyric today and remaining until Thursday. When "My Friend the Devil" will be the offering. Wesley gives one of the best characterizations of his career as the rich little son of the Clarks who becomes involved with a gang of crooks. It is thrilling from start to finish and will please both young and old. The week-end picture is an adaptation of George Orton's famous novel, "Doctor Rameau," and has a host of popular stars including Barbara Castleton, Peggy Shaw, William Tooker and others. The Rialto is presenting "Do or Dare," a thrilling picture similar to others of Tom Mix's, for the first half of the week. Beginning Wednesday, Dustin Farnum will appear in "Yosemite Trail."

And that's the bill-of-fare of the week for your perusal, which all will agree is one of superlative merit.

The Sigma's Pictures

LOVE in all its various phases is forcibly depicted in "Can a Woman Love Twice?" Ethel Clayton's newest starring vehicle for Film Booking offices, which is appearing again today and until Wednesday at the Sigma theatre. Mother-love, father-love, the love of a child for its mother, the love of a grandfather for his grandson and the love of a noble woman for a worthy man all have been woven into a drama which will long be remembered by those who see it.

The picture abounds with those little human touches which mean so much to the viewer when they are well done, and here they are indeed well done.

As a cabaret entertainer forced to work to support herself and her little son, Miss Clayton is enabled to show poignantly the struggle of a woman against an environment from which her whole being shrinks. Her emotional transitions, from portraying the girl with a song on her lips and an ache in her heart to delineating the character of a young mother fighting for the future of her child, are some of the finest bits of acting ever seen on the screen. Malcolm McGregor heads a sterling supporting cast. The picture was directed by James W. Horne from Wyndham Gittlen's story. "Day Dreams," Buster Keaton's first 3-reel comedy, and exclusive pictures of Gertrude Astor, Lima's movie queen, during her recent visit in Lima; also pictures of the Knights Templar's Easter parade, are added features.

Starting Wednesday and appearing for three days the Sigma offers Charles Ray in "The Deuce of Spades," in which he brings out a new line of diversified activity in an official position of matchmaker. The picture derives its title from the name of the card which is responsible for the star's misfortunes in the story. Marjorie Maurice is Charles Ray's new leading woman. Lincoln Plummer, Phillip Dunham, Andrew Arbuckle and Dick Southland are also seen in the cast.

At the Quilna

"Adam's Rib," the first Cecil B. DeMille production since "The Sign of the Cross" and what is acclaimed the most ambitious production of this famous director of daring and extravagant photoplays, opens a five-day engagement at the Quilna this afternoon. DeMille's Paramount picture production is a recognized screen sensation. He does everything in a big way—he handles big themes with a fine artistic appreciation of their value as screen entertainment, so that all his productions stand out with cameo-like clear-

Interested more in dinosaurs than women; gorgeous society dance scenes with entrancing color effects; typical DeMille gowns and settings; a public on the Chicago Board of Trade; a revolution sweeping a monarch from his throne; a startling scene in a primeval forest in which cavemen pursue pretty daughters of Eve.

Of course the cast is also typically

DeMille, which means that the player was especially selected for his fitness for a certain role. This has resulted in the casting of no less than five real stars, Milton Sills, Elliott Dexter, Anna Q. Nilsson, Pauline Garon and Theodore Kosloff, for the principal roles of the play, while the minor parts are in the hands of such eminent actors as Julia Faye, Clarence Gelder-

George Field, Robert Brower, For- Wedgewood Nowell and Clarence Burton. Hundreds of lesser lights are used in the big ensembles with which the plays abound. There is no questioning the great popular success of "Adam's Rib," for it has been crowding the big metropolitan theatres to the walls, so of course you will make an effort to see it. KEITH VODVIL
AT THE FAUROT

Highly entertaining is the vaudeville bill of five Keith acts offered at the Faurot Opera House for the first half of the week. Adams and Mori produce a melange of mirth, melody and novelty of a comedy nature that is bound to create favorable comment from any audience. They are clever vaudevillians and were lately featured in musical comedy.

Frank Van Bergen, the famous California baritone, whose fame as a singer has long been known in the far west, will give a repertoire of songs in his own admirable style. His musical education was gained in Europe under the most renowned teachers of dramatic art.

A dainty vaudeville diversionment will be offered by the Marie Tolman and company as the headline attractions. High class singing and dancing will be the keynote of this popular company.

The fourth act is a clever concoction with all the ingredients that go to make up a delightful offering. The three people in the act are schooled in musical comedy production and the keen talent they display in "Going to the Opera" shows their past experience in higher priced productions.

Famous exponents of Jiu Jitsu and broad swordsmanship, the Four Tamakis will give a sensational exhibition in the final act. They are rated in their native country as leaders in the two athletic arts. Sciences and technicalities of Jiu Jitsu will be brought into play by these authorities.

FRECKLED KID MASQUERADES AS "MARMADUKE" AT LYRIC

BEST FILM WES BARRY EVER MADE

"Rags to Riches" Displays Boy in Finest Acting of His Young Career

WESLEY BARRY, who has endeared himself to every lover of clean comedy and good fun, is seen in "Rags to Riches," appearing until Thursday at the Lyric theatre. This picture, a Harry Rapp production sponsored by Warner Brothers, was adapted from the celebrated stage play of the same name which scored such a decided success.

The picture shows Wes as Marmaduke Clarke, son of wealthy parents, who pamper him too much. A burglar bent upon ransacking the house gives the lad a chance at action, and he follows the man thru a series of exciting episodes, which ends unexpectedly with the rounding up of a gang of crooks. But not before Marmaduke has found his burglar to be a secret service agent and has witnessed the happy ending of a love episode which at one moment threatened to go wrong.

Without deceiving his other wonderful pictures, "School Days," for example, it is not too much to say that Wesley does some of the finest acting of his young career in this picture.

"Rags to Riches" is wholesome throughout. It brings back the fine days of boyhood and recovers the spirit of the times when one did things on a dare and wanted to emulate the Darling Dicks of the penny shockers.

A splendid cast supports Wesley Barry, contributing to the success of the picture. It includes Niles Welch, Ruth Renick, Russell Simpson, Mrs. Minna D. Redman, Richard Tucker and others equally prominent. Wallace Worsley directed. The story is by William Nigh and Walter De Leon from the stage play by Charles A. Taylor.

Starting Thursday and appearing for two days, William Fox's wonder picture, "My Friend the Devil," based on Georges Chnet's famous novel, "Doctor Rameau," will be the offering. Charles Richman, Barbara Castleman and Peggy Shaw do splendid work in the production, which was directed by Harry Millarde, the man who made "Over the Hill."

The Majestic Pictures

THE search for a thrill, a new and unique thrill and a tingle of swift and dramatic action, is over the problem of the motion picture producer. As time passes and producers continue to outdo one another in the development of thrills on the screen, one begins to wonder when, if ever, the great storehouse of thrills will be exhausted. What, moreover will producers do then?

Many Johnson, famous producer of "The Third Alarm" for F. B. I., has a knack of developing thrills that carry all the tingle and crash of a Jovian thunderbolt, yet Johnson, as he admitted recently, is hard put to it in his constant efforts to create new and big ideas to build up his photoplays.

In the "Third Alarm," for instance, he took a number of ideas that had been the basis of thrills in the past but he had done them in such a novel manner and developed them in such magnitude that screen critics are hailing him as a genius in this phase of photoplay construction.

The central figure is a veteran fire-fighter, Dan McDowell, superbly portrayed by Ralph Lewis. He has been a fire-fighter for years but when the era of progress brought motorization, Dan found the task of driving a motor too much for him. He retired on a pension, then things began to happen to him.

Woven thru this story is a love theme of transcending beauty. The love of Dan for his wife and her sweet and eternal devotion. Their love for their children. Dan's love for his horses. A crippled boy's love for kindness. All these are merged and super-charged into a super love theme that puts "The Third Alarm" almost in a class by itself. It is the attraction at the Majestic theatre for two days.

In the cast are such well known players as Ralph Lewis, Johnnie Walker, Ella Hall, Richard Morris and many others.

The Rialto Pictures
MANY thrilling tales have been written of Tom Mix, the Fox star who comes to the Rialto theatre today in "Do or Dare" but none have been more often repeated by showmen than the yarn unwound by an old circus trouper who knew Tom when the latter was chief of cowboys of a Wild West show a few years ago.

The show was playing in Eastport, Maine, goes the story, and during the day trouble arose with the fisherman over a verbal contract made by the advance agent of the outfit. Rivalries were found from the rougher element of the town people, and started for the circus lot to clean up the "Show Folks." A band of mounted Indians charged the mob who merely stood by and jeered. Then the Cossacks were turned loose but the mob greeted them with a shower of stones.

The circus managers in despair gave up and had decided to abandon the lot and night show, when Tom volunteered to stop the maddened throng. Mounting his horse and armed with two lariats he charged down the hill to meet the rabble and succeeded in lassoing the two ring leaders.

The mob stopped dumb with amazement at the nerve of the cowboy who after addressing the crowd and smilingly threatening to tie-up the whole town, turned the riot into a party, all promising to be good and come to the night show.

They were there in full force.

"UNCLE TOM" AT ORPHEUM

William H. Kibble's elaborate revival of Harriet Beecher Stowe's immortal masterpiece, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is the attraction at the Orpheum, for four days, with daily matinee, commencing on Sunday.

The Kibble production, this season, is said to be far superior to anything of the kind here-to-fore presented at popular prices. With a full cast of capable artists, a scenic equipment of the most expensive sort, together with every effect in the way of modern electrical and mechanical appliances that can be used in the working out of the many handsome scenes and settings, it is certain to be a satisfactory and evenly balanced performance. Manager Kibble has won a great following for his attraction by always keeping it up to the high standard demanded by better class of theatre goers. It is the oldest in existence, the one which is recognized as the leader of its class.

The play of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" has been enacted throughout the civilized world thousands upon thousands of times, and today, after having been presented constantly for over sixty years, it is still the most popular drama ever written. The most exacting Christian people never hesitate to witness its rendition, which they always do with great pleasure and delight. Lessons of virtue may be learned from its teachings. It is a truly great and wonderful play, written by one of the greatest women the world has ever known, Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, and one of America's most brilliant writers.

Speakers for the afternoon will include Miss Emma Perkins, Western Reserve university, Cleveland; Mrs. Cora W. Stewart, General Federation chairman of literacy; Mrs. Edith McClure Patterson, Dayton, General Federation chairman of thrift; Miss Settle, Ohio university, at Athens, and Mrs. Whitely, General Federation chairman of conservation.

In the evening a pageant of folk songs and dances or various nations will be featured by the Steubenville club women. Fort Steuben hotel is state convention headquarters and club women are asked to write direct to that hotel on to the Imperial.

Ohio club women will have a special car to Atlanta, Ga., where the General Federation council meeting is to be conducted, provided a sufficient number are to attend. This announcement is made by Mrs. C. S. Selover, Cleveland, President of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs, who says that those expecting to go should send their names to Mrs. A. F. Westgate, 1875 Belmont road, East Cleveland.

Headquarters Handicraft, of the General Federation, 1154 N. street, Northwest, Washington, is in constant need of cloths for cleaning the multigraph, mimeograph and printing machines. To buy the material is a great expense to the department. As spring is at hand discarding old sheets, pillow cases, towels, underwear, etc. Headquarters Handicraft announces that it will appreciate large or small donations.

Before April 30, the scholarship assistance of five cents per capita should be sent to Mrs. Allen Marshall, Piqua, state federation treasurer. The state federation has 14 girls in college this year, five of them graduating this spring. Forty-two girls have been helped since the scholarship fund was established. They are scattered thru the country following their chosen line of work. Many are teachers in schools and colleges. One girl is a minister of the gospel, two are doing social service work, and one who will graduate this year from John Hopkins, Baltimore, will become a public health nurse.

This is not a work of charity. The girls borrow the money from the federation and take out a life insurance policy to protect the loan. When they finish school and take a monthly installment.

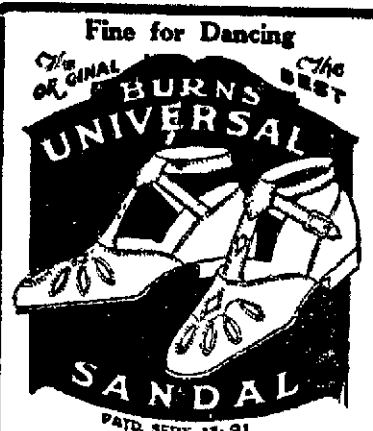

"Surely every federated club wants to have a part in this great educational activity and will pay its scholarship money promptly," writes Mrs. J. L. Selby, Greenville, chairwoman of the scholarship fund. "Many girls are turned away each year," she adds, "for lack of funds. Clubs or federations which are doing special scholarship work in towns or cities will please report before May 1, 1923, the number of girls they have assisted this year. World's Economy Record Run

H. J. Amon of Fresno, Calif., Got 104 Miles on Gallon of Gasoline

The great economy of the Overland car has led to all manner of unusual demonstrations during the past year. It will be recalled that the most remarkable exhibition of driving and economy of operation of an automobile ever made was that of H. J. Amon of Fresno, Calif., whose experiments in lubrication, balance and driving with a stock Overland car led him to create an unofficial world's record for economy.

Amon drove the car from Fresno, Calif., to Bakersfield, Calif., with four passengers, a distance of 106 miles, on one gallon of gasoline. For the most part the road is level, altho at the end of the journey the party was 300 feet higher above sea level than at the point of starting. Amon accomplished his feat by balancing his car correctly in every detail and by removing all possible friction at every bearing.

Wherever motor cars are discussed and that's nearly everywhere, somebody is sure to remark—"That Studebaker Special-Six is a regular automobile."

The Studebaker Special-Six has been on the market for four years. Each year has seen added to it such refinements and improvements as time has made possible. Today there are more than one hundred and twenty-five thousand in everyday service and we don't believe there's a dissatisfied owner.

The name was selected because comparative tests against all kinds of cars made this car stand out as something special and apart from the ordinary run of automobiles. It requires special merit to warrant calling any car a special—and if the value isn't special the car quickly fades away.

Count the "Special-Sixes" that have appeared since the arrival of the Studebaker Special-Six. That's the proof of the value of the original Special-Six.

TIRES

Have Never Been Beaten On Quality or Price!

We feel enthusiastic over our opportunity to give car-owners the best tire values ever offered here. And we are equally pleased with the way the public has responded.

We are sincere in saying emphatically that we have never seen such trustworthy quality at so low a price as we are quoting on Oldfield Tires.

The mileage records of Oldfields everywhere are proof of their unusual quality. Owners are constantly reporting voluntarily the splendid performance of Oldfields on their cars. Official tests invariably tell a big story of Oldfield mileage and service.

Make a comparison yourself of the prices we quote below with what you would otherwise pay for tires of guaranteed quality. You are bound to say that here is the season's big buying opportunity.

Racing history for the past three years has been an unbroken series of victories for Oldfield Tires. In every important race in this country the winners have driven Oldfield-equipped cars. Such great drivers as Jimmy Murphy, Tommy Milton and many more are Oldfield enthusiasts.

A far greater number of car-owners are putting Oldfields on all four wheels of their cars than ever before. Oldfield Sales in June were 266% more than May. Our own sale here is reflecting this big national demand.

Study the prices we make on Oldfields on this page. Come in and let us show you the tires—with their handsome black treads in the efficient anti-skid design.

You'll agree with what we say above—Oldfield Tires have never been beaten on quality and prices.

STRENGTH AND SAFETY IN THE BODY OF STEEL

If you could see the main body structure of Dodge Brothers Business Coupe before the enamel is baked on, and before the interior is furnished, you would be profoundly impressed by its strength.

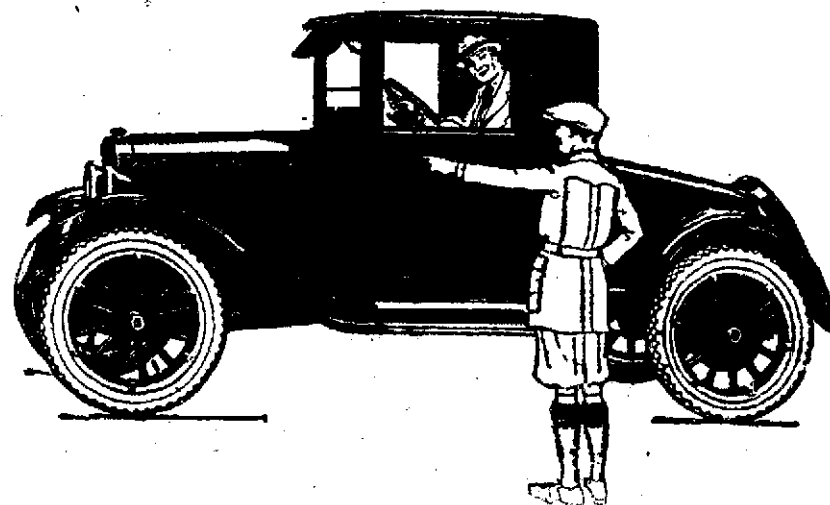

You would see that every panel, every pillar, and every rib is steel—that even the door sills and window mouldings are steel.

You would see that all of these parts and sections are electrically welded together into one staunch steel body, with no bolts or rivets to work loose, nothing to rattle or squeak or warp.

And you would realize that, like the all-steel Pullman coach, this unique construction—originated by Dodge Brothers for this car—represents the last word in protection to passengers—the ultimate achievement in closed car sturdiness.

ATTACK IS BEGUN ON PRIMARY SYSTEM IN AID OF HARDING

WOULD ELIMINATE OPPOSITION

Governor Donahay Meets Flint
With Flint in Fight

DRIVES SENATE INTO CORNER

Life of Next Chicago Mayor Reads Like Romance

(By J. W. FISHER)

Since there is no longer any doubt whatever about the aspirations of President Warren G. Harding for nomination for a second term, although the announcement by Attorney-General Harry Daugherty may have been premature and ill-advised, there is evidence plenty that efforts are now being directed toward the plan of clearing the way for the Marion man, so that all possibilities of primary opposition may be eliminated. Believing that the "House of Harding" is sufficient, the most earnest effort is being made to put Warren over in the national G. O. P. convention a second time, attention is now being directed toward the elimination of other contenders seen as a possibility, who may seek to gain sufficient primary importance to make them formidable opponents in the 1924 convention. You see, if a certain other candidate should prove to be more popular than the present incumbent in the White House when preferential primaries are held, it would be really embarrassing to have to steam roller him when the national convention under a "big top" somewhere in the United States—Cleveland perhaps.

There is but one way to escape embarrassment—and possible danger—to the Harding candidacy. It cannot be concealed, therefore, that there is an immense amount of opposition and it is growing daily. An attack on the primary system is the next move. President Harding has always been a foe of that method of selecting candidates. He is a firm believer in the open, unrestricted plan, and has never permitted himself to be caught flinching with "Miss Primary," save as a matter of necessity in enabling himself to get somewhere.

Hence the report that Harding backers are organizing for a concerted attack on the primary system is not surprising. The President isn't so much in fear of the results in the convention, believing that he can more than hold his own there, but he does fear—and not without good reason therefore—the primary plan in the selection of delegates to the national convention. For instance, should his own state of Ohio elect a majority of delegates opposed to the renomination of the Marionite, would he just like pouring hot water over a dish of ice cream?

As the situation now stands, the Daugherty announcement has started party workers in many states actively organizing to fight against the primary system. And the President is expected to take an active part as a member of the wrecking crew, for it is planned that he shall be the beneficiary. His campaign is expected to get under way early. After a vacation of more than a month under southern skies in Florida, the chief executive is to return to Washington this week, where a series of conferences is planned with party leaders, to lay plans for the west coast trip he intends to make and map out the administration course of procedure during the next two years.

Party leaders admit there is a contest on in G. O. P. ranks to eliminate all opposition to Harding. His lieutenant demand that he should have a clear road. In addition to well defined opposition on the part of LaFollette, Borah and other units of the party it is now reported that Major General Leonard Wood, whose chances were wrecked in 1920 by Procter the soap king, may again come to the front, in the pending campaign.

The President is being sharply attacked by numerous Republican papers for his tendency toward getting this country into the League of Nations thru the back door. His proposed swing around the circle within the next few months, in "defense" of his administration thus far, is also viewed by party papers as a "dangerous experiment." His proposal to describe the beauties of an international court or something of that sort will leave in the minds of his party adherents the impression that he is softening up on the league question, just as sure as shooting.

There is no question but that the President will be given a respectful hearing when he goes, but falling into line with his plans is quite another thing. Even his own faithful haven't forgotten some of the things he forced thru during the last two years. They are dismayed and alarmed over the future. They share with the Democrats the feeling that if the Harding administration has and will be all that is being claimed for it, there is no need of the President "defending" it. Hence, suspicion is aroused.

Never altogether smooth and strewn with roses, the pathway of the Governor of the state is made doubly thorny when the chief executive endeavors to carry into effect campaign pledges made to the people, while being hindered and hampered by a hostile General Assembly.

As has been heretofore observed by this believer in the eternal fitness of things generally, the electorate of Ohio piled up troubles for one A. Victor Donahay when it made him Governor and they also spread for themselves a banquet of grief and sorrow when they elected at the same time a Republican controlled Legislature.

It was a combination of personality and policy, with a reputation for rugged honesty, that won Donahay the Governorship. Ohio believed in him and set him in the high place, but they so encompassed him with political enemies that his hands are tied, so far as carrying out to effect many of the things the people commissioned him to do. Opposed at every turn by rabid political hatred, his motives attacked and his appointees rejected by the Senate, there is small chance of the Governor being able to "clean up" anything—if the Republicans can prevent it. A studied attempt is being made to make the Donahay administration appear a failure, but in their zeal the enemies of the Governor are showing their hand too plainly. "The people are observing. Refusal of the Senate to permit Governor Donahay to keep faith with the people in creating a utilities commission that will function properly is a case in point. However, the Governor has met Flint with Flint and if the tide of sentiment is not turned against the legislative body that puts hatred before fairness and justice, 'twill indeed be surprising."

Another move by the strongly entrenched Republicans to hamper Governor Donahay is to find a way whereby it need not adjourn finally, but recess from time to time and reassemble at will, for the purpose of annoying the chief executive. However, this effort is "up in the air," the Governor is showing the lawmakers that he is a fighter and that he cannot be whipped by a spirit of hatred, as the sentiment of the people of Ohio is backing him.

Nine measures, promised to the people of Ohio, have been ignored by the Legislature. The Governor's appointment of a new member of the utilities commission has been rejected by the Senate and the resignations of two members of the body objectionable to the administration have been denied. Governor Donahay promised to force the commission to function in the interest of all the people or drive it off the job. The Senate, having the power to help, refuses to do so.

When the next election time comes, there is little doubt but that the people of Ohio will hasten to rectify the mistake that was made in 1922, and give Governor Donahay a friendly Legislature during his second term.

Lifting the curtain on the Ohio situation is a bit higher, it is perfectly safe to hazard the opinion that the Senate will not avail itself of the invitation given by Governor Donahay to investigate the statement made by Majority Leader Kryder on the floor that the appointment of William A. Hopkins of Cincinnati as a member of the utilities commission was at the behest of one of the meanest monopolies in the state.

The Governor dares the Senate to probe the Kryder statement. He demands action, as a matter of fact play. "If the Senate has any sense of fairness it will order a searching investigation into the manner of the Hopkins appointment and the motives and influence behind his appointment," Governor Donahay said in a message to the Senate.

Hiding behind a smoke screen which affords a cloak of immunity in his official position, Senator Kryder assailed the character of Hopkins and cast aspersions on his good name. In its refusal to stand by when the Governor demanded the resignation of George T. Poor and Frank B. Mauller, Republican members of the utilities commission, that body again evidenced the fact it places Republican party interests higher than those of all the people of Ohio.

They have refused to resign and the Senate has refused to confirm the Hopkins appointment. The Governor is at a loss to know how to force the utilities body to function properly, without the aid of the Senate and that body refuses to aid. There remained only one thing to do in the premises and that was a recommendation that the board be abolished. And the Governor so recommended. If the Senate policy is to be continued.

For long years the G. O. P. close corporation got away with the very thing it is now attempting. It is being shown up even as occurred during the first term of Governor Jackson Harmon. The result was that in the next succeeding election Governor Harmon was given a friendly Legislature and his great program in behalf of all the people was carried out. It is believed they will do the same thing for Governor Donahay in 1924.

Republican leaders have begun to offer what they evidently consider necessary explanations of the seeming growth of imports and exports under the Fordney-McCumber tariff law. These explanations are all in practically the same tenor and curiously enough are designed to show that the new tariff is not doing what its Republican sponsors and advocates promised the people it would do—namely, exclude from this country "cheap manufactures" from Europe.

Frank W. Mondell, Republican floor leader of the last House of Representatives, in his most recent eulogy of Congress, registered immense satisfaction at the increase in imports and exports. "He reverses Fordney and McCumber, both of whom last summer gave exhibitions to the House and the Senate of various articles of foreign manufacture sold in this country in competition with American goods and urged that a tariff big enough to exclude them be enacted at once."

The public is naturally wondering why Mondell is now expressing gratification that the Fordney-McCumber act is not preventing the inflow of these various foreign manufactures to compete with the products of American factories. If this new tariff is not effective as a barrier to cheap imports, then its Republican architects previously miscalculated and Mondell is hardly consistent in taking pride in a result that he and his Republican associates in Congress sought to forestall.

It should be remembered that but for the efforts of the Democrats the rates of the new tariff would have been much higher than they are and then no importation would have been possible. If the imports are increasing, that is true in spite of the wishes and endeavors of the Republicans. The shoe is on the foot the other way round.

After disclosures were made weeks ago that the Ohio Republican Editorial association had laid plans of a sinister character to attack the administration of Governor A. V. Donahay, there appeared to be a disposition on the part of at least some of the people of Ohio to accept the word of trained newspaper correspondents in Columbus with a sniff of unbelief.

However, what was said then has been proven reliable information. The bombardment of mud-slinging is well under way. His slimy trail is well marked into Lima. The favorite caption for these attacks is "Governor Donahay Has Failed"—to do this or that. For the most part, the accusations are made out of whole cloth, possessing little or no truth. Facts are distorted to suit the needs of the wrecking crew of ink spreaders.

Lack of regard for truth is becoming so apparent in the emanations from the editorial foundry that even the authors shiver over the possible results of their misrepresentations. However, those who are assailed are relying on the discernment of the people of Ohio to separate the wheat from the chaff—the sheep from the goats.

Governor Donahay is charged with failure to "make the utilities commission function or abolish it." A Republican Senate refuses its aid in this connection, a necessary procedure if results are to be attained. It is not a Donahay failure, but a G. O. P. failure. If it is a dog-in-the-manger policy the Republican party leaders are exhibiting, but they can't shift the onus of it.

From time to time, doubtless, more of the same sort of smoke barages will be laid down by the editorial satrap to hide the real situation and endeavor to escape responsibility for begetting the legislative disappointment and shirking duty by refusing to marry the mother and care for the child. The G. O. P. has a patent right on unrecouped campaign pledges. It not only fails, refuses and neglects to keep its promises so far as its party leaders are concerned, but it studiously and deliberately moves to prevent the executive from doing the things the people commissioned him to do. Retribution awaits the politically guilty.

Despite the fact that the "anti-everythings" in Chicago were opposed to the candidacy of William Emmett Dever as the Democratic candidate for mayor of that city, the man who arose from a humble beginning in life as a tanner, swept the Windy City by a plurality of 150,000 in the municipal election during the past week.

The rise of this man Dever reads like a romance. He is of Irish ancestry, but born in the United States.

He is 60 years old and fully one-third of his life has been spent in public office, after studying law and being admitted to the bar. In his first fight for alderman he was defeated when the religious issue was raised against him. The following year he tried again, and won.

From that time on, Dever's advancement was rapid. He was re-elected four times, a feat never before performed by an alderman in the Seventeenth ward. He was a champion of municipal ownership and adherence to any other political belief is considered an unpardonable sin. The election of Frank Doremus as mayor of Detroit, on the Democratic ticket has overturned political affairs in the river city to such an extent that the job was felt as far south as Miami, Florida—or some other city in that land of sunshine where the President of the United States has extended his "vacation" beyond a month.

Even in the Maine cities and towns, despite the fact that the G. O. P. was popularly supposed to be so strongly entrenched that its works were unmovable, the Democrats won in recent elections. And in Muscatine, Iowa, the people ousted their far distant fellow Americans in Maine, by electing the Democratic ticket and started the ball rolling for a Democratic national victory in 1924.

There may be need, after all, of President Harding invading the west in "defense" of his administration and for an explanation of his "international court" plan. 'Twill not be a dull summer, anyway, even tho' weatherman does not see the seasons mixed up and forgets that warmer weather is due. It will be exciting, if not exactly enjoyable—to some folks.

United States Senator Simeon D. Pess has gone on record as a champion of the proposal to limit the power of the United States Supreme Court to declare unconstitutional acts of Congress.

Senator Sim has gone part of the way toward court reforms long advocated by former Congressman B. F. Wolty, who would have judges anchored for a fixed term or years instead of being appointed for life.

Pess favors exchange in the practice of the court whereby a 5 to 4 vote of justices can upset laws of the land. He would substitute as a minimum requirement at least a 6 to 3 vote.

However, the Ohioan terms as "vicious" legislative suggestions that Congress can reverse decisions of the court. In Ohio, provisions of the law adopted at the Constitutional convention in 1912, read: "No law shall be held unconstitutional and void without the concurrence of at least all but one of the judges, except in the affirmation of a judgment of the Court of Appeals declaring a law unconstitutional and void."

Declaring that virtual "bankruptcy" of the farmers of the north, west and middle west is due to the Harding administration, former Governor James M. Cox of Ohio lifted the political lid in an address before the chapter of commerce at Jacksonville, Florida.

"The policy of isolation," Cox asserted, "is the cause of this condition. Agriculture is prosperous in Florida, because its products are consumed in America. In the north and west and middle west it is different. In grain and livestock states the surplus must be sold abroad. Stagnation has resulted in prices that have brought the farmer in many cases to the borderline of bankruptcy—or shoved him across the line.

The farmer doesn't want loans. He wants a market for his products at prices that will assure him a necessary margin of profit for his labor and energy.

"Each day confirms the absurdity, if not the stupidity, of continued performances at Washington," Cox added.

President Harding's proposal for American representation in the International Court of Justice has furnished the makings for a terrible row in his own party and has given the irreconcilables and other Republicans who don't want him renominated a fine excuse for repudiating and attacking him.

It is already being predicted that Senator Henry Cabot Lodge will be among those who will ultimately vote to reject the President's proposal for American participation in the stabilization of Europe. The Republican Senate entertains and has manifested but little respect for President Harding. Those Republicans who served with him when he was a Senator have never expressed admiration for his professed duty or diligence in the matter of this country's foreign relations. Many of them, including Lodge, Moses and Brandegee, have no very flattering opinion of the President's intellectual gifts. They have never ceased to be restive under the leadership of a former associate whom they ranked and treated as one of the Senate's mediocrities.

President Harding has simply added to the cleavage in his party. Already there was the grand division between reactionaries and the "radical" and moderate progressives, and besides that the demarcation between the advocates of American interest and participation in the affairs of the world and those who are opposed.

From the viewpoint of the Republican politicians, President Harding has raised a serious issue in his own party and increased the number of Republicans who don't want him for a second term.

Each day confirms the absurd-

"Why Should I Work? I'm a Vanderbilt!"

The Philosophic Reversion of Society's "Five Million Dollar Baby" from a $50-a-Week Job Back to the Idle Rich

At Right, a Youthful Snapshot of William Vanderbilt and Alice Muriel Astor, Both of Whom Were Left Fatherless by Great Sea Tragedies.

WHEN young William H. Vanderbilt, heir to millions, deserted his shiny desk and swivel chair in a Wall Street bank after only one week's clerking; took to dancing with the debutantes and dawdling at his country estate, and finally drifted away on a junketing trip around the world, some people said sniffling things about "quitters."

But the truth of it was, say young Vanderbilt's friends, that Willie wasn't so much of a quitter as he was a philosopher; he wasn't so lazy as he was shrewd; the reason he snubbed business was not because he loved leisure more, but because there was no real excuse for loving business at all!

In brief, after Willie had puttered about the bank for seven days, rejecting promptly every morning at nine and motoring back to his millionaire suite every afternoon at five, after he had attended to the little odd jobs which were all his lack of experience entitled him to get, Willie saw a light.

Here he was, owner of one of the greatest fortunes in the world, doing the work any $50-a-week clerk could do. More, he probably was filling a niche some ambitious chap would be only too glad to fill—some fellow who really needed the fifty. So Willie leaned back, stretched, yawned, shut his eyes, ruminated and remarked to himself:

"Why should I work? After all, I AM a Vanderbilt!"

Consider exactly what that statement means, particularly in the case of Willie, who is the son of the late Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, lost on the Lusitania, and the grandson of Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt II—the richest of all the younger Vanderbilts heirs.

His father inherited a fortune that had been amassing in America ever since the first Vanderbilt ran a ferryboat from Staten Island. Commodore Cornelius not only left his second son, Alfred, millions in stocks and bonds and real estate, but he bequeathed him the $4,000,000 estate, "Oakland Farms," at Newport, Rhode Island. And Alfred G. Vanderbilt began lavishing gifts on Willie almost from the day he was born.

Willie's first present from his father, on his second birthday, was a check for exactly $1,000,000. And Alfred G. Vanderbilt continued to put to Willie's credit in the bank a check for $1,000,000 on every birthday thereafter until the little boy was seven years old.

Willie's "five-million-dollar baby," as they called Willie, stopped getting checks after that, for his mother, the beautiful Mrs. Elsie French Vanderbilt (now Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons), divorced his father. But, by his father's will, Willie inherited most of Alfred G. Vanderbilt's estate, including "Oakland Farms" and valuable heirlooms of the Commodore's.

So, as Willie grew toward manhood, he was informed that those millions and those stocks and bonds and the Newport farm—which was anything but a farm in the usual sense of the word—were all his. Most of the money was in the form of a trust fund, but he would inherit it without any strings tied to it when he was twenty-one years old.

Probably Willie didn't think much about that, however. Like every other normal boy, he had games and hobbies that absorbed most of his time and dreams. Willie's passion was the sea. When he was only ten years old and they wanted his adenoids removed, Willie's mother promised him a present if he would "be a good boy and not cry." Willie agreed and the adenoids came out.

The present, instead of being a spoonful of apple jelly or a new baseball bat, was the steam yacht, "Caprice III." Willie was taught to sail in the waters around Newport. He became an expert yachtsman like his ancestors before him. "Caprice III," with its shiny decks and expensive fittings and crew and attendants, was his plaything just as bicycles and toy trains are the playthings of other little boys.

The sea seeped into Willie's blood. He tried to get an appointment to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, but there was a hitch some-he first got the notion that he ought to go to work. Maybe a girl put it in his head. Willie was very popular with the younger set and Newport said the beautiful Elizabeth Sands might marry him some day. They were considered boy-and-girl sweethearts. He was frequently seen, too, with Alice Muriel Astor, whose father, John Jacob Astor, like his own, was the victim of a great sea tragedy.

Or perhaps Willie, instead of thinking about work in connection with romance, thought about it in connection with the copybook maxims he wrote in school. There was one of them about Satan having mischief for idle hands to do. And there was another, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," that might be applied in reverse ratio. Even a Vanderbilt is not immune to copybook philosophy sometimes.

seemed to think that men ought to work—even Vanderbilt men. Willie's own father had kept pretty busy as a capitalist. Some of Willie's uncles and great-uncles were bankers and railroad presidents. His cousin, Cornelius, not a great deal older than himself, had become a newspaper reporter in spite of his wealth.

"All play and no work makes Jack a dull boy," Willie must have said to himself. "I shall go to work!"

And he went to work—at the Bankers' Trust Company, one of New York's great financial institutions, of which he knew personally practically all the directors and big officers. They gave Willie, who was still shy of twenty-one, a desk and a chair of his own and a number of minor duties.

And then Willie had a birthday—his twenty-first. He talked to lawyers, and finally he realized the fact, which he hadn't actually realized until the thing took place, that he was the sole owner of millions with which he could do exactly as he pleased.

And right there Willie indulged in a few copybook maxims of his own. They might have read: "Most people are working hard so some day they can stop work. Isn't it rather silly to work when there is no earthly necessity for it? If I were really indispensable to something important, it would be different. But I've been here a week and so far as I can see, the bank could rock along without me. And certainly it's not very philanthropic of me, a millionaire, to fill a job somebody else could fill. Besides, I've always wanted to 'run away to sea.' I think I shall!"

So the shiny new desk and the swivel chair were minus just one Vanderbilt after that. Willie took a vacation. He gave a series of house parties at "Oakland Farms" to celebrate his birthday and guests at the house party were pretty

WHEN young William H. Vanderbilt, heir to millions, deserted his shiny desk and swivel chair in a Wall Street bank after only one week's clerking, took to dancing with the debutantes and dawdling at his country estate, and finally drifted away on a junketing trip around the world, some people said sniffling things about "quitters."

But the truth of it was, say young Vanderbilt's friends, that Willie wasn't so much of a quitter as he was a philosopher; he wasn't so lazy as he was shrewd; the reason he snubbed business was not because he loved leisure more, but because there was no real excuse for loving business at all.

In brief, after Willie had puttered about the bank for seven days, reporting promptly every morning at nine and motoring back to his millionaire suite every afternoon at five, after he had attended to the little odd jobs which were all his lack of experience entitled him to get, Willie saw a light.

Here he was, owner of one of the greatest fortunes in the world, doing the work of any $50-a-week clerk could do. More, he probably was filling a niche some ambitious chap would be only too glad to fill—some fellow who really needed the fifty. So Willie leaned back, stretched, yawned, shut his eyes, ruminated and remarked to himself:

"Why should I work? After all, I AM a Vanderbilt!"

Consider exactly what that statement means, particularly in the case of Willie, who is the son of the late Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, lost on the Lusitania, and the grandson of Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt II—the richest of all the younger Vanderbilts heirs.

His father inherited a fortune that had been amassing in America ever since the first Vanderbilt ran a ferryboat from Staten Island. Commodore Cornelius not only left his second son, Alfred, millions in stocks and bonds and real estate, but he bequeathed him the $4,000,000 estate, "Oakland Farms," at Newport, Rhode Island. And Alfred G. Vanderbilt began lavishing gifts on Willie almost from the day he was born.

Willie's first present from his father, on his second birthday, was a check for exactly $1,000,000. And Alfred G. Vanderbilt continued to put to Willie's credit in the bank a check for $1,000,000 on every birthday thereafter until the little boy was seven years old.

The "five-million-dollar baby," as they called Willie, stopped getting checks after that, for his mother, the beautiful Mrs. Elsie French Vanderbilt (now Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons), divorced his father. But, by his father's will, Willie inherited most of Alfred G. Vanderbilt's estate, including "Oakland Farms" and valuable heirlooms of the Commodore's.

It Was Tamara Swirskaya and Her Weird Futurist Costume Dance That Gave Colonel Savage an Idea How He Would Dress Up the Thompson Twins—When They Arrived.

Down the Gangplank Came Those "Heavenly Twins"!

And When Colonel Savage SAW Them—Into the Sea Went His Plans for Futurist Lingerie and Daringly Dainty Dances production for his little star, Mizzi.

"Here it is well to draw a veil—a veil of crushed bouquets and unused frocks and hats."—Above, a Photo of the "Tomson Twins" the Dumfounded Colonel Savage DID Meet.

New ideas were necessary.

"I wish," dreamed Colonel Savage to himself, "I wish I had a dancer to wear a costume like that futurist thing Mlle. What's-her-name wore. I wish I had a pair of dancers—cute little tricks—the Dollys—or the Fairbanks twins—or better still, twins new to America."

But the Dollys were not available. Neither were the Fairbanks sisters. Colonel Savage dismissed the problem until, looking over his mail one morning, he read a cablegram from his London agent.

"Angel Face" flat failure. Tomson twins a riot.

This ran the agent's report on the new musical comedy that had opened on the Strand the night before.

"Tomson? Tomson?" repeated Colonel Savage.

"Where have I heard that name before. Ah, yes! The Thompson twins! Rotten spellers—these cable clerks! Miss Smith, take a cablegram."

And forthwith Colonel Savage shot instructions to his London agent to grab the Thompson twins for the Mizzi show.

The agent was authorized to offer them a top-notch salary and, in the event that they accepted, to put them immediately under contract for seven weeks, at least.

When the answering cablegram came back, "Twins signed, sailing on Berengaria," Colonel Savage went to his stage manager.

"I've got exactly what we needed," he smiled to the stage manager, "the Thompson twins. I saw them dancing in Vienna last Summer—two English girls, each as pretty as a picture. Can't be much over sixteen—slim—dainty—lots of pep. They'll be a knockout in that gauzy futurist costume I was telling you about. Better start to work on designs."

Colonel Savage next summoned his publicity director, Miss Anne Ayers.

"This is most important, Miss Ayers," he said impressively. "We've booked the Thompson twins for the new show, and they'll arrive here on the Berengaria next week."

"Who," inquired Miss Ayers, "are the Thompson twins?"

"Two of the daintiest little dancers you ever heard of. English girls, each as pretty as a picture. I saw them in Vienna last Summer. The important thing is to give them a great welcome. It's a chance for some wonderful publicity and, besides, we want to make them feel at home. You know how some of these English actors are. We don't want them taking the next boat back. Now what do you suggest, Miss Ayers?"

Miss Ayers suggested first of all—flowers. Colonel Savage knew how women are about flowers.

Miss Ayers suggested a suite at the Ritz. It would be nice, she thought, if cosmetics and toilette accessories and perhaps some bonbons were all spread out, waiting for the travel-weary Thompson twins. Didn't Colonel Savage think so? He did—beamingly.

Then there would be the reception committee, headed by Colonel Savage himself, of course. And a limousine. And—

"What type are they, Colonel Savage?" asked Miss Ayers again. "It wouldn't be a bad stunt to have a Fifth Avenue modiste make up two classy little gowns, with hats to match. For the pictures, you know. They could change on board before they faced the cameramen."

"Excellent!" commended Colonel Savage. "Of course, I don't remember exactly what they looked like, Miss Ayers, but I have a distinct impression of daintiness—fragile, ethereal, dainty!"

And so all was ordered as Colonel Savage and his publicity director had planned. Miss Ayers said she would see the newspapers. The reporters must be on hand—and the cameramen—oh, by all means, the cameramen!

They were on hand. So was the reception committee, at its head a large and genial gentleman tightly holding two fragrant, lovely bouquets of orchids and lilies-of-the-valley.

The Berengaria blew in the Hudson. The Berengaria docked. The cameramen unlimbered their machines. The reporters yanked out their pencils. The reception committee stifled a cheer. Its chairman lifted his bouquets high and fixed his eyes on the side of the rail.

He could hear Miss Ayers inquiring, "Miss Thompson! Miss Thompson!" By and by this changed to "Thompson twins, please! This way, Thompson twins."

It was very exciting.

And then, to a hullabaloo of shouts, in which the reception committee distinctly heard again and again the cry, "The Thompson twins!" there galloped down the gangplank.

One ruddy, rugged, six-feet-in-his-socks Englishman who looked as though he could take on Dempsey for ten rounds and like it.

A second ruddy, rugged, six-feet-in-his-socks Englishman who looked the identical double of the first Englishman.

"Cheerio!" boomed two basso profundos. "Colonel Savage! We're the Tomson twins!"

Here it is well to draw a veil—a veil of crushed bouquets and unused frocks and hats—over the pictures the cameramen didn't take and the stories the reporters didn't write; over what Colonel Savage wrote to his agent in London and what the amazement of the Tomson twins that any one should confuse them with those continental girl dancers, Hazel and Dorothy Thompson; and over the pleasant, idle weeks they spent "seeing New York" while Colonel Savage paid them the salaries their contracts demanded for services he could not use, and they dug up their old buddies of the aviation corps in which both served.

The Tomson twins have returned to England now—all expenses paid—and Henry W. Savage learned some weeks ago that within Colonel Savage's hearing it is better not to breathe the name of either Thompson or Tomson; or, for that matter, even to speak of twins.

Augustus John, Famous Portrait Painter and Alleged "Hero" of Mrs. Gough's Romance in London's Bohemia.

So Says the Husband of the Beauty He Seeks to Divorce Because He Doesn't Dare Imagine What to Expect

LONDON.
"THAT woman has tried everything for a thrill!"

With this bitter comment on the career of his wife, Captain Wilfred Hugh Gough, scion of an old Welsh family and a hero of the World War, particularly as follows in his divorce suit filed in the London courts against the famous beauty, Mrs. Sylvia Cawston Gough:

Thrill No. 1—Society. After a brilliant season, in which she was received at court, Mrs. Gough is said to have remarked, "I really bore me!"

Thrill No. 2—Business. At the outbreak of the war Mrs. Gough went to work as a stenographer in a government office.

Thrill No. 3—Farming. Tired of town life, Mrs. Gough drove a plow for six months in rural England.

Thrill No. 4—Marriage. Chosen by E. G. Hoppe as "one of the six most beautiful women in England," Mrs. Gough became a professional model.

Thrill No. 5—The stage. Declaring her husband was bankrupt in the war, Mrs. Gough crossed to America and joined the chorus of a musical comedy in New York.

Thrill No. 6—Romance in Bohemia. Captain Gough charges Mrs. Gough with a love affair with Augustus John, the radical portrait painter.

Thrill No. 7—Romance of the turf. Captain Gough charges Mrs. Gough with a love affair with Baron Maurice de Rothschild, multi-millionaire sportsman.

Thrill No. 8—Romance of riches. Captain Gough names as third co-respondent Bertrand Nodder, said to be even wealthier than Rothschild.

Probably Mrs. Gough's "tenth thrill" was presented to her by her husband when she was served with the papers in the divorce suit. She denies his charges, but they are the talk of society on two continents, for Mrs. Gough has been a scintillating figure of the international smart set ever since she made her debut. She is only twenty-four.

London knew her first as "the lovely Miss Cawston." The daughter of the late George Cawston, of South Africa and Cawston Manor, Norfolk, England, she was presented to Mayfair under the patronage, it is said, of Lady Diana Manners, herself a celebrated beauty.

But Sylvia Cawston, like her famous patron, quickly tired of a round of teas, receptions, dances and visits to fashionable country homes. She was among the first to "release a man for service" at the outbreak of the war, and the restless freedom of spirit that seized so many Englishwomen then seems to have stayed by her even after her marriage to Captain Gough.

At least, Captain Gough declares, she refused to be contented with the comparatively humdrum duties of matrimony. She wanted a thrill, and she found it in the studios, he charges. Before long Mrs. Gough was one of the "most photographed" and "most painted" women in England.

New York first saw the beautiful Mrs. Gough when she arrived here in the Winter of 1921. For a while she was entertained in the inner circle of Manhattan's "400." Then, asserting she must recoup the fortune of her husband "wiped out by the war," she took her place in the chorus of "The Right Girl," a musical comedy then playing at the Times Square Theatre.

Mrs. Gough's theatrical venture was short-lived. She took a flier in the movies, but the producers declared, however beautiful she was in life and on canvas, she did not "screen well." Mrs. Gough returned to England and for a time faded from the public eye.

Now comes the sensational divorce suit of her husband, in which her name is linked with three men, each of whom is one of the most picturesque figures in Europe, each representing a different world of activity—art, sport and money-making. Of the three, perhaps Augustus John is the most interesting.

"Of all the men I have met, Augustus John has the most striking personality," declares Frank Harris, the editor and critic of the arts, whose friends have included such distinguished personages as Robert Browning, Oscar Wilde, James Whistler, Anatole France, Guy de Maupassant, Carlyle, Swinburne, Rodin, Fabre, Verlaine, Matthew Arnold and a host of other giants of art and letters of this century and the last.

More than six feet tall, with huge shoulders, flashing violet eyes under long lashes, and a beard like a Russian grand duke's, John became the most famous portrait painter in England. There is a legend

Baron Maurice de Rothschild, Multi-Millionaire Turf King, Names Among Three Co-respondents by Captain Gough.

That Woman has Tried Everything for a Thrill!

Studio Poses of Mrs. Gough Taken When Hoppe Named Her "One of the Six Most Beautiful Women in England."

Frank Harris says he was court-martialed for knocking down a superior officer who had contradicted him in an argument at a function given by the Duke of Manchester. An incident that gave John international publicity was his quarrel with Lord Leverhulme over a portrait.

John was commissioned to paint a half-length portrait of His Lordship. When Leverhulme received the painting, it is said he did not like it. He hacked the head off of the picture and the mutilated remains were returned to John. The painter was furious. He wrote Leverhulme a scathing letter and then sued him for damages, basing his claim on a law that no one shall be allowed to tamper with the work of a painter or sculptor during his life. The artists of the world sprang to John's support, and there was a dispute raging for months in many countries over the ethics of Leverhulme's act.

This is the man with whom, Captain Gough charges, his wife became infatuated. The affair began, says Gough, while Mrs. Gough was posing for John. She is said to have been his favorite model, her beauty giving him the inspiration for many of his finest pictures.

Baron Maurice de Rothschild, the second co-respondent named by Captain Gough, is almost as dominating a figure in the world of European sport as Augustus John is in art circles. The baron belongs to the French branch of the multi-millionaire family which has given the world such prominent bankers for generations past.

Baron Rothschild's stable is his pet hobby. He has lavished hundreds of thousands of francs on his thoroughbreds—won and lost some of the highest wagers ever recorded at continental tracks. His horse "Sardanapole" won the $100,000 Grand Prix race at Longchamps a few years ago.

Like Augustus John, the baron is something of an eccentric. Crowds, at the fashionable opening of the Longchamps track after the war, were amazed when he appeared with several friends wearing unpressed, wrinkled trousers and dingy hats. They announced, quite seriously, that their garb was meant as a rebuke to French extravagance among the rich while the country was groaning under the yoke of war taxes.

Fashionable, social and artistic London, as well as New York and Paris, is awaiting with eagerness the opening of the Gough vs. Gough divorce hearing, when the details of the "lovely Sylvia's" alleged affairs with the famous artist, the king of sport and the multi-millionaire are expected to be recited as the crowning evidence in her husband's complaint that she has "tried everything for a thrill!"

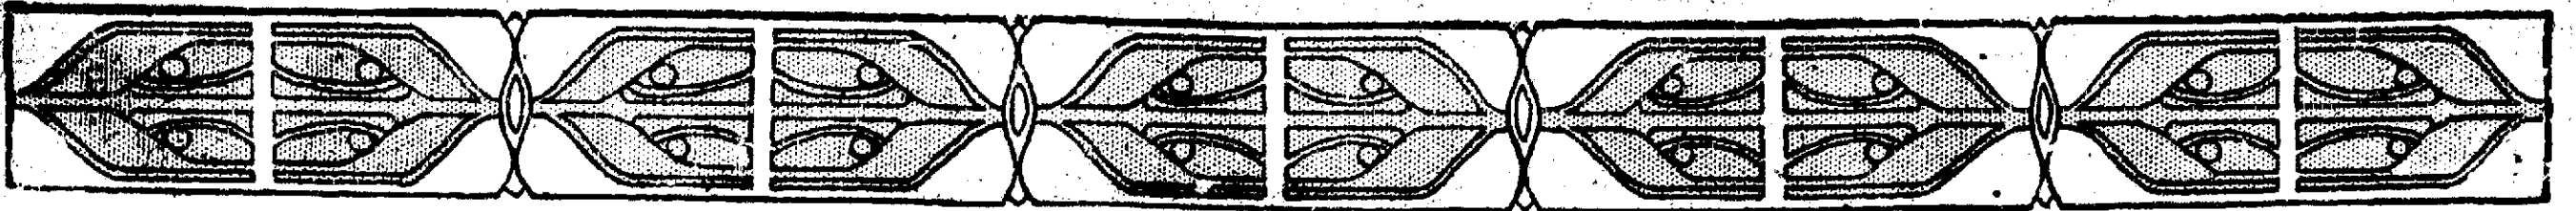

that he was an indifferent art student as a boy, and suddenly turned genius after a severe blow on the head while he was swimming on the Welsh coast.

Whatever the truth of this, John swiftly leaped to the front rank among contemporary artists. He is known as a "rebel" in art; some of his work is called "freaky," as grotesque as much of Gainsborough's. But he is a member of the Royal Cambrian Academy and the president of the National Portrait Society of Great Britain.

In his personal life John is called as "radical" and "eccentric" as in his painting. "If you are introduced to him," wrote one journalist, "do not be surprised if you find him dressed in green pajamas, with a golden ring in one ear." Another writer quotes John as saying: "I believe in the indulgence of every man to his own taste. Would I eat human flesh? Why not? If it came my way and pleased me, I should eat it."

During the war John was a major in the Canadian army and served in France.

Better even than reading the story, though, was seeing Miss Keller herself. I think I liked her quicker than I have ever liked anyone else. She talked to Miss Keller by touching her hand. In the same way she conversed with Governor Blaine, of Wisconsin. But there are other means of communication for Willetta. Besides the "touch system," she uses the deaf and dumb language with one or two hands employed.

"I can use my hands to talk to Genevieve. Genevieve is my best friend at school. She's blind and deaf, too, but we have lots of fun together. We take long walks and talk—well, you know how much girls in their teens talk. We're just like other girls in that way." That is the way that Willetta puts it. There is nothing weird or startling

By DR. W. H. BALLOU.

SCIENTIFIC opinion recently received a shock that sent it reeling—a deaf and blind girl, it has been proved, can hear and see. Passing the most rigid tests with flying colors, seventeen-year-old Willetta Huggins first astonished officials of the Wisconsin School for the Blind, at Janesville, and then ran the gauntlet of sceptical outsiders, men of profound knowledge, who were cynical of her alleged faculties.

The "wonder girl" of Wisconsin is the first to have attracted world wide attention by reason of her ability to "hear" and "see" through her fingertips; but it is now believed that there may be others like her, equally sensitized, and that these "miracle children" will eventually come to light. A veritable second human race of the "seeing blind" and the "hearing deaf" may finally be found upon the earth. Extraordinary as the powers which Willetta Huggins possesses may seem, their explanation is simple. Or rather the simple fact from which they spring is overlaid with many subtle details. For while her optic nerve refuses to function in the ordinary way, she is able to receive and record impressions of a visual and auditory sort through her fingers. They are to her what the antennae are to the butterfly—infallible tests, which make mental photographs as surely and as swiftly as the action of a camera shutter.

She can hear, with keen delight, the music of a piano, a symphony orchestra or the human voice. She can, by touching the head of a friend or acquaintance, tell what they are saying to her. She can detect the difference of colors purely by touch. And this last-named process she quaintly calls "smelling colors." Blue is her favorite, because she prefers its peculiar odor. "Green smells like grass," she says. "Their odors are the same. But my fingers tell me which is which. Blue smells like ink. Black's like a newspaper. White? There isn't any smell to white."

The "wonder-girl" literally sees with her fingers. By passing her hands over a newspaper headline, she can tell what it is all about. If it's a question of figures, she distinguishes one from another with the help of her attractive, impatient looking nose. Each figure has a different amount of ink, so each conveys some delicate shade of difference to her olfactory nerve. This, in turn, transmits the intelligence to the brain centres.

Show her a newspaper engraving of four women in a group. If one of them has white hair and the others dark, almost instantly she will identify the white-haired one. "Talking" with people, especially if she knows them well, is even easier. For instance, there is Johnny. "Johnny," Willetta admits, "is my best friend. He's my portophone." (Portophone is her quaint term for a human combination of telephone, telegraph and chum.)

"He and I are together a lot. I guess you'd almost say he was my best bean, because I hold his hand and he whispers to me what the other people say. Johnny and I and Mr. and Mrs. Hooper—they're my second and third best friends—went all over Chicago together." But Willetta didn't think much of a big city. The silver wires of her senses were jangled; con-

ness and liveliness of the flapper. Attractive in appearance, her face has the glow of a thoroughly brisk and busy modern girl. In repose, this is quite true. But when she grows animated, it is additionally so. Take her to a lecture at which she might be expected to show boredom and nervousness. her. Nature, after taking away, has given to her—and others like her—plentifully in return.

Willetta's reactions to all these things are sharp, vivid and intensely personal, as she expresses them. She knows that there are others hampered just as she is. With them she has a wonderful sympathy, intuition and tact, plus admiration. "When one of my teachers read me the story of Helen Keller," Willetta remarked, "I wondered if I couldn't learn to hear like her. I just loved that story of Helen Keller, and I have read it lots of times.

in all that she "hears" and "sees." But to the average child—or adult—Willetta's varied and colorful life, full of incident and opinions and swift understanding, will seem a veritable page out of modern romance, a fairy tale of fact which would have terrified our primitive ancestors. Yet her case is perhaps not unique; it is merely a striking one, typical of the astonishing time in which we live, when deaf and blind, instead of being cruelly exposed on a mountain top, to die of cold and starvation, find that the whole world is their friend.

THE GREAT ELUSION

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Copyright, 1937, by E. Phillips Oppenheim

Vendetta begins between MICHAEL SAYERS, noted criminal, and SIR NORMAN GREY, one of Scotland Yard's best men. Says his beautiful fiancée, JANET, saves him from Sir Norman by shooting dead an officer sent to arrest him. Greys falls in love with Janet and proposes marriage. Michael disposes of the girl by a pearly necklace. Having stolen a pearl necklace, the gift of Sir Norman to his bride, Sayers returns them indirectly to Janet.

Michael buys from the divorced wife of a politician a bundle of manuscript, evidence against the lady's former husband and his confederate, the well-known Lord Kindersley. Sayers refuses to hand over the manuscript until he has the evidence for publication because he is in love with Beatrice Kindersley.

It was toward the close of a dinner party at Kindersley Court, in Devonshire, where Janet and I were spending a fortnight, that our host suddenly directed the conversation to me.

"One has heard a great deal of your successes, Greys, especially during your last few years at Scotland Yard. What do you count your greatest failure?"

"My inability to bring to justice the greatest criminal in Europe," I replied after a moment's hesitation. "I had him on my book for three years, but when I retired, he was still very much at large."

"What is his name?" Lord Kindersley asked with some interest. I smiled.

"A name with him, I suspect, is an affair of the moment. I have known him under a dozen different pseudonyms, but his real name is, I believe, Michael. He did me the honor to attend my wedding reception as Colonel Escamote."

I happened to meet the glance of Beatrice Kindersley as I looked across the table.

"But tell us about this man Michael?" Lord Kindersley intervened. "I remember, seven or eight years ago, hearing something about the duel between you fellows at Scotland Yard and a wonderfully led criminal gang. Where is the fellow now?"

I shook my head.

"I shouldn't have the faintest idea where to look for him. If he comes into the limelight again, my friend Jimmington at Scotland Yard will certainly send for me."

"And you would join in the hunt?" our host persisted.

"You would do nothing of the sort," Janet intervened, looking across at me. "That is a promise."

I smiled back at her reassuringly. Prosperity and peace of mind had agreed with Janet. The dignity of widowhood sat well upon her. Her complexion seemed to have grown more creamy, her beautiful eyes softer, her carriage, always graceful, more assured. There was no woman in the company more admired than she—only one less spoiled. I sometimes think that if he had had her way, she would never have wandered at all outside our little domain.

"There is just the one possibility I remarked, 'that I might not be able to evade the challenge. If I do not go after Michael, he may come after me.'"

It was precisely at this moment that the amazing event happened. We were a party of twelve at dinner, seated at a round table in the center of the large banquet hall of Kindersley Court. The room was rather dimly lighted, except for the heavily shaded table lamps. The two footmen had left the room, presumably to fetch the coffee, and the butler standing behind Lord Kindersley's chair was the only servant in attendance. Suddenly every light in the place went out, and we were plunged into the most complete darkness.

"Never knew such a thing to happen before," our host declared in an annoyed tone. "Somebody must have to be holding forward for examination, flashed on the little heap of her jewelry upon the table.

"Pray keep your miniature," the voice conceded. "Do me the further honor, if you will, of realising your jewelry upon your fingers and wrists. We are not here to rob children of their baubles."

Beatrice's laugh was a most amazing thing. It was perfectly natural and full of amused enjoyment.

"I don't like the reflection upon my jewelry," she complained. "However, since you are so generous, I will accept your offer."

"Look here," Lord Kindersley broke out, finding a certain courage from his niece's complete composure, "is this a practical joke?"

"You will discover if it is a practical joke or not, if you attempt to leave your seat!" was the instant reply.

"These fellows can't think they're going to get away with a thing like this," muttered Lord Harroden, the lord lieutenant of the county, from the other end of the table.

"Your lordship is mistaken," was the confident reply from the unseen figure, who was directing the proceedings. "I will lay you five to one in hundreds that we do, payment to be made thru the personal column of the Times in thirty days' time."

"Gad, he's a cool hand!" chuckled Amstruther, the master of house, who was seated next but one to me. "I wish I could see his face for a moment."

"It would be your last if you did," he was promptly told.

"What if I strike a match?" a young man who was seated next to Kindersley inquired.

"I should put it out with one bullet and you with the next," Michael assured him grimly. "Now, ladies and gentlemen, we went on, after a brief pause, 'our business seems to be over. Anyone who leaves his seat before we reach the door, will be shot. As soon as we get there, we shall look you in, and then you can commence your part of the fun as soon as you like.'"

No one attempted a single word of reply. The little points of fire were kept turned upon us while our visitors slowly retreated. We heard the door unlocked, heard it slammed, heard it locked again—the signal for our emancipation. Very nearly simultaneously we all started to our feet.

AN INTIMATE STORY OF INFERNO
EXCITING REVEALED IN PRIVATE LETTERS
COPYRIGHT 1937-NEA SERVICE INC.

LETTER FROM BEATRICE GRIMSHAW TO SALLIE ALBERTSON FRIEND OF THE NEWLY-WED JOEY PRESCOTTS

Enclosed please find newspaper accounts of the most brilliant wedding I ever attended.

Leslie Hamilton is now Leslie Prescott—a full Mrs. John Alden Prescott.

They have left, Sallie, on a wedding trip to some unknown place and we will not know exactly where they are until we receive their first letter.

The wedding was simply gorgeous, as you will see from the description, but all the while I had a faint foreboding. John and Leslie do not know each other, Sallie. That is what worries me, I guess.

Of course never having been married, or even in love, I am not supposed to know anything about it, but being on the outside of it all, I am sure that I can give a more unbiased opinion than those who have been thru the experience.

Sallie, it does seem to me that anyone with any sense at all should know that two people who enter into the intimate contact of marriage, expecting to be happy, should know each other thoroughly before they make the public declarations and vows of love.

I said so much the other evening when a few of us had settled ourselves about the big fireplace in the Hamilton billiard-room, and Sybil Cartan announced, amid hilarious laughter, 'I am afraid that under those circumstances we would have heaven upon earth for there would be no marriages or giving in marriage.'

I cannot understand how such a girl as Leslie can possibly think there is some alchemy in the marriage service that will take two alien natures and John and Leslie are as unlike as the poles—and fuse them into one splendid whole, allied in taste, in principles, in ideas and ideals.

Perhaps the American idea of marriage is the best of any of which we know. It would be, 'if love were only all.' It really seems to me, however, that after the first flush of passion, love or that peculiar thing we call love is the least necessary to happiness.

With the same interest, the same tastes, the same ambitions and enthusiasms, with tolerance and unselfishness, it seems to me that a contented companionship would come easy.

Sallie, I think I shall be your old maid friend.

Yesterday at St. James, was solemnized the marriage ceremony between Miss Leslie Hamilton and Mr. John Alden Prescott.

ONE APPLICATION WILL SUFFICE TO CONVINCE THE MOST SKEPTICAL. We know that there are millions who have tried everything, internal and external, to relieve their rheumatic pains and were disappointed.

The discovery of NO-RU SOAP was one of these disappointed sufferers, hence his effort to find something that actually stops these excruciating pains. His efforts were crowned with even greater success than he ever dreamed of.

How wonderful he felt when, after years of experimenting, he finally got the product which GAVE HIM NEW PAINS FOR OLD. This NO-RU SOAP WAS LIKE STRIPPING OFF THE GARMENT OF PAIN. Can you blame him for wanting to let everybody know of this discovery?

EVERY RHEUMATISM SUFFERER OF RHEUMATIC PAINS KNOWING THAT this wonderful discovery will stop their pains, just to show you what it can do for EVERY RHEUMATISM SUFFERER.

Mr. M. Schmitt, of Berea, O., was down with rheumatic pains in such a bad way that he could not lift anything; he could hardly perform the slightest household tasks, thus having to quit work like a helpless invalid. AFTER THE FIRST APPLICATION OF NO-RU SOAP the pains stopped instantly; he could not trust his legs, so he waited a few days, fully determined to go back to his life-long occupation as engineer, which entails hard work and back-ache. But back to work he went, well and happy; and he says that he will never again be without NO-RU SOAP.

It gave him a new lease on life, for what is life if it means continuous pains day and night, a burden to yourself and those around you? Now what NO-RU SOAP HAS DONE FOR MR. SCHMITT and to thousands of similar sufferers, can be proved to anybody who will simply give it a trial. How fully we trust the efficacy of NO-RU SOAP is shown by our positive MONEY REFUND GUARANTEE, which goes with every sale of NO-RU SOAP.

Helen, Hilyard, Dolphos, R. D. 1, writes: "One day a boy in school asked the teacher if a person could be punished for something he didn't do. 'No,' the teacher answered. 'Well then,' he said, 'I didn't do my arithmetic.'"

Mrs. M. H. Kuller, Rapid City, Mich., relates this one. "I asked members of my Sunday school class one day if they said their prayers before they went to bed. All shook their heads in the negative. 'Why Philip?' I asked one small boy, 'don't you say your prayers before you go to sleep?' 'Nope,' said Philip, 'I just jump into bed and cover all over and that's all there is to it.'"

"One day my mother read to my small sister about a water-beetle," writes Kathryn Hilyard, Dolphos, R. D. 1. "The next day when we went after the milk, she saw a fire engine putting out a fire and she said, 'Oh, look at the water-beetle.'"

Pfeiffer, the butcher, turned a number of ducks out of a crate to exercise in a pen back of his meat market at Kenton, O.

One of them promptly flew up to the roof of a nearby haberdashery, and after looking about a bit and quacking once or twice, it took wing again and disappeared in the clouds, heading east.

Pfeiffer says, "I'm glad they weren't all like that."

Young Married Women Need Mother's Advice—

MRS. PEARL STEELE
202 WARD ST., WARRENSBURG, MO.

A GREAT many women after childbirth get up too soon and, too weak to care for the child and perform their household duties, often bring on serious derangements.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid tonic to take at this time; it is an excellent restorative, contains no harmful drugs, and can be taken in safety by nursing mothers. Thousands of mothers advise their daughters to take this grand old root and herb medicine for such conditions because of their own favorable experience with it.

Following We Publish an Interesting Letter From Mrs. Steele of Warrensburg, Which Should Interest Every Mother in the Land:

WARRENSBURG, MO.—"When my second child was born I got up too soon as my mother wasn't able to do for me. I could not stand on my feet without being dizzy and my back would ache so badly that I would have to lie down at times through the day. My mother had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and had a bottle of it at the time so she begged me to take it which I did and I cannot tell you how much better I felt after taking it. Then a year later my husband got back from overseas and we went to keeping house by ourselves and I got all run down again. I couldn't work long at a time but would have to sit down and rest. My husband kept begging me to take the Vegetable Compound again so I have done so. I recommend it when I can as I know it is good for women's troubles and I thought you might like to know what it has done for me."—MRS. PEARL M. STEELE, 202 Ward St., Warrensburg, Mo.

Another Interesting Case

CHESTER, PA.—"I was all run-down and in a weak condition when I married. I had many of the troubles women often have and the birth of my children left me almost a wreck. One day my brother-in-law was visiting and asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I said, 'It's no use, as nothing does me any good.' He asked me if I would take it if he would buy it, and to please him I said, 'Yes.' He bought me three bottles before there was a change, so you see I was pretty badly off. I couldn't do any work before this, and kept a girl. I got so well I did my own work and later had more children and kept my good health. I do all my work and take in sewing too, and am raising plants for Memorial Day. I feel younger than I did at twenty because I have good health."—MRS. L. A. LAMBY, 1125 Madison St., Chester, Pa.

"A WONDERFUL FEED!" This was the statement made by Albert Angell, Jr., the noted poultry expert, when he made and tested Vitality Chick Starter. Angell says, "In this new feed we use buttermilk and an abundance of oatmeal and bone meal, the greatest ingredients known for making rapid growth and large frames. We can now grow more chicks on Vitality Chick Starter than any other feed I have ever known. The first four weeks tell the story of the chick's life. Grow them fast, big and plump in this time and then the rest is easy."

Albert Angell, Jr., also recommends Vitality Growing Mash from four weeks to six months in growing pullets for Fall and Winter laying. Ask for a copy of "Scientific Poultry Feeding and Management" and raise every chick.

FORD

WEEKLY PURCHASE PLAN

Ford Motor Company, inaugurates new weekly purchase plan which makes it possible and actually easy for the vast majority of people to buy a Ford and in a surprisingly short time.

F. R. Woolley, Sales Manager of the Local Ford Dealer, Timmerman Motor Sales Company explains its merits.

There are approximately twenty million wage earners in the United States that do not own cars that could very easily save a few dollars a week toward the purchase of a Ford car.

Stop the first individual you meet make the inquiry, "Do you own an automobile?" The answer in the negative, ask the person, "Would you like to own one?" Invariably the answer is "Yes." The next question, "When do you expect to purchase a car?" His answer "It will be several years before I can afford an automobile." And the next, "What car would you purchase if it were made possible for you to buy a car?" His answer, almost invariably "A Ford Car." Naturally, the cost of the outstanding value and the extremely low price.

Did you know that in 1923 there was deposited in the bank by the people of the United States approximately two hundred million dollars in Christmas Savings Clubs. Mostly from incentive of purchasing gifts for other people. Think of the same plan where the individual is accumulating funds to purchase a Ford Car, Truck or Tractor. This Ford Weekly Purchasing Plan provides a means for the purchase through consistent weekly savings of small amounts deposited in the Lima Trust Company who are handling this plan in our city.

Interest will be paid on deposits in accordance with the regular bank plan saving rate on payments made regularly. At such a time when the customer deposits enough to make a down payment on a Ford, we deliver to them a new Car.

This plan means that there will be opened to potential buyers an avenue in which they will soon be able to purchase their life long wish "A Ford Car." It also means that Father, Mother, Brother and Sister can all save and in a very short time they will pack their lunch, jump in a Ford and go away for a day's outing.

The Lima Trust Company as well as ourselves will give any added information with reference to this plan that any one desires.

Now, can you see any reason why the average man of today is not going to be able to drive a Ford Car?

Buick Four Negotiations

A Buick four cylinder touring car recently astonished the Chinese by climbing in high gear the famous wall that surrounds the ancient city of Peking.

This wall is about thirty feet in height and the runway to the top is approximately two hundred feet long. Starting at twenty miles an hour, the Buick reached the top traveling at the rate of ten miles an hour.

This is the wall which played so important and tragic a part in the historical Boxer rebellion.

Leading up to the top of the wall are long ramps, paved with rough brick and pitched at a steep angle. The grade is twenty-one per cent.

The performance of the Buick aroused a great deal of discussion in Peking and was watched with interest by many spectators.

WONDERFUL TESTS

The recent results of a long series of tests in automobile manufacturers laboratories indicate the danger to owners in using anything but genuine parts in such service replacements as may be necessary.

For example, in Dodge Brothers laboratory at Detroit a test was recently applied to rear axle shafts. The genuine Dodge Brothers axle shaft withstood six complete turns in the test for torsion strength, while the best of several counterfeit shafts withstood only 1 3/4 turns. In testing steering knuckle bolts—the genuine bolts bent double without breaking when put under a given pressure. When the same pressure was applied to counterfeit bolts, they snapped without exception showing brittleness and defective core.

In the opinion of Mr. Jones, local Dodge Brothers dealer, such tests show very plainly why it is the best policy for motorists to depend upon service stations approved by the factory building their car, for any service parts that may be required for such replacement work as may be necessary. It is only here that parts can be guaranteed as being genuine parts.

Automobile manufacturers build their parts for service work as well as they know how because it is absolutely necessary in order to maintain the car owners' good will.

All car owners should realize the extreme importance to them of always getting genuine parts. If repairs or replacement of parts become necessary it is worth having done in the most capable manner by an established place of business which has the stamp of approval of the manufacturer back of the car.

All These Advantages at the Cost of an Open Car

With all closed car comforts and utility the Coach combines performance and reliability surpassing far costlier cars, both by official proofs and the service records of owners.

Essex values extend to the minutest details—to hidden parts you never see. But they mean everything in long hard service. Finest bearings are used throughout. But one other car has a frame so sturdy, for the weight carried. And experts, here and in Europe call its motor the finest of its size.

Low Cost—Comfortable Motoring

This Buick four cylinder, five passenger touring car affords dependable, comfortable motoring for every occasion.

Improvements in the design of both the chassis and the famous Buick Valve-in-Head engine have contributed further to the well known Buick qualities of dependability and economy. Innovations in equipment have provided comforts in the open model that approximate those found in much more expensive closed cars.

For instance, with the Buick designed storm curtains, reinforced by the Buick weather strip, closed car coziness in bad weather has been closely approximated. A signal pocket for the driver, complete instrument board, transmission lock and many other conveniences are features every motorist appreciates.

STUDEBAKER WINS SOUTH AMERICA'S RACING CLASSIC

Special-Six Again Leads the Field in the Gran Premio—Buenos Aires to Rosario and Return

A Studebaker Special-Six, driven by William T. Burke, won the Gran Premio of Argentina—South America's most important race of the year—against a field which included some of the world's highest priced cars. This race is an annual event held under the auspices of the Argentine Automobile Club.

This is the second year in succession that Studebaker has raced to victory in the Gran Premio.

The distance was from Buenos Aires to Rosario and return—about 470 miles—and the winner's time, 47 hours, 45 minutes, 35 seconds.

Twenty-six cars were entered in the race, including those of the following makes: Studebaker, Packard, Lincoln, Hispan-Suiza, Hudson, Buick, Lancia, Chandler and Paige. Because of bad roads, only 10 of the 26 entrants finished, four of which were Studebakers.

A Lincoln, driven by Pedro Malbor, came in second, time 10 hours, 47 minutes, 29 seconds. A Studebaker Light-Six, driven by Paris Glanna, was a close third, time 10 hours, 48 minutes, 35 seconds.

The record made by the Studebaker entrants in the race is considered remarkable, in view of the Studebaker victory in 1922 and the rivalry that had developed.

speed—it is a test of sturdy construction and endurance, especially under such driving conditions as were encountered this year. The service to which the cars were subjected was greater than months of ordinary driving and strikingly demonstrates the stamina possessed by Studebaker cars.

MAGNETO FLASHLIGHT

This hand flashlight, for use of automobile drivers especially, has a magneto instead of a battery. By pressing the hand lever in and out continually, while a light is wanted, the magneto is kept turning at a speed high enough to produce a brilliant light.

AUTO NOTES

Havana motorists prefer autos with short wheelbase, due to narrowness of streets.

First auto to carry the engine under the hood in front, instead of beneath the seat, was one made by Claude E. Cox at Terre Haute, Ind., in 1902.

Average auto consumption of gasoline annually is estimated between 350 and 450 gallons a car.

Best results are obtained when exhaust gas is quite colorless and almost entirely odorless.

Ontario is collecting an extra license fee of $1 for license plates.

Honey as an anti-freeze remedy in the cooling system is suggested by a bookkeeper.

POLICE HELP MOTORING

The District of Columbia has put a detail of police on the job of locating highway defects and reporting them. At the same time, they will be of service to passing motorists who may seek information.

"LICENSE ALL DRIVERS"

"To Diminish Accidents," Say Safety Advocates

Safe drivers' Clubs thruout the United States are trying to effect the passage of laws which would require the licensing of every automobile driver in the country.

Thus, they maintain, the chauffeur would be cleaned from the wheel, a higher sense of responsibility behind the steering wheel would be felt and automobile accidents in general would be diminished.

Fifteen of the 48 states already have automobile drivers' license laws, but even these laws are considered inadequate. Five of these 15 states place no limit on the age of the driver, while in other states the minimum driving age varies from 14 to 18. Only 11 of the states require mental and physical examinations of the candidate for a license.

Fourteen of the states in the country have even a chauffeurs' licensing law.

AFTER INCOMPETENTS

These safety clubs do not demand license laws for the taxation to be derived for them, or even the record to be had. Their only purpose is to find some way by which the incompetent, irresponsible driver will be eliminated. To this end they demand a thorough examination of each applicant before a license is furnished him.

Such an examination would require

Driving over a specified road, accompanied by a police officer, and again under his observation from a machine following behind the applicant.

Working knowledge of the traffic laws.

INCAPACITATED PERSONS

The last requirement has aroused considerable controversy. There are some advocates of a licensing law who would bar deaf persons from the steering wheel.

They would also disqualify one-legged or one-armed persons, unless they had attachments which would serve as well as their lost limbs for driving.

But in cases where such physically incapacitated persons showed they could handle a car as well as a person with two arms and two legs, these say, the laws should be lenient enough to give them the privilege of driving.

GOLD PLATED AUTO

When you see a yellow-trimmed automobile on the streets, don't think it has brass trimmings. It may be the $25,000 auto with gilt fittings made by an Indiana firm.

BABY MOTOR CARS

NASH SIX BREAKS PALOMAR HILL CLIMB RECORD OF TEN YEARS STANDING

The Nash Six holds the famous Palomar Hill climbing record!

Word comes from California that a stock sport model, previously driven 6,800 miles in four weeks, has broken the record of ten years standing from the foot of Palomar Mountain to Baily Hotel, a distance of 12.7 miles. The time was 34 minutes 40 seconds on a raise of nearly 5,000 feet; in one stretch of eight miles there are 80 sharp turns.

The former record established in 1912, by a car stripped to the chassis, was 35 minutes flat. Twenty cars since have attempted unsuccessfully to lower that record. It had come to be regarded as unbeatable until last week when William Halbritter, owner of a Nash Sport model expressed a firm conviction that a Nash Six would "outstrip anything on four wheels on any hill in the country."

"Then climb Palomar Hill," he was told. So the climb was arranged. Mr. Halbritter placed Walter Polcke at the wheel, his only instruction being to "break the record."

The official report of the run relates that although the roads were bad, after 7 inches of rain on the mountain, the start was made, and the record established. The car had its top up and carried three passengers.

KEEP USING HAND

Do not neglect the hand signal is the warning sent out to automobile drivers by officials of the automobile clubs of America. The fact that there is a stop signal on the car, they say, is no excuse for eliminating the hand signal by which the driver behind can tell which way you intend to turn.

MOST CAR MODELS ARE SIXES

Six cylinder cars are gaining in popularity.

Thus, in spite of the fact that 70 per cent of the automobiles being driven today are of the four cylinder type.

But based on the number of different models produced today, 67 per cent are sixes.

These figures are taken from a recent investigation into the production of automobiles in the United States. According to this survey, the number of auto manufacturers has decreased from 123 in 1921 to 106 at the end of last year. Models produced also diminished, although as greatly—from 153 to 156.

Production of sixes in 1922 amounted to about 60 per cent of the models. Now it is around 67 per cent.

cent. The percentage of eight and 12-cylinder autos remains about the same, while the number of four-cylinder models has dropped from 30 per cent in 1922 to 22 per cent this year.

LIMIT ON AUTOS

As a solution to the traffic congestion problem, Traffic Court Magistrate Frederick B. House, of New York, suggests that the number of pleasure vehicles permitted on the streets might be limited by law. "If the legislature will not pass such a law," he says, "the police power may be exercised."

CHECK UP ON BRAKES

A car going 20 miles an hour should stop under proper control within 38 feet. If your car doesn't do this, except by slamming on the emergency, the service brakes should be adjusted.

BABY MOTOR CARS

MILLIONS of FAMILIES

"I will build a car for the multitude"

Said Henry Ford in 1903—Read how the fulfillment of that prophecy is now made possible through the

Ford Weekly Purchase Plan

For many years it has been Henry Ford's personal ambition to make the Ford the universal family car—to put it within the reach of the millions of people who have never been privileged to enjoy the benefits of motor car ownership.

During the past fifteen years over 7,500,000 Ford cars have been placed in the hands of retail customers—more than a million and a half of them within the past twelve months—and yet there are still millions of families who are hopefully looking forward to the day when they can own a Ford.

And now the way is open.

Under the terms of this plan you can select your Ford Car, set aside a small amount each week and you will be surprised how soon you will own it. In the meantime your money will be safely deposited to your credit in The Lima Trust Company where it will draw interest.

Think it over. Five dollars will start an account. The whole family can participate in it—father, mother, brothers and sisters each doing a little.

Why not start today. Stop in and talk it over with our local authorized Ford dealer, THE TIMMERMAN MOTOR SALES CO. They will be glad to fully explain the details of the plan and help you get started toward the ownership of a Ford car.

MOTOR CAR DEMAND AT RECORD HEIGHT

To Continue Thruout Year is Prediction of Hawisher Motor Co. Studebaker Dealer

Reports reaching the Studebaker factory from all over the country show that retail sales of Studebaker cars for the year to date, have beaten all previous records," says the Studebaker dealer.

Cars have been purchased by the public as fast as they arrived. They have been ordered for immediate delivery to waiting buyers, rather than to take care of the usual spring demand, and as a result there promise to be a serious shortage of Studebaker cars during April, May and June.

Several factors have contributed to this record-breaking demand for Studebaker cars. The first undoubtedly is the over-growing appreciation of the automobile as the indispensable necessity it is in the life of today. Another factor has been the open winter the country over, with the exception of a few sections. Then, too, the increased percentage of closed car production has emphasized the insistent winter demand.

The so-called seasonal demand is a thing of the past. Today we have an all-year demand in the winter as well as the spring, summer and fall—in the last six months of the year as well as the first six months. And the public benefits from this in a way it may not perhaps appreciate. Speaking for Studebaker, for instance, I may say that a steady, consistent demand for our product permits of greater manufacturing economies than a sharply fluctuating demand would, and the public gets the benefit of greater dollar-for-dollar values.

One of the greatest advantages we have is the fact that with the Studebaker line we do not have to lose sales because of not having the type of car the buyer wants. The complete line is an advantage in any business. The piano dealer, for instance, knows he is wasting his time trying to sell a customer an upright when that customer wants a baby grand. The piano man carries both kinds, and player-pianos besides.

"So it is with us. With thirteen body types on the Light-Six Special-Six and Big-Six chassis, we have a range and variety of models, open and enclosed, to fit every taste and purse, and this is an advantage not only in selling a man his first car but in selling him his second, third, fourth or fifth and keeping him continuously a Studebaker owner."

PUNCTURE-PROOF TUBE
A strip of cord extending near the outer edge of a new form of inner tube is said to keep the tube from being punctured as easily as otherwise. The cord also is said to increase the tube's resiliency.

There are 1,200,000 professional chauffeurs and drivers in the United States, it is estimated.

STUTZ FACTORY

Officials Go East for Conference With Schwab

President William N. Thompson and Sales Manager Fred Wilson of the Stutz Motor Car company of America, Inc., have gone to New York for a conference with Mr. Charles M. Schwab—the first since the famous steel magnate and controlling factor in the affairs of the Stutz company returned from his recent trip of investigation abroad.

Affairs of the Stutz company are in excellent shape, according to the officials of the Stutz company. The introduction of the moderately priced Stutz Six has enabled the company to extend its operations immeasurably, adding scores of new dealers and annexing a number of large distributors in territories where the company previously had no representation.

Retail sales everywhere have advanced to such proportions that the Stutz plant is working tooth and nail to keep abreast of the demand for cars. Not content to wait on rail deliveries of the cars on order, distributors and dealers are besieging the Stutz factory at Indianapolis, so that drive-away of large numbers of cars are a daily occurrence.

"We estimate that our present connections alone will be able to assimilate the minimum production which we set prior to January. We are running away ahead of our original schedule now. In February we trebled our January production. March will show an even greater increase than that over the month preceding. From all indications we will have to augment our production again in April.

REAR WHEEL TIRES
It is good practice to place weak tires on rear wheels. A front tire blowout may cause the car to swerve dangerously. There is less danger in case of a rear tire blowout.

STREET CAR GOING?

Is the street car to see its last days? Signs of it are seen in New York, where a plan is afoot to motorize its cross-town and suburban lines. Commissioner Grover A. Whalen, who has charge of street transportation, is at the head of this movement.

DAY BY DAY

In every way: America is encircling the globe with automobiles; Automobiles are becoming more and more complete; The automobile is becoming more and more an all-weather, all-season vehicle; The efficiency of the automobile is being increased more and more thru simplification and interchangeability of parts and units; The automobile is becoming more and more essential in social, commercial and industrial life; The automobile industry is developing more and more along railroad lines; The automobile is meaning more and more to millions of men and women in terms of human freedom.

Nearly 2,000,000 autos were shipped by rail in the last year. A national overhaul week is suggested to motorists. Paris held the first motor car exhibition.

SCULPTOR WORKS ON MOUNTAIN

To Cut Faces of Confederate Heroes in Rock

USES PICTURE MACHINE

Flashes Photographs at Night to Get Outlines

ATLANTA, Ga. — (Special) —

Giant ghosts figures flicker nightly across the vast expanse of Stone mountain, near here.

Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson and Jefferson Davis can be seen leading into battle hosts of men, ill clad and poorly equipped but determined to die for a cause they hold sacred.

Superstitious negroes shun the Stone mountain region. But others know these ghost figures are not a visitation of the supernatural but are children of a projecting machine operated by Gutzon Borglum, famed sculptor, who is performing the greatest projection feat on record.

Southern women have engaged Borglum to carve a giant Confederate memorial at a cost of $2,000,000 on the side of Stone mountain, said to be the largest mass of solid rock in the world.

Borglum conceived the idea of "marking" the mountain by means of a giant motion picture machine. At last his scheme has worked.

FLASHES PICTURE
With his projection machine Borglum flashes pictures across the great black mass as easily as if he were operating a motion picture theatre.

From a slide of 2 1/4 inches the machine throws a picture 200 feet high upon the face of the great granite monolith.

With this remarkable projector the pictures of figures Borglum wishes to inscribe may be thrown on the mountainside.

Borglum will cover the mountainside with nitrate of silver, which will form a black sheet.

Then the figures will be cast and a developing fluid sprayed over them, thus producing them in outline upon the mountain.

PAINT OUTLINES
The next day, workmen will be lowered from the top and, with white paint, trace the outlines of the photos.

Then, from his workshop, 600 feet from the base of the mountain, Borglum will determine whether the pictures are in the right place. If not, they can be rubbed off and others substituted.

Actual carving of the memorial will begin May 1, says Borglum. Twelve years will be required to finish the vast project and hundreds of skilled workmen will risk their lives hanging from the mountain top to carve out the giant figures from miniature models made in Borglum's studio. Completed, the memorial will take its place as one of the wonders of the world.

Use News Want Ads

It's jammed full of it.... hard riding cowboys.... picturesque Basques.... battles for water.... shooting scrapes.... gang fights.... attempted lynchings.... dynamiters.... shepherders.

GREATER SERVICE POSSIBLE BY USE OF MULTIPLE LISTING

Bureau Toils to Overcome Heavy Influx of Properties From Lima Realtors.

Even the multiple listing bureau of the Lima Realtors' association is only a week old, the listing of property with it by the various members of the association has exceeded all expectations. It was announced Saturday.

With many cards yet to be received at the bureau, the chairman of the committee, J. I. Motter, announced that the office was overloaded and that it would be necessary to employ extraordinary methods to handle the listings.

Work involved in the handling of the listings can be seen when it is remembered that every property listed exclusively with one member of the Realtors' association is made available for every other member by the distribution of 36 cards, one to each office.

One hundred listings mean 3,600 cards to be placed in each office of the association. As each set of 36 cards turned out by the bureau are different in practically every respect from every other set, the problem involved is easy to see.

Through the operation of the system, members of the Realtors' association feel that they will be able to give a much greater service to the public in its purchase or sale of realty. Motter pointed out.

Even the each owner deals with only one agent in selling his property and pays only one commission when it is sold, he knows that all buyers are being reached, as the system places his property in the hands of every member of the board and they become active agents for it.

Buyers will also be benefited by the system in that every Realtor will have available all of the choicest properties in the city and it will be unnecessary to shop around in an effort to find a suitable home or better prices, Motter said.

Property owners in the city are responding to the new plan and with the coming of spring weather, Realtors believe that an active real estate market will be seen.

Many new homes are under construction and as the greater majority of these will be listed with the association, it can be seen that buyers will be able to get new modern homes if they so desire.

Offices of the multiple listing bureau are in the Keystone building, on W. High-st and are open to the public. All questions regarding the working of the system may be answered by calling them, L. T. Layport, executive secretary, points out.

Operation of the multiple listing system in Lima will be as successful as it is in other cities, members of the association feel, and every possible effort is being made to increase real estate service in the city.

OHIO LEGISLATURE SOON TO QUIT

Is on Recess Now Until Latter Part of Month.

GOVERNOR DONAHEY IN LUCK

Executive Holds Upper Hand in Political Struggle.

THE LIMA NEWS BUREAU
Columbus, April 7
COLUMBUS—(Special).—Now that the Ohio General Assembly is soon to follow the Congress of the United States into the dim and shadowy past, the season will be at hand for making comparisons and checking up on the impressions that have been left.

In seeking to give a sort of snap shot of the state of the mind of the public in Ohio, testimony has been sought from all quarters, factions and groups. The picture may represent some permanence or it may be a collection of what old Omar called "moving shadow shapes that come and go" and as transient and fleeting as the pictures in a movie.

With this thought in mind there may be recorded the fact that at the present the reading public rather has the opinion that Governor Donahay has points over the Republican majority in the General Assembly and that the margin is not even a close one. Leaving out of consideration the relative merits of the positions (for we are writing of practical, hard-boiled politics, which does not always take account of merit and right or wrong) the impression has grown stronger rather than otherwise that the Governor has represented the desires of the people and that the legislative branches have played obstructive politics by refusing co-operation, by raising taxes, by increasing appropriations and by ignoring his every recommendation, without having the courage to meet his propositions boldly and fearlessly.

Whether the public utilities situation, or the highway situation, or the matter of taxes or governmental organization or other issues be considered, the moral initiative has remained with the Governor. Even the political bosses here have said most unkind things about the legislative leadership, if there has been such a thing, concerning their grouches more particularly on the management of affairs in the Ohio Senate where Senator George E. Kuyler of Henry-co has been a sort of vicerey for the invisible government of William E. Halley and others. Murmurs of discontent have grown louder as the week has come to a close and a few more days would lead to open challenge of the tactics employed.

Looking back over the session, it has been defined as a season of luck for the Governor, who is literally said to have lived in a shower of horseshoes. From petty fault-finding as to his message, the General Assembly passed to the point where it strove to ignore it entirely, but later found this program would not do, as some of the propositions would be too hard to handle. Then again another twist was taken and an attempt was made to get the Governor to give his blessing on the body and its deeds or idleness by bargaining with him for a couple of bills in pawnbroker style. When he threw out such a proposition as unworthy, the General Assembly was forced to consider a couple of bills just for appearance's sake at least. In the messages, however, the Governor has been given the finest chances, for which he ought to thank heaven. This applies equally to the acts of commission and omission, to borrow a somewhat overworked phrase. Why, only this week the Senate invited him to give it a good swift kick on the subject of workmen's compensation appropriations. Others saw to it that a couple of friends of the system were placed on the conference committee to include the kinks in the bill. The people interested in workmen's compensation will believe that Governor Donahay alone brought them favorable consideration and they are not far wrong at that. The truth is that the developments have only made too clear that there has been a deep plot to wreck the administration of workmen's compensation in Ohio and to prevent employers and employees making any further progress in improvement of the law. The conspiracy, if that's the right name for it, went to the point of a plot against the bill agreed upon by the parties in interest, a tale which tells the desperate nature of the opposition. The reports that came to Columbus from city place and countryside are uniform in one respect. The citizenry has a way of saying, "No telling what those fellows would be doing if Vic wasn't watching them!" They are going by the record.

Nowhere has the ineptitude of petty partisanship been more severely condemned than in the rejection of the appointment of William A. Hopkins of Cincinnati, as member of the Ohio Public Utilities commission. There is on record a challenge from the Governor to go into the question of his qualifications and the manner of his appointment, omitting no detail that might be of interest. But what was the answer? Silence and lots of it and then a vote of rejection. Had this been accompanied with specific reasons, recited either in the record or on the floor in statements, there might be some understanding of the matter. The afterthought of the House of Representatives in passing a bill to require the commission to write opinions and to hold hearings in the communities where applications to increase rates have been filed does not appear to have modified the position substantially. The Governor's real central demand was for something that would enable him to make the commission function. The giving of a credit and hard will not be interpreted as substantial compliance with the petition. It was even reported that President Warren G. Harding used the situation far better than men on the ground and suggested the confirmation of Hopkins. Likewise, party leaders in Ohio who do not want to go up against public utility bills, urged that at least so much be done. It was all in vain. There's some deeper reason and the future will bring it out.

tempt to lift George T. Poor and Frank B. Maulier, the majority members out of their seats after the General Assembly goes home, is another matter. There are reports that the Governor has material for charges that will stick and that he will not be afraid to complete the task on which he was set. Quiet boasts have been made that the Ohio Supreme court, being in control of a substantial Republican majority, can be depended upon to balk him. Dependence upon partisanship in a court has been justified, as former Governor Harry L. Davis can testify in respect to his emergency clause in the reorganization ripper. But water has passed over the dam since then and new elections are coming on. The hands have not yet been played out and predictions at this time are more or less idle. Dissensions about the outcome exist among the Governor's opponents and none among his friends, which is the significant thing, whether further steps are taken or not.

Of all the matters that will await the disposition of the Governor when the session shall have adjourned, none will be bigger than the Pinelock bill for sending women misdemeanants convicted without a jury trial to the women's state penitentiary at Marysville and to compel men to labor on the public highways. It is commonly called the "ball and chain" bill because under its terms there is literal even to the ball and chain be not even the ball and chain be not physically used. Reference has been to the spiritual side rather than to the actual instrumentalities of torture. It is strange that in all the consideration of the bill not a half dozen newspapers or men of standing outside legislative halls have been found to support the bill, although goodness knows, every effort has been made to get them. There has not been a political leader who did not admit that the act is fraught with grave danger, not only from the ground of hard-boiled politics. The very employment of the term, "ball and chain," gives some idea of the manner in which this reversion to human slavery has been accepted everywhere in Ohio. Nor is it without significance that the Senators who voted for it, with few exceptions, have privately said they are ashamed of it. They have been joined by members of the House who passed it before the issue had been clearly drawn. Senator J. F. Burke of Lorain, perhaps, above all the rest, leads in the keeness with which he feels the humiliation, for he had the courage to denounce the conspiracy bill. Nor is it unworthy of recital that the very newspapers which first supported prohibition and stood by former extreme legislation with greatest zeal have been loudest in their denunciation of the bill. Its passage was a triumph for the kind of lobbying done by James A. White who set his head and started to go thru the line. He's partly done it and now must buck the Executive. Where will Governor Donahay stand? There's the question. It will remain of record that it was solemnly proposed to call the bill an act "to revive the Spanish Inquisition, to create bolshevism, to penalize poverty and to restore human slavery."

White White got away with the "ball and chain" bill, he had no such luck in seeking to get Ohio to go into his code his equally infamous conspiracy measure. This instrument of torture, the uses and purposes of which are of almost infinite scope, was denied him. Here, too, the same central facts prevailed as in the b. and c. (ball and chain) as in the b. and c. (ball and chain) of prohibition legislation and could no longer be defended as needful to the purposes of the Crabbie act. Even the favor of saving his face by generously granting the Ohio Senate in the Keen normal school fiasco, was denied to him and his numerous substitutes were tossed over the back fence, along with the tin cans and ashes of the session. Only gradually did the full horror of the proposal reach the membership and with real deliberation came rejection. Above all, was it realized that the measure required the commission of no overt act in order to establish a "conspiracy" and that the rules of evidence now confining the proof to the specific allegation were to be swept aside for the introduction of hearsay, innuendo—or "insinuating" as an Ohio statesman said—gossip, rumor, suggestion and whatever else might come within the fancy of an overzealous prosecutor.

tor. Vale "Conspiracy!" May you never be seen again!

If the Governor was fortunate on the Public Utility matter he was thrice lucky on the Highway Department program. He fairly swam in charms. The refusal of Leon C. Herrick, the hold-over Davis official, to get out enables him to take the department to pieces so that when he begins to build up again in July, after Herrick is compelled, willy nilly, to quit buying coal tar and patented highway materials, he can have his own sweet way. From indications, there will be nothing that Herrick can do between now and the time for packing his kit and traveling except to finish up old contracts and draw his salary. Every time he thinks of a move, Governor Vic thinks of a letter to tell him not to do it. But still he sticks! Donahay is just lucky enough to have contractors threaten to go into court to test the Governor's right to stop the dispensation of gravel in the contracts for materials. Naturally, if the courts hold against him, they must take the responsibility. Later on in the inspection, the Governor can make the contractors rue the day they were born, if he wants to. Our lightning calculators can figure for themselves how much a contract will be worth if the Governor does not want them to have it. We give it up.

While the wise men have been reviewing the state situation, it may as well be recited here as any other place, that the friends of President Harding have been making some reviews, too. They freely confirm the truth of the reports as to the Governor's standing with the laity and what may account for the demand, which is said to have been voiced by the President, that the General Assembly get gone before it has an opportunity to make more friends for Donahay. But there is considerable shaking of heads when the President's own standing with the people is mentioned. For instance, the greetings of the colored Republicans to the Democratic victory in Chicago, which they helped to make, was not reassuring. What they said on hearing that the city went Democratic had a singularly ominous sound and was more singularly nearly universal to be comforting. Generally, it seems to be the impression that the President's hold on his own party members is getting weaker rather than stronger and that he is not in as good shape as he was a few months ago. The worst of it is that the trouble is ascribed to no particular cause. Of course, there is much mention of Hon. Harry M. Daugherty as the cause, but the complaints are general rather than specific. "Things ain't right," is the most general complaint. Even a little wave of business revival caused by resumption of building has not hit the spot quite right. The uncertainty of the foreign policy and the half way conversion to the League of Nations as contained in the tentative stand for the World Court has just left everybody guessing. It doesn't even give anyone a slogan to shout for and the attempts to say something for the President driven down into stuff like Attorney General C. C. Crabbie and Secretary of State Thad M. Brown framed up at Lancaster a few evenings ago. Number three of gigantic accomplishments was that the President "unbarred" the White House gates, to which might have been added that he held a very successful Easter egg rolling, appointed Sherman Cuneo to a job, saw that his white pants got to Florida on time, took the golf course in one less than par and achieved other things like the expressions on the sale bills, "too numerous to mention." How the people complain in the face of such a record of achievement!

Final enactment of the Calvert bill this week will bring the state into possession of one of the beauty spots of Ohio, the John Bryan farm in Greene-co. It comes as a gift absolutely free, thru the will which has now been upheld. The provision against religious exercises on the grounds, which was once such a bar to acceptance, has been satisfactorily explained away, as the lawmakers took the high ground that if such exercises had been commanded, the tract could not have been accepted under any terms. The enactments of the session, practically closed tonight, will also include a little something for reforestation and for purchase of additional lands, altho the steps are lame and halting and hesitating, chiefly, let us assume, because there are no contractors here to push them along. It's different with buildings and with highways. They help President Thompson of Ohio State university and the other institutions get away with millions where the good of future generations has scarce hundred thousands. In a word, folks, reforestation will never succeed until contractors and material interests get into the situation. Selah!

Speaking of the creation of fat chances for Governor Donahay, let the sundry claims bill be considered. It's lousy with them. Here, for instance, is the coal bill which was held up by the courts on the suits filed by Messrs. Pealer, Walton and Thrallkill, the busy triplets who kept Harry Davis in hot water and drove Floyd Waite and Edward J. Shattuck out of the city. The first master commissioner's report was rejected and another one framed. But what do you suppose happened when the claims bill was made up? Why, it was predicated on the first report and Pealer and Walton yelled for bloody murder. Thrallkill's voice might have been heard even from King Tut's tomb where he was spending a vacation. Did that make any difference? Nunnno! The truth is that it did not in the slightest. The majority was set to pass the bill and it did. Sharpen up the old veto pen, Governor Vic, and get set for the big fun!

MARCUS.

BULOVA WATCHES

Is Your Watch a Time Piece or Only an Ornament?

OF course you want a beautiful watch. You have the right to expect that. But you do not want a watch for beauty alone. If it fails to perform the service for which you intended it—to tell the time correctly—then its beauty vanishes with its continued impracticability.

BULOVA watches are beautiful watches. You may choose them for their design, alone, resting assured that they will always tell the time on time.

POLICE FAIL TO LOCATE MEN WHO ROBBED SHAFER

Police Saturday night were seeking two men who held up and robbed George Shafer, in charge of the Para Oil company service station, Market and Pierce-sts., of 20 gallons of gasoline Saturday.

Shafer told police he didn't know what make of car the men were driving and was unable to get the license number. He later said he believed it was a Hupmobile.

The two men drove up, ordered gasoline, and after he filled their tank, one of them stuck a gun in his face and then both drove away.

Drivers of a fleet of Hupmobiles from Cincinnati were taken to police headquarters and questioned, but later released when no evidence was found against them. Besides the loss of the gasoline, Shafer said there was $10 to $12 gone from the station after some of the drivers bought gasoline.

POLICEMAN INJURED

TOLEDO.—Motor patrolman Frank Hauch, former waste high school football star, was severely injured in an automobile accident here Saturday night.

FEW TRUANCY CASES ARE REPORTED, ALTHO WILES OF OPEN CALL TO YOUTH

Call of the stream, the woods, baseball diamond and other places where youths delight to gather in the springtime, provide a few wiles for Delphos school boys to resist, according to Barney Von Lehmden, truant officer.

Remarkably few cases of truancy due to the advent of warmer weather have come to his attention, Von Lehmden said Saturday. He has charge of 1,360 pupils of the public school system and St. John's parochial school.

The fishing fever has seized upon several, but the baseball diamond provides the greatest lure, he said. The truant officer reported he is handling several cases which may have to be turned over to county juvenile authorities. They are of the chronic variety, he declared.

Parents or guardians of each absentee are given a two-day notice to conform with the law, requiring all under 16 years old to be in school. If the order is not obeyed in that time the case is referred to juvenile authorities.

As a rule, Von Lehmden said, he finds willingness to observe the law. Ample leeway is allowed those families who find it difficult to send children to school. Distribution of shoes and clothing is made in cases of destitution, under direction of the truant officer.

FRANCE MAY QUIT RUHR SOON

Plans for Withdrawal of Troops Believed Under Way.

BACKED BY GREAT BRITAIN

Movement Started at Conference in London.

PARIS.—(United Press).—An impression persisted in Paris Saturday night that an end of the Ruhr deadlock is at hand.

Agreement between France and Germany, involving British accord is a probable outcome of Louis Loucheur's more or less mysterious visit to London. Loucheur, leading industrialist of France, is understood to have acted as a sort of "Colonel House" for President Millerand.

Millerand is anxious that settlement of the Ruhr question shall be marked resumption of an "entente cordiale" between his country and England.

Premier Poincare's adamant attitude towards the situation may be influenced, it is felt, if Loucheur brought back a promise of British accord with a settlement that would involve withdrawal of French troops from newly occupied areas. France, while determined to "see it thru" in the Ruhr, wants to resume friendly relations with Great Britain.

APPROVAL SECURED

Loucheur is thought to have laid before British officials the latest scheme of French industrialists and to have secured tentative approval of the plan. He was informed of Germany's latest peace feelers. He made it clear there had been no weakening on the part of France and Belgium and succeeded in dissipating somewhat the ill feeling towards his country created by invasion of the Ruhr.

This is what the French press understands unofficially to have been the purpose and accomplishments of Loucheur's London trip. Papers opposed to Poincare go further, suggesting the present premier is about to fall and be supplanted by someone who can effect agreement with Germany.

One way or the other, it is felt here that a way out of the present Ruhr deadlock has been found and will be taken.

Loucheur went to Rambouillet and reported to President Millerand, a circumstance which created quite a sensation in political circles. It is unprecedented for a president of France to intervene under such circumstances as exist and the conference lent color to reports that Millerand approved in advance of Loucheur's London trip.

It is understood here Mr. Poincare is well satisfied with the industrialists report indicating England's policy shows a tendency to line up with that of France. The French policy, Poincare insists, has never been changed and will not be.

Politicians believe the result of Loucheur's talks with British ministers will be that England and France can agree upon a policy which the former then can propose to Germany. Initiative in negotiations must come from the Cuno government that Poincare insists.

CENTRAL HIGH NEWS NOTES

(BY FRANKLYN DOAN)

Central High students are showing great interest in the Junior play which will be given by the class of '24 Friday evening in the high school auditorium. "The Judson's Entertain" will be presented.

As this is the first venture of the class into dramatic activities it is looked upon as a chance to show the real worth of the class. Tryouts have been held every night during the past three weeks and parts are now known to perfection.

Included in the cast are: Misses Constance Mayer, Jane Tinker, Althea Ludwig, Sybil Evans and Mary Churchill; Joseph Fritz, Robert Schaffer, Fred Roberts, Howard Shepherd and Donald Friedley.

The Troubadour Dramatic society will hold its regular monthly meeting Wednesday in the study hall. A play entitled "Dinner at Sever Sharp" will be given by a capable cast. This will be one of the last few meetings of the year.

The Central High school Annual Mirror will go to press the latter part of this week, according to Luther T. Spayde, editor-in-chief. Work on the book has been carried on during the past three months and most of the art work and copy is now ready for the press. Those in charge believe this year's annual will be one of the best ever turned out by a graduating class.

Diplomas for those who will graduate in June are being lettered by a number of art students. This will be the last big job for the Art department, members of which designed all plates for the Annual Mirror.

A date for the Annual Penny carnival, given each spring by the Girls' Welfare society, will be set at a meeting sometime during the coming week. The club holds a conspicuous place in school circles because of its philanthropic work. It is thru the penny carnival that money is obtained to carry on club activities.

Members of the football and basketball teams of the school will be entertained by the faculty at the annual banquet either Thursday or Friday of this week. The event is one of the most popular of the school year and is given by the teachers in recognition of the service given by the school's athletes.

Faculty Manager Detrick is planning to bring some famous athlete or coach to speak the boys. Impromptu addresses will be given by captains, captains-elect and coaches.

The Astronomical club will go to Scott's Crossing this week to visit the observatory there, according to plans announced Saturday by R. J. Theibert, faculty supervisor. It had been decided to make the trip last week but inclement weather caused postponement.

An open discussion on the origin of man was held at the regular meeting of the Archaeology club last week. A series of papers telling the "Story of the Rocks" will be given by several members at the meeting Wednesday.

Excursions into the country are being planned by the Bird study club. It is the purpose of the club to study habits of various species and rapid strides are being made, according to Miss Fennell, leader.

The "C" association will meet Thursday, when a captain for next year's basketball crew will be selected. Several candidates are being considered for the post and a hot political battle may ensue.

The Senate, H-Y, Commercial Club and House of Representatives met at their respective times and places last week. Elmer McClain, local attorney, spoke to the Senators on the value of debating. The other three clubs disposed of routine business.

"BOTTLED SUNSHINE" FOR KIWANIS HERE TUESDAY

Judge Ben Lindsey, of Denver, declares that Dr. Elwood is the most eloquent lecturer on the platform today and his reputation as an orator is national wide.

No other business will be transacted by the club Tuesday, in order that Dr. Elwood can give the complete lecture. The luncheon is called for 11:45.

IRISH REBELS JAILED AT RATE OF 200 WEEKLY

DUBLIN.—Capture of Eamonn De Valera, phantom president of the "Irish republic," alone remains to be accomplished before the rebellion against the free state is brought definitely to an end.

Insurgents who still follow the elusive rebel chieftain are being imprisoned by national troops at the rate of 200 a week. Kevin O'Higgins, secretary of state for home affairs, announced Saturday. Progress at this rate will see the last of organized irregular bands behind the bars by midsummer, he estimated.

HIGGINS SUES IN CANINE ATTACK

Alleges "Savage Brute" Caused Damage of $5,000.

Wounds inflicted by the teeth of an alleged vicious canine may cost the White Mountain Creamery $5,000.

The dog is said to belong to the dairy concern and the wounds were suffered April 6, 1922 by Jonathan R. Higgins, maple syrup king, while passing the E. Wayne-st. barn of the dairy. Failing to obtain bail by private settlement, he has instituted suit in court for the sum named.

Higgins recites that the dog has a fierce and dangerous disposition and is accustomed to attack and bite mankind. His description pictures the animal as a large, savage brute. Higgins was passing the company barn, he says, when the dog, angered at his presence, rushed forth.

Higgins was seized firmly, he says, by the calf of the left leg and bitten. Then the animal released him to take hold on another portion of his anatomy.

Higgins declares he was ill six weeks, lost his business, and incurred a $36 doctor bill. The incident shocked his nerves and caused him great physical and mental suffering.

Higgins recently headed a movement to block sale of the city hall.

Employees of the dairy affirm that the dog which stayed at the barn was a small female rat terrier. She was poisoned several months ago they say.

"If she bit him," declared a dairyman, "it was only a mere scratch." "Maybe," he suggested, "he was around there when she had puppies. He should have stayed on the sidewalk."

MUNICIPAL LEAGUE GETS SENTIMENT ON BUNCHING STREET WORK CONTRACTS

Replies to questions sent out by the Ohio Municipal league regarding methods of receiving bids for paving contracts were received Saturday from Kenton, Lancaster and Xenia, C. A. Bingham, president, stated.

The letter declares that receiving separate bids on each paving project is a "retail" business which increases the cost of paving, as many expenses that are added to each separate bid would be calculated in the cost only once if the contracts were considered as one job.

Mayors of Kenton and Lancaster agreed with the league that the present method is unbusinesslike. The mayor of Xenia declared that by legislative juggling of high degree Xenia had on one occasion profited by letting several streets on one contract. In this case the streets were connected and considered legally as one job.

When full replies from other cities are received, the league will tabulate results and prepare suggestions for state legislation to permit municipalities to receive one bid for any number of projects.

INCREASE NOTED IN OIL FIELD

Ft. Recovery Territory Opens Up With Spring.

Oil activity in the Ft. Recovery field, for which Lima is an important distributing point, has increased greatly with the opening of spring weather, local oil supply men declared Saturday.

Zartman & Green Bros. brought in what is estimated as a 100-barrel well on the Bower farm the latter part of the week and four wells are to be completed Monday in that vicinity.

Robinson & Mandell are rigging up No. 3 well on their lease in the Ft. Recovery field and the Mondak Oil & Gas company is drilling well No. 6 on the Gerlock farm.

Foster & Clark are drilling No. 5 on the Charles Miller farm and Kendall & Co. are drilling No. 3 on their lease nearby.

Other operations in the Ft. Recovery field are: Rex Pyramid Oil company drilling No. 3 well on the Miller lease; C. C. Bunday is drilling on his lease on the Heaton farm; O. W. Neely is drilling No. 1 test on the O. E. Current lease; George Wright & Company is rigging up No. 2 on his lease at the H. A. Walls farm.

Of local interest is the activity of the Carman Botkin & Co., who finished No. 4 on the Younkman lease last week. The well is a nice pumper.

Local oil operators state that the entire country around the Ft. Recovery field is leased and there is promise for increased development this summer.

100 CHIROS ON WAY TO LIMA

To Visit Fellow Practitioners in County Jail.

More than 100 chiropractors and patients from Ft. Wayne and other cities are scheduled Sunday to visit fellow practitioners in the county jail Sunday.

The pilgrimage to Lima to visit the incarcerated chiros was to have been undertaken two weeks ago but was postponed.

Many of the Hoosiers will drive over by motor. Plans for receiving the visitors at the county jail are being made by Sheriff Cresson. His office will probably be the reception room for the occasion.

The four chiros, Glenn V. John, G. L. Potter, B. F. Swann and E. K. Madson, entered on their fifth week in prison Saturday. They have to serve and may have to stay on nearly two weeks of their 41 days additional 34 days if court costs are not thrown off.

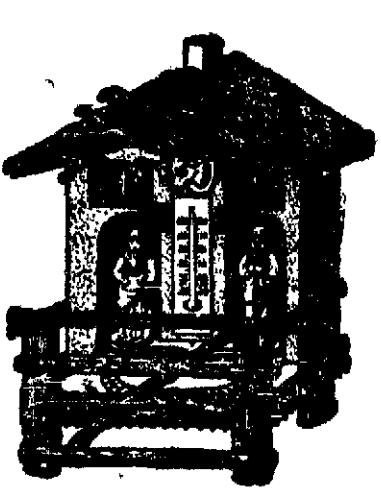

No date has been set for hearing the motions for new trial filed by H. R. Bruff, naprapath, and Paul and Theresa Lerner, chiropractors. While the others have been on the outside looking out these three have been on the outside looking in. Justice Guyton, before whom the cases were tried will overrule the motion, it is believed.

Delphos May Be Given 30-Foot Paving

3 STREETS TO BE IMPROVED

Council to Discuss Extra Wide Project Plans.

WILL MEET HARDING HIGHWAY

Solicitor and Prosecutor Hold Parley in Lima.

Delphos council will discuss Tuesday night the possibilities of construction of a 30-foot pavement on Lima-av, Spencer-av and South-off, the route of the Harding highway approach into the city.

City Solicitor R. A. Lindemann, was instructed at the last meeting to confer with Prosecuting Attorney Eugene Lippincott relative to the project. The conference has been held, Lindemann declared, but he is not in position to discuss the result, he stated.

Preparations were made at the last meeting for Lindemann to introduce a resolution for the 30-foot improvement in council, but this halted until there are grounds for belief that the county and township as well as the property owners want the improvement to be 30 feet wide. It is expected the resolution will be introduced Tuesday night, even the consent of the other bodies has not been received. The fact that council places itself on record as being in favor of a 30-foot improvement may result in the other seeing the project in the proper light, councilmen believe.

This city will pay two per cent of the cost and the intersections, the county 50 percent of the remainder, Marion-tp and the property owners each 25 percent.

The Harding highway approach is one of the most important means of ingress to the city. With the completion of the new Delphos city park, plans for which are rapidly going forward, a 30-foot improvement will be needed, according to councilmen, to take care of the heavy traffic.

Difficulties besetting the city treasury may occupy considerable time at the meeting. Issuance of deficiency notes to tide the city over until July will be considered. It is doubtful if the city's light bill for March can be paid, according to City Auditor W. H. Shaffer. The city was barely able to meet its light obligations for December, January and February, which amounted to over $1,500, he added.

TERMS OF LEASE HALT REBUILDING IDEWILD CLUB EAST OF DELPHOS

No plans have been made to rebuild the Idlewild clubhouse, which was burned in January. Halting of the plans is due to terms of the lease on the grounds, according to officers of the club.

The land is owned by Henry Berheide and was leased to the club for 30 years, with an option for an additional 20 years, providing Berheide was living at the end of 20 years. Thirteen years of this lease has expired, leaving only seven years more on the original lease. Should the club house be rebuilt and the original lease expire in seven years, the building would revert to the estate of Berheide, officers state.

This clause in the contract will prevent the club from erecting such a pretentious structure as formerly, for such a short period of years, officers said. The former club house was erected at a cost of $15,000.

FIRST GAME OF SEASON AT DELPHOS ENDS IN 6TH

"Speed" Bigelow and "Butler" Paul were going great guns on the Delphos high school grounds in the first official baseball game of the season before it broke up in an argument.

The seventh graders, whose twister was Ethelbert Paul, had held the eighth graders even at 9-9 despite the fact that the doughty Russell Bigelow worked for them on the mound.

Great soaring extra-base hits were knocked out of the lot by the grammar graders, who will soon have the honor of meeting the freshmen.

George Sisler's style was out-classed repeatedly at first base and Cobb was outshone by the youngsters who patrolled the outfield.

But it all ended in the sixth on a disputed "out" by King Hendrickson at second base. The sandlotters congregated at the disputed station and endeavored to throw it out, but everybody wanted to be chairman of the grievance committee and the initial baseball session of the year ended in a stalemate.

DELPHOS CIGAR FACTORY CLOSED INDEFINITELY

The San Tolmo Cigar Manufacturing company of Detroit will close its factory in Delphos, Tuesday, according to a statement made by officials of the company Saturday. The shutdown will throw 170 people out of work.

Market conditions are given as the cause of the shutdown by the superintendent from the Detroit factory.

No information was received as to the length of time the factory would be closed, but officials of the company expressed hope Saturday that it will only be temporary.

The factory was formerly owned by Hans Bros. who started operations last May. The present owners took over the plant in September and have been running at full capacity up to the present time.

A large delegation of Kiwanians from Ottawa is expected to be present. McArthur spoke at the Kiwanian dinner at Ottawa recently.

Committee in charge of the program Monday comprises of A. E. Davis, L. G. Baxer and W. J. Scott. They have also arranged for a jazz orchestra to entertain members of the club during the luncheon.

FINAL REHEARSAL FOR DELPHOS K. C. "FOLLIES"

Final rehearsal for the K. C. of "Follies of 1923" will be held Sunday afternoon at the St. John's auditorium, Delphos, according to Charles C. Cleveland, producer. The show will be given Tuesday and Wednesday nights at the auditorium.

The production has been brought up to perfection and Delphosians are promised a rare treat in the way of home talent shows, if promoters assert.

UNION NEWS STAND AT DELPHOS DISCONTINUED

One of the most familiar sights to people visiting Delphos passed out of existence Saturday, when the Union News company moved its stand out of the Ft. Wayne, Van Wert and Lima traction office. This news stand had been established there for more than 10 years.

Decrease in amount of business due to less traveling by the publicly rail was given as the reason for discontinuing the business, according to L. G. Bingham, local manager.

DELPHOS SHOPMEN WILL REPAIR DAMAGED CARS

All rolling stock in a wreck near Toledo when one was killed and three others injured, has been repaired at the Delphos shops of the P. St. L. & W. Railroad.

A string of boxcars, gondolas and tank cars have been taken there for repairs by Joseph Murray and his crew of workmen. One boxcar is badly smashed, but the remainder are in fair condition.

The locomotive from which A. W. Thomas and Peter Puerst, Delphos engineers, jumped to save their lives when it crashed into a trolley train, will be taken to Frankford, Ind., for repairs.

Real Beer Is Destroyed By Delphos Chief

Many were the sighs that were heard around the City building at Delphos Saturday, when Police Chief H. A. Kehres dumped 40 bottles of beer into a sewer.

The beer was taken in a raid from a farmer near Delphos last fall and had been allowed to ferment since that time in the safety vault of the police station. The case has been disposed of in the courts.

Chief Kehres expressed belief that the beer might ferment to such an extent that it would explode, due to warm weather.

A large amount of confiscated "hooch" held in the vault was not destroyed.

Former Monarch Caught Spooning

DOORN. — (United Press). — Those who seek to make out that ex-Kaiser Wilhelm and his bride, the Princess Hermine, are not happy and may separate permanently, should see the royal couple spooning in the castle park.

Shortly before the princess left for Silesia to visit her lands there and see her two sons, home from school in Germany, Wilhelm and Hermine were caught in the act by a number of Dutch villagers who had approached to the iron fence about the park.

The former monarch, striding along vigorously, caught sight of his bride and swept his wide-brimmed hat in a low bow—majestically. Then he rushed forward, dropped his hat, put his good arm about Hermine, crushed her to him and planted a long kiss on her lips—for all the world like Joe and May out in the grove.

OWNERS OF 12 TAGLESS AUTOMOBILES ORDERED INTO COURT AT DELPHOS

War was reopened Saturday night by Delphos police on autoists who violate the license law. Upward of 12 tagless machines were red-tagged by Patrolman Al Humphreys. Each car owner was ordered to appear before Mayor J. K. Williams Monday.

Police began a month ago to place red tags on autos unprovided with licenses, but owing to uncertainty which then surrounded the supply of 1923 tags, the mayor released all offenders with a warning.

There is no excuse now for machine owners neglecting to buy tags, police say.

DELPHOS POLICE WILL WAR ON VIOLATORS OF STATE JUVENILE LAWS

Delphos police are expected to wage a crusade against violators of juvenile laws which prohibit proprietors of pool rooms from allowing minors in their places of business, as a result of complaints received from school authorities.

The matter was brought to attention of Chief of Police H. A. Kehres Saturday night. He declared every precaution has been taken to prevent youths from congregating there and shirking their school duties, but occasionally they will escape notice.

S. C. Warner, principal of Delphos high school, said frequenting of such places by youths who should be in school has become alarming. He urged more strict administration of the law.

Barney Von Lehmden, local truant officer, reported having found cases of truancy attributable to loitering and warned that attention of county juvenile officers may be called to the matter.

It is proposed to have copies of the law covering such violations conspicuously printed and posted within each place of business where school youths may gather.

TOLEDO — Building operations here the first three months of this year have totalled nearly $4,000,000, two and a half times what they were in the first quarter of 1922, figures of the city building show.

U. S. BLAMED FOR RUHR INVASION

FAILED IN POST-WAR DUTY

Ex-Governor Declares America Can End Europe's Troubles.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—(United Press). —Responsibility for a large part of Europe's troubles was laid in a large measure at the door of the United States government by James M. Cox, Democratic standard bearer of 1920, in an address Saturday night before the Saturday Night Club of Buffalo.

Cox declared solution of the reparations problem is by no means impossible if America will participate, and outlined a plan by which settlement might be reached.

"I violate no confidence when I say," said Cox, that in the French official mind, there is another reparations figure, never yet articulated, a figure which the French believe Germany really can pay.

COX NAMED

"In Germany, I asked Von Helfferich, who was the Kaiser's chancellor, how much Germany could pay. He named a figure.

"I asked Von Helfferich also if the German government would be willing to submit to an economic survey by Herbert Hoover—an American remembered by Europeans as a good Samaritan, a man with an unique genius as an economic diagnostician—and Von Helfferich said Germany certainly would be willing to have Herbert Hoover seek to determine how much Germany can pay."

Governor Cox did not mention the figures named by the French and Germans, but declared they were "surprisingly close together."

Failure of America to participate in the post-war affairs of Europe, was declared by Cox to be largely responsible for the failure to settle the reparations problem; for the Kematist war in Turkey and for the occupation of Ruhr by France.

"But the first thing to be done," the first step to be taken," Cox declared, "is to take the whole foreign question entirely out of politics in this country."

U. S. MAY STAND ALONE

BUFFALO, N. Y.—(United Press). —Lord Robert Cecil speaking as "an apostle of world peace," told an audience here Saturday that the United States soon may be the only nation in the world outside the league of nations.

"England," he declared, "will support Germany's application for membership in the league. Turkey already has made overtures to join and that will leave the United States alone among the nations of the world outside this organization."

Lord Cecil declared he did not come to America to "dictate the course of your government," but "as an apostle of world peace, offering the league of nations as a medium for its accomplishment."

"In Europe," said Lord Cecil, "we consider that there are only two theories of living open to the world in the future. One is a return to the old militaristic idea, a way with nations at each other's throats. The other is to accept and advance the league of nations plan."

"The league has two main objects to accomplish. First, is the Association of all nations together for the advancement of the world in general."

Lady Mary Cambridge is betrothed to the Marquis of Worcester. Her engagement to the Prince of Wales was frequently rumored and now gossip in London society circles is that Lady Mary refused England's future king when he proposed.

SAGE BRUSH

What does it mean to you?

The name spells dreariness, loneliness, a God-forsaken wilderness to many—a desert region fit only for the coyote and jack-rabbit.

To others, the sage-brush vista rolls back a vision of the future, when water from distant streams will transform the desert into fertile farms.

But to all, it suggests adventure, frontier chivalry, cowboys and thrilling events, when mentioned in connection with western fiction.

A splendidly written story of the sage-brush areas of Nevada is

FANS, HERE'S YOUR CHANCE TO TELL HOW YOU THINK BIG LEAGUE CLUBS WILL FINISH

How do you think the big league clubs are going to finish this year? What two teams are going to meet in the world series games at the end of the long season's grind? Which two managers will close the season with their charges in the highest places in baseball's hall of fame for the year? The News wants to know what the fans of Lima and surrounding

To Enlarge Kite Meet Here

The kite contest is proving too popular for the present limitations—it is going to be enlarged. There have been so many requests for entry blanks for boys over the age limit that members of the Kite Club committee in charge have decided to have a separate class for older boys.

The present age limit is 13 years—the other class will be over that age and up to 60. They will build and fly their own kites according to the rules.

ON APRIL 21 The contest here will be on April 21 and is to start promptly at 1 o'clock at the Allen-Go Fair Grounds. In case of rain it will be postponed one week.

Entry blanks should be turned in as soon as possible. Francis P. O'Connor, chairman of the committee in charge said Saturday. The blanks should either be delivered at the gas office or mailed to the Kiwanis Kite Contest Committee, Postoffice Box 17, City.

Prizes for the contest will be on display in the window of the Leader store during the coming week. Kites must be brought to the fair grounds for registration not later than 10 o'clock on the morning of the contest. Contestants will go to the part of the field designated for the "strongest pulling" class if they wish to enter in that contest and fly their "birds" at 2 o'clock. Judging will be done at 3 o'clock.

Awards for the box kites will be made on neatness, durability of construction and ability to fly. These must be on display at 11 o'clock. BATTLE The kite battle will be one of the interesting events of the afternoon. It takes place at 4 o'clock. Saved and cutting devices will be fastened on to kites and cords in an effort to cut down opponents' kites, the surviving kites win.

All boys in Allen-Go and Lima are eligible to enter. One kite may be entered for each class but one kite only can be entered in one contest for each class. Entry blanks must be filed for each kite entered. Kites must be constructed by the contestant.

ALL-STARS' BASKETBALL GAME IS CANCELLED

The basketball game between the South Central All-Star and the Lima Business College quintet, scheduled to be played Saturday night at the Y. M. C. A., was cancelled at the last minute.

C. E. Roundbush, South high principal, felt that he could not permit the players to go under the name of South Central so long as they were still connected with the high school. As I. G. Maxwell, "Y."

physical director, explained to players, he could not allow the game to be played unless school officials sanctioned it. This the South principal refused to do and so Maxwell declined to allow them the use of the floor.

Players on both teams felt that they were no longer under the jurisdiction of the school as far as athletics are concerned since they are all ineligible to play high school athletics anyway.

GLEASON PREDICTS SOX WILL BE IN FIRST DIVISION

Manager Kid Gleason of the Chicago White Sox is the first big league leader to make a prediction for 1923.

Gleason is positive that the White Sox will not finish worse than fourth. Kid isn't claiming any pennant, merely insists that the Sox will finish in the first division, fourth or better.

Gleason didn't make such a prediction until he was reasonably certain that Eddie Collins would again captain and play second base for his team.

"Without Collins there is no telling what might happen to us this year," says Gleason. "His absence from the lineup would make a big hole in our infield that couldn't be filled by any other second baseman in the American league."

"I have the best catcher in either major league in Schalk. I have the best second sacker of all times in Collins. I have the most effective pitcher in the league in Faber. In addition to the all-star trio I have many other capable performers."

"I am sure Kamm will greatly strengthen our infield. Scouts who should know tell me he is one of the best infielders they have ever seen in action. As one former star player put it in praising Kamm, you are surprised any time he fails to come up with a ground ball."

However, it is his pitching staff that causes Gleason to enthuse most. Gleason takes much credit to the developing of the present Sox staff, first adding that Ray Schaak made the boys.

Leverette, who went so well last year, should be an even better man this year with a year's experience to back him up.

Robertson, who has much stuff, should also show improvement. The no-hit game which Robertson pitched against Detroit last season is not a player reached first base, handicapped Robertson. He worked under a strain, as he felt that the fans everywhere expected big things from him. Incidentally, it is said that his remarkable feat slightly increased the size of his hat, which didn't help his work any.

In addition, Gleason looks for great work from the Blankenship boys this year. Ted has already arrived and his brother by many is regarded as even a better prospect.

SOME REASONS MACKMEN ARE FEARED BY OTHERS

Many reasons can be offered for the fear that all other major league clubs have for the Athletics.

First, is the fact that the club is directed by Connie Mack, the most resourceful manager in baseball.

Second, is the fact that Mack's infield now shapes up as one of the best in the league. No club can get anywhere without a strong inner defense. The Athletics have one.

Third, in Cy Perkins Mack has one of the best catchers in either league, a fine workman, capable of getting the best pitchers have.

Fourth and last is the punch team packs. The Athletics are a free hitting aggregation, a team as liable to make a dozen runs as a single tally.

The Athletics are a big inning team. A big inning club is never beaten until the ball game is over. Only the other day in a game against the strong Milwaukee team of the American Association, Mack's Athletics came thru with a nine-run session.

One or more big innings in every game is a rather common habit with the Mackmen. Usually the ball game is decided by such an uprising.

The ability of Mack's players to hit the ball is of course the big factor in making runs. However, Danny Murphy coaching at third base is the directing genius of every attack.

Murphy's knack of calling every pitch is uncanny. His tip as to what style ball is about to be thrown is as much responsible for the base hits that are made by the Mackmen, as the swing of the bat.

Here is Eddie Foster, born Feb. 13, 1888, who was a member of the Philadelphia Athletics back in 1907, regarded by Lee Fohl as a candidate for the third cushion in the Browns' lineup this spring.

When Fohl was asked to map out his plans on the 1923 team he placed Eddie Foster in the competition with Frank Ellerbe and the recruits.

"And why not Foster?" says Fohl. "Of course he is 35 years of age, but he's younger than Cobb, Speaker, Collins and other players."

"Foster played a prominent part in landing us a game away from the Yankees last season. Ellerbe was a cripple with a bad knee, Austin could not stand the strain more than three days and the youngsters were not experienced enough."

With Sisk for first, McManus for second, Greber for short and Williams, Jacobson and Tobin in the outfield, third base is the only position where there will be any competition with the Browns this spring.

Everything Set For Party

Jake Gross, Lima featherweight, has completed his training for the bout Monday night at the Elks' club with Joe Peppers of Cleveland.

This bout will be the headliner on the program at the Rotary club's party Monday evening for the New York Giant "Yanigans" and the Toledo "Mud Hens," baseball clubs, which play exhibition games here Monday and Tuesday afternoons.

A dinner will be held at the Elks' followed by sport talks and music. The Elks' glee club and Longfellow's orchestra will furnish music. Then there will be boxing for the entertainment of visitors.

It will be a very select crowd which witnesses the contests as only about 450 tickets have been sold and this number will pack the house.

Gross is looking mighty good and is hitting wickedly with both hands. Johnny Lundy of Brooklyn, has worked all week with Gross. The veteran trainer declares that Gross will develop into a great boy and has expressed confidence in Jake's ability to give Peppers a lacing.

Peppers will arrive in Lima Sunday and probably will be accompanied by Jimmie Dunn and Carl Tremaine. Both of these battlers have worked hard to get the Cleveland boy in shape for his fight here.

Young Brown will meet Cal Roddy of Akron in the eight-round semi-final at the Elks' Monday night. Brown has developed into a great little boxer in the past few weeks, according to the dope.

MAY BOX O'DOWD Earl Smith, boxing promoter, has had an offer from Louisville for Gross to box Mickey O'Dowd there on April 20. Gross has appeared there twice before, winning over Battling Barrerie, New Orleans, featherweight champion of the South, and Dick Loadman of New York.

There is also a chance that if Gross is victorious over Peppers on Monday evening he will be matched with Frankie Brown of Philadelphia who has fought Johnny Gibane twice and once got a newspaper decision over him.

Jimmie Andrews has signed to box Young Scotty ten rounds at Kanton on April 30. It will be their third meeting. These boys recently put up a slashing ten round draw in Kanton and the fans are asking them to come back.

Walsh "Helping" Kid Gleason

ED WALSH ASSISTING GLEASON

Ed Walsh, former White Sox pitching star, more recently an American League umpire, is back again with his old team, in the role of coach.

Walsh is taking the place of Johnny Evers as assistant to Kid Gleason. In the above picture he is shown in a new role as Gleason's assistant, literally "living" up to his title.

Walsh will look after the White Sox pitching staff. If Ed is able to impart his move to first base to recruits on the staff American League umpires are going to be kept busy, as Walsh had moved to first that caused more was for the umpires than all the other pitchers in the league.

EDDIE HEARN, YOUTHFUL VET, TO DRIVE DURANT

INDIANAPOLIS — Eddie Hearne, youthful veteran of speed duels, has been entered in the 500-mile drive over the bricks of the Indianapolis Course in the international race to be held in the Hoosier Capital, as usual, Decoration Day, May 24th.

Hearne is nominated as a member of Cliff Durant's team of four cars, and in Hearne, the millionaire sportsman has chosen a consistent, steady, heady pilot who is always a dangerous contender. With the rapid driving spirit of a youngster earning his spurs of stardom, he possesses the unerring judgment that comes with years of experience on the speed course.

Eddie Hearne is usually an odds favorite to complete the race as a member of the first division speeders. To win, place, or show with him almost every time he faces a starter. There is nothing flashy about his driving and in many races one could scarcely appreciate that Hearne was in the grind until it comes time for the checkered flag to make its appearance and you find that he is among the first to nod an assent to it.

It is one of the four drivers who participated in the opening 500-mile race at Indianapolis in 1911 who still sit behind the wheel of race cars. In 1919 he made his best drive when he finished second in a Durant to Howdy Wilcox who won with a French Peugeot.

REBUKE WINS BIG STAKE

Presenting Rebuke, winner of the Coltrith handicap, the feature event of the Tijuana, Mex., racing season.

A crowd of 40,000 saw some of the country's leading thoroughbreds fight it out for a purse of $37,500, said to be the largest sum ever offered for a single race.

Jockey Willie Poole was up on Rebuke and gave the J. K. Ross entry a fine ride. Rating his pace perfectly, Poole so handled Rebuke that when he called on his mount for the big effort Rebuke had something in reserve.

As the winner's end Rebuke takes down $29,475 for 2 minutes 6 1-5 seconds' work, the distance being 1 1-4 miles.

NEW RECORD SET IN AUTO CITY IS MARATHON

DETROIT, Mich. — Frank Zona, of Newark, N. J., established a new record for the annual automobile city marathon over the Pontiac-Detroit course here Saturday afternoon.

He covered the 25 miles in two hours, 34 minutes, 48 seconds, which is nearly five minutes better than the record for the event held by Chuck Mellor of the Illinois Athletic Club.

Thirty-eight runners, representing many cities in the United States and Canada, started from "Pontiac on the long grind."

CALIFORNIA WINS IN MEET FROM NEBRASKA

CALIFORNIA OVAL, BERKELEY, Calif. — The University of California triumphed over the University of Nebraska in a dual track meet between the two schools here Saturday afternoon by a score of 75 to 56.

Nebraska took an early lead by winning the 100-yard dash and the mile run but when the results from the field events began to come in, California forged ahead and soon had the victory.

JACK BENTLEY IN BOX; GIANTS WIN, 13 TO 1

MEMPHIS — Jack Bentley made his first appearance in the box for the Giants Saturday, and the champions romped off with a game with the Memphis club of the Southern League, by a score of 13 to 1. Bender starting the game, pitched four innings and then gave way to Jack Scott, who won the remainder of the distance. The Giants made 19 hits, one of which was a homer by Jimmy O'Connell.

PADDOCK TO GO TO PARIS

(By HENRY L. FARRELL) NEW YORK — Charley Paddock's decision to go to France and compete in the University of Paris meet against the wishes of the A. A. U. and some of the members of the American Olympic Committee, created a stir in athletic circles Saturday.

The discussion narrowed down to the question—What can the A. A. U. do if Paddock defies the organization and goes to Paris?

When Paddock announced that he had accepted the invitation of the University of Paris and would compete in the games, it was "unofficially" pointed out from headquarters here that no American athlete could be accepted as an entry in a foreign meet without the approval of the American governing body.

COLLEGE MAN

Paddock, in Pasadena Saturday, told the United Press that he was going to a college meet as a college athlete under the colors of the University of Southern California and that the A. A. U. had no jurisdiction over him when he was running as a college man.

Paddock admitted that he had not asked the approval of the A. A. U. and that he was going to sail anyway on the liner Paris on April 15.

NOT DEBATED The only ensure that Paddock is open to, is his failure to carry out the wishes of the American Olympic executive committee, which asked all candidates for the American trip to forego foreign trips this year and prepare for the international game in Paris next summer.

Even on this point Paddock is not guilty of defiance or less majestic. He would not make the trip if he thought he would injure himself, as he certainly wants to get in the sprinting events of Paris next summer.
